With this as his text, in 1855 or '56 the late Rev. Byron Sunderland, perhaps the most eloquent preacher of his day in Washington, delivered a sermon giving the history of the First Presbyterian Church, and it would be interesting to locate this account in the files of the late National Intelligencer. And now the historic old edifice in Four-and-a-Half street, after 99 years, is to be deserted, and the congregation will move far up town; but wasn't the old F street church, which stood where the Willard hotel now stands, and of which the Rev. James Laurie was pastor for an even 50 years, the first Presbyterian congregation in Washington?

COOLIDGE FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY IN VERMONT HOME

Episcopal Service Will Be Used for Father of the President.

EXECUTIVE'S PARTY TO RETURN SUNDAY

Arrive at Plymouth 12 Hours After Patient's Death; Part of Trip by Sleigh.

Plymouth, Vt., March 19 (By A. P.).—Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President, will be buried tomorrow in the cemetery near this little hamlet, in a simple manner, in keeping with his 80 years of life.

Arrangements for the funeral were made today after the arrival here of the President, who learned of his father's death while hastening to his bedside from Washington.

Services, brief and simple, will be held at 2 p. m. in the Coolidge homestead. They will be conducted by the Rev. John White of the nearby village of Sherburne, who will use the latest revision of the Episcopal burial service. There will be neither hymn singing nor eulogy.

President Here on Sunday.

After the burial the President and Mrs. Coolidge expect to start on their return journey to Washington, arriving there Sunday. The special train, which brought them to Woodstock, 16 miles from here, is being held for the return trip.

The President and his wife are spending tonight in Woodstock. On their arrival there shortly after sunrise this morning, they went to the Woodstock Inn for breakfast, then set out for Plymouth, traveling for 10 miles to Bridgewater Corners in a closed automobile and the remaining six miles in an open horse-drawn sleigh.

After an hour at the family farmhouse, where Col. Coolidge lay in death, they returned to Woodstock for the remainder of the day and the night. They are making their headquarters there. John, their son, a student at Amherst College, is with them.

10 Degrees Above Zero.

The Presidential party detrained at Woodstock to find the temperature about 10 degrees above zero and three feet of snow on the ground, drifted at places as high as a man's head. The sun shone brightly throughout the day and the temperature rose until by mid-afternoon it was just above the freezing point. Tonight, however, it became colder again.

Snowplows and gangs of workmen had worked far into the night to clear the road from Woodstock to Plymouth, and although it might have been traversed by automobile, it was decided to use sleighs and bobsleds for the last six miles. Stepping out of a limousine at Bridgewater Corners, the President and

Railroad Is Indicted On Short-Haul Charge

Erie, Pa., March 19.—An indictment against the Pennsylvania Railway charging violation of a short and long haul ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission, was returned by a Federal grand jury today. The indictment alleges that the railroad charged higher rates for hauling freight on a direct route between points in the Pittsburgh district than was charged between the same points by a more circuitous route.

Hinton, Transocean Pilot, Critically Ill

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). Lieut. Walter Hinton, pilot of the naval seaplane NC-4 on its famous transatlantic flight, was reported today to be critically ill of thrombosis. Physicians said that his condition was almost hopeless, but if he lived throughout the night he had a chance for recovery.

The aviator was stricken suddenly last night while walking home after a theater party.

Vera Cruz Women Accused of Sedition

Vera Cruz, Mexico, March 19 (By A. P.).—Federal secret service agents have arrested Mme. Mercedes Granes, sister of Vice Admiral Hilario Rodriguez Malpica, on charges of implication in a seditious movement. She has been employed in the naval department here. Other Vera Cruz women are said to be implicated.

Headhunters' Daughter Here to Learn Manners

San Francisco, March 19 (By A. P.).—Chavy arrived in town today, her face tattooed, but with her hair bobbed, and her conversation heavily larded with an English accent.

Chavy is the daughter of Chief Campa, of a tribe of nude headhunters in the wild interior of Peru. She is betrothed to another head hunting chief, although she is but 13 years old.

The girl, brought here by a party of missionaries, has accepted civilization, although Campa, her sire, has no hopes for a hereafter. Harland E. Stevens, head of the missionary party, said, however, that the chief is willing to have his daughter find out all she can about it.

Chavy will remain here for a month, then return to her tribe and endeavor to teach the mighty Campa some table manners.

LAST PLANE OF WILKINS EXPEDITION IS WRECKED

2 PREVIOUSLY SMASHED

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 19 (By A. P.).—The last of three airplanes of Capt. George H. Wilkins, explorer, was wrecked here today when the landing gear of the Detroiter, a three-engine machine, buckled, throwing the plane on its nose. An engine was thrown out of position and propellers bent.

The big ship, which was being started on its first test flight, had shot along the ground about 40 feet when the accident occurred. Capt. Wilkins, who planned an air expedition to hunt for land in the arctic region and a transpolar flight over the arctic wastes from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen, originally started with two three-motor airplanes and one single-engined machine. One of the big planes was destroyed January 17 when fire wrecked an experimental laboratory at the Ford airport at Dearborn, a suburb of Detroit.

Yesterday the single-engined ship named the Alaskan was smashed in landing after a test trial. The propeller, landing gear and fuselage were damaged. The plane hit a wire fence at the end of the landing field. Carl B. Eielson and Capt. Wilkinson, who were in the machine, escaped injuries. Today's smashup temporarily delays the Wilkins party from proceeding on the expedition.

Pallbearer, Hurt Lifting Casket, Sues

St. Louis, Mo., March 19 (By A. P.).—Asserting that he strained himself lifting a heavy casket while acting as a pallbearer at a funeral, Theodore W. Mertens, St. Louis, today filed suit against the Arthur J. Donnelly, undertaking company, asking $5,000 damages.

Mertens charges the company with negligence. He said he was one of two front pallbearers, in carrying the body of Mrs. Mary Mahan from a church and that he was strained when the man opposite him weakened and released his hold on the casket.

TACNA-ARICA PARLEY BELIEVED UNDER WAY

Direct Negotiations Between Washington, Santiago and Lima, Is Report.

Arica, Chile, March 19 (By A. P.).—Direct negotiations are understood to be going on between Lima, Washington and Santiago, with the view to overcoming the present deadlock in the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary situation. Within a few days the plebiscite commission will hold a meeting and the parties are desirous at all costs to decide the question as to whether a plebiscite is to be held or not.

All the delegations are silent. Some of the officials say they are not being consulted by their governments, while others frankly refuse to give information.

General Petroleum In Standard Merger

Los Angeles, March 18 (By A. P.).—H. L. Pratt, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, who is in Los Angeles today, said that a tentative agreement had been made for the merger and consolidation of the General Petroleum Corporation with the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

DIRIGIBLE'S BATTLE IN FURIOUS STORM FOR HOURS, IS TOLD

Plunging of RS-1 Called Worse Than That of the Shenandoah.

13 PERSONS SUFFER HUNGER AND THIRST

Craft Noses Her Way Over Scott Field, Ill., in Gale Most of Night.

Cambridge, Mass., March 19 (By A. P.).—The army dirigible, RS-1, was victorious on January 27 in one of the most furious battles ever fought by aircraft against the wind, it was revealed for the first time today. Two struts on her control car were broken when she attempted to land at Scott field, near Belleville, Ill., and she was forced aloft, there to remain for fifteen hours while her crew of thirteen suffered from cold and hunger.

The story was told by Charles P. Burgess, associate professor of aeronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was on board as technical observer. Prof. Burgess also was on the navy airship Shenandoah on the night, more than two years ago, when she broke loose from her mooring mast at Lakehurst, N. J.; he said the experiences on the RS-1 were more trying than those on the Shenandoah.

On Her Third Trial Flight.

The RS-1, in command of Lieut. O. B. Anderson, had been aloft for four hours on her third trial flight. He was warned by radio that high winds were expected and he headed for Scott field. By the time the dirigible was landed and was being pulled toward her hangar the wind had so increased in velocity that she began to pound on the ground like a vessel in heavy breakers. Two struts on the control cabin were smashed and Lieut. Anderson, seeing that the ship would be wrecked in further attempts to house her, ordered the engines started and ground lines freed. It was then 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Besides Lieut. Anderson and Prof. Burgess, the RS-1 carried Lieut. John Salsman, radio officer; Lieut. R. E. Robillard, airship expert, and a crew of nine enlisted men.

With the struts broken, only suspension cables held the control car as the airship began and continued her forced flight. Those on board thought of what the survivors of the Shenandoah had said after that dirigible went down in Ohio last summer with the loss of many lives. The last noise those men heard from the control car was the crunch of breaking struts.

Nothing to Eat or Drink.

"Soon after we went aloft," said Prof. Burgess, "we discovered that not a crumb or a drop of beverage was left from our noon lunch. Some one found a few onions, but they were of little comfort."

The RS-1 headed into the wind and keeping as near Scott field as possible worked away from the center of the storm disturbance. The wind was coming from the northwest, and the ship was plunging wildly, "far more violently than

Theater Managers Plan Guild With Closed Shop

New York, March 19 (By A. P.).—The closed shop clause in the new contract recently submitted to theatrical managers by the dramatists' guild of the Authors' League of America, was ratified at a session of the managers' committee today.

William A. Brady, chairman of the managers' committee, made it clear there was a movement on foot to create a "managers'" guild.

"Inasmuch as the managers are the only persons connected with the theater who are not organized," Mr. Brady said, "I see no reason why a group of business men cannot get together and look after their rights. A managers' closed shop would mean that no playwrights would show a play to any person other than a manager who holds membership in the managers' association. At present there is no managers' association."

REWARD OUT FOR WOMAN "HIT-AND-RUN" AUTOIST

$100 Offered by the Police for Arrest of Fashionably Dressed Driver.

FOUR HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, yesterday offered a reward of $100 to any one who will furnish the police with information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the fashionably dressed woman whose automobile yesterday struck Mrs. Albert Mann, 60 years old, of the Mendota apartments, at Fifteenth and G streets northwest, and then sped away.

Mrs. Mann was not seriously injured and was treated at her home. Police have been instructed to search for the woman "hit-and-run" driver. The car had New York license tag No. 9V-7330, police were told.

Four other persons were injured in automobile accidents in this city yesterday. Henry C. O'Brien, 74 years old, 408 Third street northwest, was slightly injured on the legs when his automobile collided with an automobile driven by Frank C. Groh, of Toronto, Canada, at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. O'Brien was treated at his home.

Jack Tucker, 18 years old, of Seat Pleasant, Md., was injured when he was hit by an automobile driven by Mack Wachwitz, 3905 Rhode Island avenue northeast, while he was crossing the street at Bladensburg road and M street northeast. He was treated at Casualty hospital.

Miss Lottie Tapp, 53 years old, 3140 M street northwest, was cut on the face by flying glass when an automobile, driven by Carroll Tapp, of Ballston, Va., in which she was a passenger, collided with an automobile driven by Laurence Coleman, 130 K street northwest, at Twenty-seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue. Miss Tapp was treated at Emergency hospital. Her condition is not serious.

Blanche Duvall, colored, 23 years old, 313 B street northeast, was cut on the face and body when an automobile driven by Sylvester Gray, colored, 7 Terrace court northeast, in which she was riding, collided with an automobile driven by Henry W. Bryce, of Boston, at New Jersey avenue and C streets. Miss Duvall was thrown from the automobile by the force of the collision. She was treated at Providence hospital.

ARM POINTING ALOFT TO PROCLAIM 'STOP' IN TRAFFIC SIGNALS

Rule Promulgated When Officials Discover Two Kinds Used.

BECKONING OF POLICE WILL BE SIGN "TO GO"

Discourtesy and "Hard-Boiled" Tactics to Citizens Placed Under Ban.

Police officials last night ascertained to their surprise that there has existed in the Capital no uniform method in giving "go" and "stop" signals with their arms by traffic policemen. Maj. Hesse adopted and promulgated one—arms aloft for "stop;" the "go" signal will be a beckoning wave of the arm.

The traffic law, in dealing with this subject, simply says that the signal shall be "clear and distinct." Some traffic policemen have been halting traffic by extending their arms in a horizontal fashion; others have been holding an arm aloft. Consequently there has been much confusion among motorists.

Spirited Discussion Had.

After a spirited discussion last night, it was decided that hereafter all traffic officers shall use their arms as described in the foregoing.

The matter came up at a meeting in the District building called by Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning, which was attended by 55 police sergeants and virtually all of the precinct commanders and other officials. The purpose was to bring about a closer liaison between the sergeants and their superiors and subordinates.

The discussion revealed that there were two "schools" regarding signaling, one led by Inspector Charles A. Evans and the other by Lieut. Ben Lamb. This was revealed when the time came to show the sergeants how signals should be given.

Inspector Evans, in his demonstration, held his arms in a horizontal position. Lieut. Lamb, who followed him, held his arms aloft.

Asks "Which is Right Way?"

"How about this?" declared Capt. Fred Cornwell. "Inspector Evans holds his arms one way and Lieut. Lamb another way. Just what is the right way?"

"There doesn't seem to be any uniform way," interjected Maj. Hesse, superintendent of police. "But we are going to adopt one before the night is over."

The meeting was then turned over to a general discussion, and about the only official who remained silent was Capt. Albert J. Headley, who once was regarded as Washington's premier traffic expert, but who was deposed as inspector in the charge of the traffic bureau.

Hesse Makes Decision.

Maj. Hesse finally announced that the method advocated by Lieut. Lamb had been adopted as official, and he asked the sergeants to instruct their men accordingly.

A campaign to stamp out discourtesy and "hard-boiled" tactics on the part of policemen was

BISHOP BAST GIVEN 3 MONTHS IN PRISON

Found Guilty of Conversion of Charity Funds, but Other Charges Fail.

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 19 (By A. P.).—The Rev. Dr. Anton Bast, Methodist Episcopal bishop of Scandinavia, was found guilty by a jury today of the fraudulent conversion of 182,000 kroner ($47,684) of charity funds.

The bishop was exonerated on the second clause of the prosecutor's charge, that of making public appeals for charity, based on "more or less shamelessly falsified accounts."

He was also cleared on the third clause, of fraudulently converting to his own use 55,000 kroner ($14,410) belonging to the Central mission.

Bishop Bast was sentenced to three-months' imprisonment.

King George Puzzled By Futuristic Art

London, March 19 (By A. P.). King George gave an indication of his attitude toward futuristic art today. Visiting an exhibition of paintings by Canadian artists, he came across an effort done in the bizarre effect of the futurists.

"Is it a dog or a fish?" he asked.

CHEVY CHASE RAIDS LIFT POLICE HOPES OF DRY CITY

Two Homes Entered; Stills, Mash and Alleged Liquor Are Confiscated.

ONE MAN IS ARRESTED

Following two raids in the fashionable Chevy Chase section yesterday, police believe they have at last penetrated the heart of a ring of alleged bootleggers who have been redistilling denatured alcohol and flooding the city with their product.

The raids were carried out by Capt. Guy E. Burlingame and his flying squadron, aided by Lieut. McGill Groves and Detective Harry Cole, of the Fourteenth precinct. The houses entered were 5310 Forty-first street and 4613 Thirty-eighth street.

Leo B. Curry, 30 years old, was arrested at the Thirty-eighth street address. He was charged with manufacturing and selling intoxicants.

Entering the Forty-first street house, police found two stills, one as yet incomplete and both of 150-gallon capacity. They also found and confiscated 81 gallons of alcohol, 10 barrels of alleged peach mash, and an automobile in which was found 10 gallons of alcohol.

At the home of Curry the police confiscated 85 gallons of alcohol and 5 gallons of alleged gin. In both places, police say, the ingredients for manufacturing intoxicants were neatly stacked about the room.

The information, which led to the two raids yesterday, was obtained in a raid two weeks ago on an establishment at 1346 H street northeast, which Curry is alleged to have maintained also. A 200-gallon still, a quantity of alleged liquor and mash was found in that raid, police say.

SENATORS DECIDE TO HOLD HEARINGS ON WET MEASURES

Sessions Are Expected to Be Begun Early Next Month.

SIX DAYS ALLOTTED TO OPPOSING SIDES

Edge Says Testimony Will Be Constructive; Wheeler Prepares Defense.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The first definite move in an attempt at modification of the prohibition laws was made yesterday, when the subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee voted to hold public hearings on several bills designed to bring about such modification.

Senators Means, Goff, Harreld (Republicans) and Reed, of Missouri (Democrat), voted for the hearings to begin about the first of next month. Senator Walsh was alone in his opposition.

On Monday the subcommittee will make its report to the full committee, and indorsement by the full committee is expected as a matter of course. There will be a time limit imposed on the testimony from both sides, each having six days to present its case. The first innings will be given to the proponents of modification. The following bills will be considered at the hearings:

Bills to Be Considered.

First—Senator Bruce's bill to amend the Constitution so that the government may regulate and control the sale of intoxicating liquors in the manner practiced by the Canadian government.

Second—Senator Edge's bill for 2.75 beer.

Third—Senator Edge's bill abolishing the restrictions imposed on physicians in prescribing for their patients.

Fourth—Senator Edwards' bill for 4 per cent beer.

Fifth—Senator Edge's bill to permit wines which are not "intoxicating in fact" and to eliminate the one-half of 1 per cent restriction.

The effect of the subcommittee action admittedly will be far-reaching. It is the first breach in the heretofore impenetrable armor of the prohibition forces, backed by the Antisaloon league. To Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the league, the action is as unwelcome as it is offensive and will be simply a medium for the opponents of prohibition to spread their views before Congress and the country. But Mr. Wheeler accepted the situation with courage and prepared to rally the dry forces and arrange for the presentation of enough "dry propaganda" to offset the efforts of the wets.

Promises Propaganda.

"We will have representatives of our various groups at the hearings," Mr. Wheeler said yesterday. "I myself will appear. There will be representatives of the W. C. T. U., the women's law enforcement commission and others.

"Of course, this was put on for propaganda purposes by the wets, but we'll give them more propoganda than they want. Our position from the beginning has been that if any considerable group wanted a hearing they were entitled to have it. But no good purpose will be served by this investigation."

Senator Edge, who has led the fight for the public hearings, said he was gratified at the subcommittee's action. The limitation of time will necessitate eliminating many important witnesses from various parts of the country, he said, but he expressed satisfaction at having six days to present testimony after it had appeared that the prohibition forces would allow no time at all.

Says Law's Failure Conceded.

"Most of the testimony on the wet side will be constructive testimony in support of specific measures for modification," Mr. Edge said.

"There is no use spending any time demonstrating that the Volstead act is a failure," he added. "That has been already established, and I think is conceded by all."

In giving his reasons for opposing the action of the subcommittee, Senator Walsh said:

"I opposed the motion for the reason that, in my judgment, there is no expectation on the part of those asking the hearings that the Senate can be induced either to amend or repeal the eighteenth

ELDRIDGE IS CALLED INHUMAN IN DENYING PLEA OF PHYSICIANS

Two-Hour Parking for Patients at Medical Building Refused, They Say.

DIRECTOR PROPOSES BISECTING OF CIRCLE

Believes Paving Center of Park on Wisconsin Avenue Would Prevent Accidents.

Dr. Charles Stanley White, representing more than 90 doctors in the Washington Medical building, 1801 I street northwest, last night charged Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge with having a lack of humanness in turning down the plea of the doctors in the building for a 2-hour parking limit on I street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets northwest.

Nearly 1,000 patients are treated daily by the doctors having officers in the Medical building, Dr. White declared. A great many, he said, are crippled children, whose parents are forced to carry them in their arms for several blocks because they are unable to park their cars near the Medical building.

Open Space Not Enough.

At present, Dr. White declared, only a 25-foot open space is allowed in front of the Medical building. This proved inadequate to the needs long ago, Dr. White declared, but when a representative of the physicians went before Mr. Eldridge to urge two-hour parking near the building, the director of traffic turned a deaf ear to his pleas.

Cut by Car TRACKS.

Because motorists insist on cutting straight across the circle at the intersection of Wisconsin and Nebraska avenues, instead of following the line of the drive, Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge yesterday recommended to the commissioners that the pavement be extended through the middle, following the line of Wisconsin avenue. The purpose is to be reduce the number of traffic accidents at this point.

The circle is not paved and the pavement of Wisconsin avenue, except between street car tracks has not been laid at this point. The street car tracks cut straight through the circle. Motorists have a habit of following the street car tracks instead of going around and there have been several accidents.

"We tried putting up danger signs, with arrows directing them to drive around the arc of the circle," said Director Eldridge, "but they only knocked the signs down. So we have recommended that the Wisconsin avenue payement follow the car tracks straight across the circle, leaving half moons of grass parking on each side. Traffic from the other streets will traverse the circle."

Approved By District.

Mr. Eldridge said the engineering department of the District government had approved the suggestion and that the pavement would be laid that way.

It was announced yesterday that the standard construction of subways under railroad tracks, for elimination of grade crossings, has been revised so that supporting columns will be placed back of the curbs on each side of the streets passing under the viaducts. This is done to eliminate the traffic hazard of steel uprights in the middle of the streets.

Two-way traffic has been reopened in E street between Sixth and Seventh and Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, where the street has been opened to lay a water main, preparatory to widening. It has been closed to eastbound traffic for the same purpose between Eighth and Ninth streets.

Eleventh Street Reopened.

Workmen removing trees in Eleventh street northwest, as part of the widening project there, have finished their work between G and H streets and that block has been reopened to traffic. It has been closed between E and F streets for tree removal.

Director Eldridge complained yesterday about motorists who are cited into court for traffic violations calling him on the telephone late at night to try and beg off from court appearance.

"I never try to use influence to get a violator out of trouble," he said. "They are only wasting their time and annoying me."

Honors Are Awarded To Camp Fire Girls

The District Camp Fire Girls celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of the founding last night at the Wesley Methodist church. Miss Elizabeth Molster's group sang a new campfire song. The firelighting ceremony was participated in by Katherine Hobson, Elizabeth Spencer and Jean Chalmers.

National honors were awarded to the following girls: Rhoda Lewton, Elizabeth Wheeler and Katherine Hobson, who went to the White House to present gifts and greetings to Mrs. Coolidge, and to Jean Chalmers, Margaret Chalmers, Laure Wiehe, Pauline Bourdon, Margaret Crawford, Helen Greenwald, Olive Ruth Hathaway, Edris Dodge, Emily Nicklas and Frances Pickett, for work during the N. E. A. convention. Rhoda Lewton is going to New York to aid the June number of "Everygirl," the campfire magazine.

ALEXANDRIA JEWELER FIRES SHOT INTO HEAD

Ill Health Caused Courtney Acton to Seek to End Life Here, Police Say.

Courtney Acton, 53 years old, a jeweler of Alexandria, Va., despondent because of ill health for the last two years, attempted to end his life at his home, 1639 Hobart street northwest, yesterday afternoon, police say. He fired a shot through his temple while members of his family were in another part of the house. He was taken to Emergency hospital, where physicians said last night that he has only a slight chance of recovery.

Acton has been in constant pain for the last six months and has been unable to leave his home. His wife, fearing he might commit suicide, kept a close watch over him, police were told. Yesterday while she and other members of the family were sitting in the living room of their home, Acton went to his room on the second floor and fired the shot.

He was the proprietor of a jewelry store at 606 King street, Alexandria, Va. His brother was associated with him in the business.

KRESGES RECONCILED; SHE GETS $1,000,000

Will Live Together Again, Says Lawyer as Store Man Visits Spouse.

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). S. S. Kresge, proprietor of a chain of 5 and 10 cent stores, and his young wife, Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, have come to a financial agreement which is understood to have resulted in Mrs. Kresge receiving a settlement of $1,000,000. Her suit for a like amount on the grounds of breach of promise in a prenuptial agreement was ordered withdrawn today from supreme court.

Mr. Kresge appeared tonight at his wife's apartment with a suitcase, and departed soon afterward with Mrs. Kresge, but without the suitcase. Neither would talk to reporters. Max D. Steuer, attorney for Mr. Kresge, said it was his understanding the couple had decided to live together again. He said that no Kresge company stock was involved in the financial settlement.

I. C. C. to Hear Carriers April 26.

(By the Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday set April 26 to receive rebuttal evidence from railroads in the investigation involving readjustment of Eastern class rates. Trunk lines, central and New England carriers will be heard in the order named.

FENNING UPHOLDS SUPERVISION HERE BY BUDGET OFFICE

Commissioner Tells Senators System Is Best for Fiscal Affairs.

OPPOSITION IS VOICED BY REGISTER TANNER

Indications Are Senate Body Favors Deeds Branch Under Bureau.

Commissioner Fenning is opposed to any relaxation of the budget bureau's supervision over District fiscal affairs, he told the Senate District committee yesterday.

The budget system is the most business-like way of running the financial end of the government ever devised, he said.

"I want you gentlemen to know," he told the committee, "that I am wholly out of sympathy with the suggestion that inasmuch as Congress now contributes a lump sum to the local government its fiscal affairs should not come under the scrutiny of the budget."

Tanner Opposes.

Mr. Fenning appeared before the committee in behalf of the bill already passed by the House which would bring the registrar of wills and recorder of deeds within the scope of the budget. The measure was vigorously opposed by James Tanner, register of wills, who told the committee that in the long years he had held office he had built up an excellent system and an espirit de corps among his employes which he did not want changed.

The committee was wholly out of sympathy with him, however, and indicated that it would report the bill favorably. It also indicated that it was not satisfied with the amount of fees charged by the registrar's office. It was developed that no standard scale exists, but that the office makes its income fit its expenses. Sometimes the income lags and the office cuts off employes, Mr. Tanner said.

King Expects Profit.

Senator King, of Utah, declared that the office should show a profit.

The bill also carries authorization for the erection of a new recorder of deeds building.

The committee favorably reported the bill, already passed by the House to pay back retirement to firemen and policemen.

Autoist Warns Couple In Car; Is Arrested

Charles Carroll Morgan, a broker living in Chevy Chase, was driving past Chevy Chase circle last night when, he says, he saw a policeman crouching behind a parked automobile. A young couple were inside.

In passing the same spot later, Mr. Morgan said, he saw the policeman in the same position. He stopped his own machine, he said, and told the couple that they were being watched by a policeman. The policeman, W. N. Adrian, then stepped out, he alleges, and told him he was under arrest. It happened that one of the lights on Mr. Morgan's machine was out, and he was taken to the Eighth precinct station, where he deposited $5 collateral.

FARM LEGISLATION DEBATED IN HOUSE

Tincher Defends Committee Against Charges of Apathy for Relief.

(By Associated Press.)

Farm relief legislation, which has agitated the House agricultural committee for weeks, again became the subject of debate yesterday in the House when Representative Tincher, a member of the committee, arose to defend his fellow committeemen against charges of apathy.

His speech, in which he assailed the Des Moines farm delegation which has presented a relief bill, brought about a general exchange on both sides of the chamber, and finally Mr. Tincher was called upon by several Democrats to say whether he was a "spokesman for the White House, named to prevent farm legislation from being enacted." This he denied, declaring "the President has not said one word to me on this subject."

The House debate followed another appearance before the committee by F. W. Murphy of the American Council of Agriculture, who went again into details of the bill before the committee.

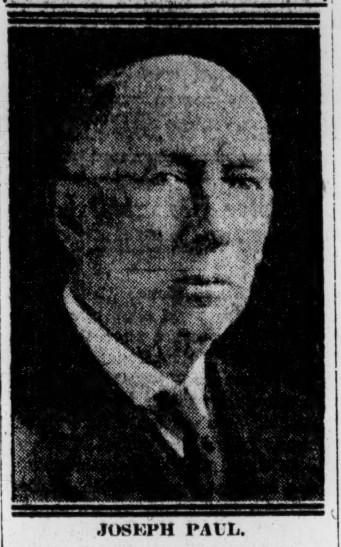
REALTY MAN DIES



JOSEPH PAUL.

JOSEPH PAUL, VETERAN REAL ESTATE MAN, DIES

End Comes After Lingering Illness; Funeral to Be Held This Afternoon.

FORMER BANK DIRECTOR

Joseph Paul, former director of the Riggs National Bank and the American Security & Trust Co., and a veteran realtor of this city, died yesterday morning, at his residence, 2400 Sixteenth street, after a lingering illness. Mr. Paul was born in Virginia, in 1844, and came to Washington about 45 years ago.

For a number of years, Mr. Paul was associated with the A. L. Barber Asphalt Paving Co. Later, he entered the real estate field and continued to engage actively in that business until his retirement a few years ago. Mr. Paul was the husband of the late Elva A. Paul, and lived at the family homestead, "Oak Lawn," at what is now known as "Temple Heights," site of the proposed new Masonic temple, Connecticut and Florida avenues.

Surviving Mr. Paul are two sons, Frank Dean Paul, of Leesburg, Va., and Dean Castleman Paul, of New York city; two sisters and two brothers. Mr. Paul was a member of the Chevy Chase club.

Funeral services will be held at his residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon, followed by burial in the Dean mausoleum, Rock Creek cemetery.

RITES FOR J. M. DURANT.

Attorney's Funeral Will Be Held Today in St. Margaret's Church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in St. Margaret's Episcopal church for James Maxwell Durant, 75 years old, for many years a practicing attorney here, who died at his residence in the Cordova apartments Thursday from heart disease.

Mr. Durant, in addition to being a lawyer, also served as a clerk in the office of the foreign trade adviser, State Department. He was graduated from the old Columbian college, now George Washington university. Surviving Mr. Durant are his widow, Mrs. Mary Justine Wilson Durant; two sons, William Wilson Durant, of New York, and James Maxwell Durant, jr., of this city; a daughter, Mrs. E. K. Burton, of Porto Rico; three sisters, Mrs. Melville Church, Mrs. M. H. Todd and Miss Louisiana Durant, all of this city, and a brother, Thomas Durant, of Washington.

RITES FOR MRS. M. WALDECKER

Funeral Will Be Held Monday in St. Paul's Church.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mathilde Waldecker, music teacher and composer in Washington for 52 years, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank C. Wood at Richmond, Va., Thursday, will be held Monday in St. Paul's Episcopal church. Burial will be in Rock Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Waldecker was the widow of Emmanuel Waldecker, who died in 1910. She was born in Manitowoc, Wis., in 1851, and came to Washington in the early sixties. For the last four years she had lived in Washington with her daughter. Besides her daughter, three sons, Carl R., of Baltimore, Emmanuel H., and U. B. Waldecker survive.

New Clew Traced In Taylor Murder

Los Angeles, March 19 (By A. P.).—A new clew in the William Desmond Taylor murder has been unearthed. Taylor, a widely known film director was killed in his home here in February, 1922. The slaying rocked filmdom.

After two weeks of denials, the district attorney's office admitted yesterday that the presence of District Attorney Asa Keyes in the east had a direct connection with the case.

G. A. R. AGAIN ATTACKS CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Protests Official Recognition of Southern Societies; Calls Lee "Traitor."

SAYS HANGING HIS DUE

The Grand Army of the Republic is stalking the Confederate veterans' organization at every turn in the latter's effort to perpetuate its lost cause.

Several weeks ago it was instrumental in having Senator Dale, of Vermont, take action to block the effort of the Confederates to have Lee mansion, in Arlington National cemetery, restored to its original form.

Yesterday there came a petition to Congress from George H. Thomas post, No. 84, department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R., protesting against official recognition to any Confederate societies.

The petition described Gen. Robert E. Lee as an "arch traitor." It protested against any society having for its purpose "the perpetuation of the memory of the rebellion or of those identified with it.

"There was no confederacy of States in fact, but an unsuccessful effort to establish one and destroy the Union.

"Robert E. Lee was a traitor to his country and the military leader of an armed rebellion against the government of the United States, having as its object the destruction of the Union, and if Robert E. Lee had received his just dues he would have been hanged and the scaffold preserved as a monument to his infamy."

Police Take 100 Guests At a Birthday Party

One hundred colored guests at the birthday party of Walter Burrows, colored, 34 years old, 1522 Third street northwest, were taken in five patrol wagons to police headquarters last night on complaint of neighbors, who charged disorderly conduct at the party.

Burows was held on a charge of running a place of recreation without a license, and the guests were released, to be called as witnesses. Police say that a woman at the door of the house charged 10 cents admission.

RIOT, FATAL TO 32, IS LAID TO RADICALS

Chinese Student Movement Feared by Authorities at Peking.

Peking, March 19 (By A. P.).—The Chinese government acted today to repress the radical movement among students and teachers, and attempted to throw on this movement the blame for shooting in front of the chief executive palace, as a result of which 32 persons, including two girl students, are dead.

The government ordered the arrest of half a dozen radical leaders, including the director of the Sino-Russian university, a former minister of education and professors in the National university.

It also prohibited mass meetings, yesterday's tragedy having followed a gathering of 2,000 students and other radicals to protest against the government's acceptance of the powers' ultimatum demanding clearing of the way from Tientsin to the sea.

Official circles said today the authorities fear the effects of the radical student movement.

Press Club to Receive Russians.

MAN, SLASHED BY RAZOR, ROBBED OF $6 ON STREET

Case of Fountain Pens, Valued at $1,500, Stolen From Roberts Store.

FRATERNITY CLOCK TAKEN

One holdup, in which a man was seriously hurt and robbed, and numerous thefts were reported to police yesterday.

Confined to his home, with one ear almost severed from his head, his nose and face severely slashed by a razor, Elwood I. Brawner, 417 North Columbus street, Alexandria, Va., told James Cunningham, a neighbor, of his encounter late Wednesday with two colored men at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Cunningham reported to police.

Brawner said the two men approached him and without warning attacked him. During the fight, one of the bandits wielded a razor. Brawner was robbed of $6 and left dazed in the street. He hailed a passing motorist and requested to be taken home.

Included in the thefts reported was the looting of a show case of fountain pens, valued at $1,500, from the store of W. F. Roberts, 1514 H street northwest. The robbery was discovered early yesterday. Thieves gained entrance by a duplicate key, police believe. Two well-dressed men jostled Thomas R. Cooksey, of Seat Pleasant, Md., as he was about to board a street car at Ninth street and New York avenue northwest, and picked his pockets of a billfold containing $5 and important papers.

Members of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, 1813 Columbia road northwest, reported the theft of a mantel clock and a large metal base floor lamp from the reception rooms of the fraternity house. The clock was engraved to "Lambda Chapter from Initiates of 1924."

SEGER URGES INQUIRY INTO TEXTILE STRIKE

New Jersey Representative Indorses Proposal for Congress Investigation.

(By Associated Press.)

Congressional investigation of the strike of textile workers at Passaic, N. J., was urged yesterday in the House by Representative Seger, Repulican, of that State.

Mr. Seger indorsed a resolution by Representative Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin, to authorize such an inquiry and read a telegram signed by the Botany Worsted Mills, of Passaic, urging him to support the Berger proposal.

The New Jersey member, however, denied a declaration prefacing the Berger resolution that "the striking workers are denied the right of peaceful assemblage." He supported his denial by telegrams from Passaic city officials.

The telegram from the Botany mills charged promoting of the strike by "communistic leadership," asserting "such a strike can result in no good to labor or the employes involved."

Man Forgives Wife Accused of Bigamy

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., March 19.—Police here today preferred a charge of bigamy against Helen E. Stewart, 22. It is alleged that she was married here January 29, 1926, to Mack Seldon Pittard, salesman, 24, from Littleton, N. C., when she had a husband, Russell B. Stewart, 33, at Bellevue, near Pittsburgh, to whom she is alleged to have been married at Wellsburg, W. Va., February 17, 1923. She is a daughter of W. D. Rent, of Pittsburgh.

She and Pittard were married here after eloping from Pittsburgh. Stewart has arrived here and forgiven his wife, he told police today, and wants to take her back home.

Commonwealth's Attorney Satterfield has given assurance that he will recommend sentence be suspended if she pleads guilty. Pittard will be held as a material witness.

GOINS, WHO SHOT 6, HAD OTHER PERSONS LISTED FOR DEATH

Took Name of Reporter Off When Convinced Writer Only Did Duty.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE IS RETURNED BY JURORS

Wife Blamed for Unhappy Life in One of Two Wills Found in Room.

Stockton, Calif., March 19 (By A. P.).—Not all the persons listed for death by John M. Goins, of Stockton, were slain by him yesterday in the series of six murders which terminated with his suicide as he was being pursued by officers last night.

This was indicated today when Alvin Mathews, former Stockton newspaper reporter, said that he saw a small book in which Goins had written a number of names, including that of Mathews, and that Goins had stated "these are to be settled with." Mathews said he was told that his name was on the list because he had written a story about a court case that went against Goins.

"But I only did my duty as a reporter," Mathews said.

"All right; we'll scratch you off," Goins replied.

Then he drew a pencil through Mathews' name.

The names of Capt. Smith and Officer McHugh, of the Stockton police force, also were in the book, Mathews said.

Della Podesta, Goins' sister-in-law, was said to have been marked for death also.

Prepared Final Fight.

Placerville, Calif., March 19 (By A. P.).—A verdict that John M. Goins, who killed six persons yesterday, had come to his death from a gunshot wound self-inflicted, with suicidal intent, was returned by a coroner's jury here today.

Examination of the automobile in which Goins fled from the scenes of his crimes showed that the windshield had been opened and fastened in this position, presumably to allow Goins to shoot without interference.

Something of what had been going on in the man's mind was revealed in two wills found in Goins' room. One, written on the back of a photograph of Goins and two dogs, taken on the lawn of his home, said:

"On my right is my faithful dog Rover; on my left is my faithful trained sheep dog, Beauty. I trained her from a puppy and she has developed into a most valuable sheep dog and a companion and has been my most faithful friend in the most trying conditions and hardships. May she be treated well.

"This is my house, I bought for my future home and happiness. However, my wife, Florence Podesta Goins, refused to live in this fine home, therefore breaking my plans and happiness. I have therefore given this house to my son (by a former marriage), Lawrence John Goins, for his future home."

In an envelope, police found another will, written on ruled paper. It read as follows:

"Lawrence: The Abstract Co. has just told me that this is our deed and I give you the Flora street property. It is no good to me on account of it being a joint tender, and was signed by both myself and my wife.

"Hold my funeral strictly private and do as you please with my remains. Buy no new clothes. I want no flowers. Just the American flag.

"J. M. GOINS."

Holding U. S. Girl's Hand Italian Officer Ends Life

Florence, Italy, March 19 (By A. P.).—Patrizio Rizzotti, the young Italian cavalry officer who committed suicide yesterday, his action being ascribed to his unrequited love for an American girl, shot himself with one hand while holding the girl's hand with the other, it became known through the police investigation today.

The girl, Maria Louisa Schreiber, of Short Hills, N. J., 18, and Cornelia Hoffman, another American, with whom she has been staying, were closely questioned by the authorities. It developed that Miss Schreiber met the officer at a fashionable dance hall in Florence. He became infatuated, and tried to forget her by going to Paris, but returned, still professing his love. At their meeting yesterday she told him his love was not reciprocated. As he smilingly said good-by, he shot himself.

The funeral of Lieut. Rizzotti today was largely attended by military officers and the aristocracy of Florence.

LEITER HEIRS SPLIT BY BRITISH ATTACK ON AMERICAN LINE

Countess of Suffolk Asserts Sister Warned Her Not to Oust Her Brother.

PEERESS IS CAUSTIC; WANTS QUESTION BRIEF

On Witness Stand, She Goes Over Her Charges Against Joseph's Management.

Chicago, March 19 (By A. P.).—Countess of Suffolk and Berks testified today that heirs of Levi Z. Leiter, Chicago merchant prince, divided into two hostile camps as a result of efforts of British heirs to oust American beneficiaries from direct control of the great estate. The countess, daughter of Mr. Leiter and formerly Marguerite Hyde (Daisy) Leiter, occupied the stand all day in the suit brought by herself and other English beneficiaries to oust her brother, Joseph Leiter, as trustee of the estate and compel him to render an accounting. She told of the family division when she identified a letter sent to her by her sister, Mrs. Colin Campbell, widow of a British army officer.

Mrs. Campbell, repatriated and now a resident of California, warned her in November, 1921, that if Lady Suffolk persisted in her efforts to oust Joseph Leiter, their brother, from a cotrusteeship of the estate that the paths of the two women "henceforth divide."

Leiter's Counsel Objects.

Mrs. Campbell's husband had just died unexpectedly while en route from a trustees' meeting in Chicago.

A few minutes after that evidence was entered Lelland K. Neeves, associate counsel for Lady Suffolk, sought to have the countess find the exact status of her relations with her brother and sister.

"Has there been any recommendation to you by your brother and sister during this trial?" asked Neeves.

Leiter's counsel quickly objected, and the matter was finally dropped without Lady Suffolk's response.

Upon each of the four days of the trial Leiter and his sister and wife and Lady Suffolk and her courtroom guests have formed two distinct groups, neither glancing at the other.

Upon direct testimony, Lady Suffolk reiterated her written charges of gross mismanagement and neglect of duty by Leiter.

Repeats Dissatisfaction.

In a throaty contralto, the stately countess voiced her dissatisfaction with her brother's management. Leiter failed to inform her of leases of building, of constructing an irrigation reservoir in Wyoming, of the sale of Wyoming ranch lands, of the handling of Zeigler, Ill., bituminous mining property.

Five times since her marriage in 1904 to the Earl of Suffolk and Berks, who was killed in action in the world war, Lady Suffolk said, she had visited in America, and upon each trip familiarized herself with the handling of the estate. Once she requested an audit of the estate books and Leiter said it could be done at her expense, she testified.

Lady Suffolk was a clever witness, at times somewhat caustic, when she fenced with her cross-examiner, Henry Russell Platt, counsel for Leiter.

Garbed entirely in black, excepting gray stockings, she sat on the very edge of the witness chair as she followed the phrasing of long questions. Frequently she refused a yes or no answer, and insisted once that Mr. Platt "be a little more short."

POLICE AGREE ON TRAFFIC SIGNALS

launched at the meeting. The sergeants were told to impress on the men the necessity of being courteous and gentlemanly.

Maj. Hesse told the sergeants that there was no excuse for gruffness or discourtesy.

"Even when a prisoner becomes violent, there is no reason for it," he said. "If you must hit him, hit him in a courteous way."

Complaints From Visitors.

Inspector William S. Shelby revealed that numerous complaints are being constantly received about discourteous policemen. Many of the complaints, he said, come from visitors to the city.

Lieut. Lamb, who is attached to the traffic bureau, severely criticized the type of traffic policeman who "calls down" every motorist who passes a signal. Even if an arrest is to be made, there is no call for hard-boiled tactics, he said.

"Some of us violate traffic signals," he said. "It is only human that we should."

Police Note Erased, Driver Sent to Jail

Charged with defacing his operator's permit by erasing a notation of a conviction for speeding, William H. Lewis, colored, 21 years old, 1631 Fourth street northwest, was sentenced to serve ten days in jail by Judge George H. Macdonald in traffic court last night.

The springlike weather yesterday resulted in the arraignment of 21 motorists before Judge Macdonald last night for speeding. Fines from $5 to $25 were imposed. While James Bishop, clerk of court, was absent from the room preparing the court docket, Judge Macdonald acted in the dual capacity of judge and clerk. The judge tried several cases sitting in the clerk's chair.

POLITICAL EVENTS TOLD AT MATTEOTTI HEARING

Most of Witnesses Bow a Greeting to the 5 Alleged Slayers of Deputy.

DEAD MAN IS DENOUNCED

Chieti, Italy, March 19 (By A. P.).—With Roberto Farinacci, secretary general of the fascist party, acting as defense counsel and field marshal in charge of operations, defense witnesses in the trial of Amerigo Dumini and four others charged with the murder of Giacomo Matteotti, turned today's session into a detailed indictment of the murdered man's alleged unpatriotic activities, before, during and after the world war.

Matteotti, socialist deputy and leader of the opposition to Premier Mussolini, was kidnaped and murdered June 10, 1924. Dumini has admitted responsibility for the kidnaping, but denied he killed Matteotti.

Farinacci drew a picture of Matteotti as a dangerous enemy of the nation, unrelenting in his advocacy of socialist extremism. The fascist leader frequently returned strong answers to repeated protests of Judge Danza against the interjection of irrelevant testimony of a political nature.

Encouraged by Farinacci's boldness, even some of the witnesses fired back at Judge Danza, explaining that they were trying to contrast the nefarious actions of Matteotti's friends with the patriotism of the fascists.

Most of the witnesses as they left the stand turned toward the prisoners' cage and bowed greetings, to which Dumini and the others responded smilingly.

The frequent clashes between the judge and lawyers, however, were not acrimonious, and defense counsel remarked after a verbal encounter, "I have never seen such a courteous judge."

"Nor I such an able lawyer," Judge Danza rejoined.

Apart from the testimony of character witnesses, who praised the courage and patriotism of Giuseppe Viola, Albino Volpi and Augusto Malacria, three of the accused, the day was devoted exclusively to the political events leading up to Matteotti's abduction.

COUNDOURIOTIS QUITS AS GREEK PRESIDENT

Election Will Be Held April 4 to Select Successor; Action Foreseen.

Athens, Greece, March 19 (By A. P.).—Admiral Coundouriotis has resigned the presidency. An election will be held April 4 to decide his successor.

Admiral Coundouriotis assumed the regency of Greece when King George II was forced to leave the country in December, 1923. Upon the formation of the republic, after the plebiscite of April, 1924, he became provisional president.

Rumors of his impending resignation arose late last month when it was announced that he was going to his native island of Hydra for a short rest and that Premier Pangalos, military dictator of the Greek government, would visit him there.

Corporal's Injuries In Plane Fall Fatal

San Antonio, March 19 (By A. P.).—Corporal S. P. Rush, of the Twelfth observation squadron at Fort Sam Houston, was fatally injured and Lieut. L. P. Holcomb, pilot of the Second division air service, was seriously hurt today when the plane they were flying crashed from an altitude of 100 feet at Camp Bullis, near here.

Rush was from New York city and Holcomb's home is Denver, Colo. Rush died while being taken to the base hospital. Both men were burned in addition to their injuries when the plane burst into flames.

MEXICAN TROOPS FIRE INTO CATHOLIC CROWD

Order to Limit Priests Causes Riot; People Fear Arrest of Their Bishop.

ALL CHURCHES CLOSED

Mexico City, March 19 (By A. P.).—Special dispatches from San Luis Potosi say that two women and one man were wounded in a riot growing out of the popular belief that the authorities intended to arrest the Catholic bishop.

Yesterday afternoon municipal gendarmes unexpectedly appeared at all the Catholic churches. Excited crowds congregated. The majority in them were women. Then followed a demonstration which almost reached proportions of a riot notwithstanding an announcement that the gendarmes had only been instructed to fulfill orders to limit the number of priests in the churches.

The demonstration culminated in the authorities calling out federal troops with machine guns. The crowd, it is alleged, attacked the soldiers with stones. The troops fired and two women and one man were wounded. The advices say that as the news spread, crowds began to come into the city from the neighboring country. The priests urged the people to refrain from violence.

The streets of San Luis Potosi continued crowded. The people frequently jeered the troops patroiling the streets with automobiles and machine guns. Many persons congregated before the residence of the bishop. These included women, with baskets filled with stones. The crowds remained, despite appeals from Bishop Miguel de la Mora that they disperse.

In the night Gov. Abel Cano issued a proclamation saying it had never been intended to arrest the bishop. The proclamation added that the people must obey the law and that the authorities intended to enforce the Mexican constitution with regard to churches.

A dispatch to the department of the interior here from the governor of San Luis Potosi says the trouble began because of a recent decree limiting the number of the Catholic priests to 85. These 85 ministers were required to make a certain application to the local authorities. Nine, it is alleged, complied and the authorities ordered the closing of all churches.

TAKOMA PARK HIGH SCHOOL DEDICATED

Maryland and District Officials Take Part in Exercises at $50,000 Building.

Dedication exercises were held last night at the recently-opened Takoma-Silver Spring High school in Takoma Park, Md. The school was erected at a cost of $50,000, and provides for the children of Takoma Park, Woodridge and Silver Spring.

Addresses were made by Dr. Samuel M. North, of Baltimore, State superivsor of high schools; former Senator Blair Lee, of Silver Spring; County Superintendent of Schools Edwin Broome, and Dr. George Lewis, custodian of school property in Montgomery county; Stephen E. Kramer and Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendents of the District schools, and Mayor H. F. Taff, of Takoma Park.

Ben G. Davis, chairman of the school board of trustees, presided. The Montgomery County Civic band played several selections. Miss Lois Lillie sang. Raymond Peck played a cornet solo, and Tolman Huff, a saxophone solo. They were accompanied on the piano by Lawrence Hendrick.

4th Suicide Attempt Succeeds in Jail Cell

Providence, R. I., March 19 (By A. P.).—Edward Radding, former real estate broker in Springfield and this city, who was facing trial on charges of forgery, hanged himself in his cell at the State prison early today. His body was discovered by a guard. He was in prison in default of $87,500 bail.

Late in February Radding took a drug, which had been purposely weakened by the pharmacist who sold it to him. He attempted to leap from an upper story window of the Hotel McAlpin in New York, March 2, but was restrained. He then took poison, but recovered.

LINESMEN RUN WIRE TO BED OF PATIENT

Outcome of 48-Hour Race With Death Depends on Arrival of Machine.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19 (By A. P.).—The outcome of a battle against frozen earth, won by linemen who set poles and strung wires to bring electric current for the operation of a violet ray machine to treat Louis Radke at his farm home at Thiensville must wait. The machine, through which physicians hope to save the farmer's life because its output almost duplicates the sun's rays, has not arrived although it was ordered several days ago. The patient is suffering from tubercular peritonitis.

A crew from the local electric company worked 48 hours at a stretch, setting poles in the half-mile stretch of frozen earth which separates Radke from the power plant. The machine is expected by Sunday, when the electric sunlight will provide Radke with a "solar" bath that it is believed will afford relief.

UNTRIED TROOPS MARCH FORWARD UNDER HOT FIRE

316th Infantry Advances More Than 3 Kilometers, With Little Artillery Support, Suffering Severe Losses, Especially Among Officers — Maj. Patterson, Severely Wounded, Refuses to Leave His Command—Americans Find "Willie's" Telescope.

By BRIG. GEN. JOSEPH E. KUHN.

(Commander of Camp Meade, where drafted men from District, Maryland and Pennsylvania were formed into the famous Seventy-ninth division, and led by the general in France.)

At 2:45 a. m., September 27, the engineers had succeeded in restoring the Avocourt-Malancourt road for animal drawn transportation and by 6 a. m. the head of the division trains had reached Malancourt where it was held pending a farther advance of the infantry. At noon, northbound traffic through Malancourt was released and the dammed up transportation of two divisions poured forth in a mighty stream causing indescribable congestion.

As both front line regiments had suffered heavy casualties in their two day's fighting and were in urgent need of rest, food and water, it was decided to relieve them during the night of September 27-28 by the regiments in reserve. Although all of the divisional artillery had not yet been able to come forward through the traffic congestion, urgent orders from higher headquarters permitted of no delay in continuing the attack. Accordingly the 315th and 316th infantries were ordered to resume the advance on the morning of September 28, the former on the right and the latter on the left.

HEROISM IS TOLD

Harris & Ewing.

MAJ. F. W. McL. PATTERSON, financial editor of The Post, whose heroism is revealed by Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn in his story about District men in the world war. Today's installment relates that Maj. Patterson, while commanding a battalion of the 315th infantry, was seriously wounded in the battle at Nantillois. He refused to relinquish command and later was awarded the distinguished service cross.

After a feeble preparatory fire from our available artillery, the 315th moved out against Nantillois at 7:30 a. m. The advance lay over open ground in full view of the enemy for a distance of 2 kilometers and came immediately under a heavy frontal and cross-fire of artillery. Undaunted, the assaulting waves pressed forward by short rushes. As the advance drew near Nantillois it was met by heavy machine-gun fire, but in spite of all opposition the leading battalions swarmed through the ruins of the town at 11 a. m., capturing a battery of six 77s on its outskirts. Leaving the support companies to mop up the town, the advance pushed on to Hill 274, 1 kilometer farther north, where a halt was made in order to reorganize. In this attack, Lieut S. C. Hetherington, of the D company, and Lieut. A. D. Quintard, of A company, were killed.

Great Attack

No less brilliant was the attack of the 316th against the Bois de Beuge. This woodland stronghold was heavily organized for defense with machine guns, mine throwers and field pieces. Without artillery support, the regiment moved forward at 7 a. m. under heavy artillery fire. To this there was soon added a deadly fire from the wood itself. Despite mounting casualties, the regiment continued to advance. At 8:51 a. m. Maj. John B. Atwood, commanding Third battalion, sent back a message reporting his troops as entering the southern edge of the wood. Just nine minutes later he was struck dead by a machine-gun bullet. By noon the Bois de Beuge had been cleared and the advance pushed to Bois 268, 1 kilometer farther north. One platoon of G company had even pushed on to Bois 250, where it held a dangerous and isolated position until nightfall.

During the day the 316th, an untried regiment, had made an advance of over 3 kilometers with little artillery support over ground constantly swept by artillery and machine-gun fire. Its losses were severe, especially in officers. Besides Maj. Atwood, four other officers had been killed, Capt. P. F. Burrage and Lieut. J. H. Fox, of D company; Lieut. A. C. Wunderlich, of L company, and Lieut. Romaine Shephard, of the supply company. One company lost all its officers and another all but one.

Having reorganized under the crest of Hill 274, the 315th, at 4:30 p. m., launched an attack against the Bois des Ogons and Madeleine Farm, supported by two large and four small tanks. No sooner did the infantry pass over the crest of the hill than it ran into a blast of artillery and m[illegible]un fire. A number of the [illegible]re bowled over by direct [illegible] their gasoline tanks set [illegible] happened to be on the sum[illegible] Montfaucon at the time and witnessed the line of blazing tanks and the infantry waves withering away under the fire. Some men of the advance companies reached the edge of the woods but were unable to maintain themselves. After re-forming under the shelter of Hill 274, the regiment again attacked at 6 p. m. Again the leading elements reached the edge of the woods and again they melted away under the whirlwind of fire. Maj. F. W. McL. Patterson, although seriously wounded in the leg, refused to relinquish his command, remaining with it until the following morning.

Enemy Fights Harder

During the 28th it had become evident that the enemy resistance in front of the Seventy-ninth division had increased materially. Not only were fresh German regiments identified but the artillery reaction had increased enormously. Lying on the watershed between the Meuse and the Aire, the ground north of Montfaucon is in full view of the higher ground west of Clerges and Romagne, as well as from the heights east of the Meuse, affording excellent observation and flanking fire. Our front line of infantry was frequently under the impression that it was being fired upon by its own artillery when in fact it was German guns east of the Meuse outflanking the front lines. This was evident to any one on the summit of Montfaucon, which overlooked the entire battlefield.

The excellence of the German observation is well illustrated by a personal incident. Upon the receipt of the news of the capture of Nantillois, I rode to the summit of Montfaucon in a staff car, accompanied by an aid. A temporary lull in the firing led to the belief that the car might safely reach Nantillois, two kilometers distant, over open ground. No sooner did the car appear on the crest than German 77s commenced falling uncomfortably close. As the car descended down the slope it was followed by the shells which fell with increasing rapidity. The car was abandoned behind a tree near the foot of the slope while its occupants dove into the nearest shell hole.

A Periscopic Telescope

The advantages of Montfaucon as an observation point could not be overlooked. Early on the 28th, Sergt. Thomas M. Rivel and Privates Arthur J. McCain and Arthur S. Roberts, all of headquarters detachment, established a division observation post on the second floor of the chateau at the north edge of the town. This chateau contained an interesting souvenir in the shape of a periscopic telescope, projecting through the roof with the eye-piece deep down in the cellar. The barrel of the telescope was solidly encased in concrete through the several floors of the building. Rumor has it that this telescope was frequently used by the crown prince in watching the battle of Verdun. The telescope is now in the museum of the United States Military Academy at West Point. While an excellent observation point, the conspicuousness of Montfaucon made it a special target for the hostile artillery. Day and night, without cessation, German shells kept pouring into the crumbling ruins. The chateau, already greatly damaged, was repeatedly hit, and it is a miracle how the observing party escaped. All three were awarded the distinguishd service cross for their pluck and determination in sticking it out until the division was relieved.

The night of September 28-29 was one of steady rainfall, adding materially to the discomfort of the worn and exhausted troops, lying in shell holes and exposed to a ceaseless artillery fire. Our own artillery, both corps and division, was pounding the Bois des Ogons, Madeleine farm, Cunel woods and Cunel village. Under these conditions the attack order was issued for the 29th, calling for an advance of the leading regiments at 7 a. m., after one hour preparatory fire of artillery.

A Wall of Fire

Both regiments started forward at the designated hour, the 315th from Hill 274, known to the men as Suicide hill, and the 316th from Bois 268. On the right, the 315th, with great dash, succeeded in reaching the Bois des Ogons and penetrated a short way therein, but was stopped by an impenetrable wall of fire from the front and strong flanking fire from the right. Lieut. W. S. Sheehan, "F" company and Lieut. E. J. Eyler, second battalion gas officer, were both killed in this rush. On the left, the 316th had no better luck, but a detachment of the third battalion, led by Capt. Somers, succeeding in pushing through Bois 250. Four officers of the regiment made the supreme sacrifice, Capt. B. H. Hewitt, Lieut. J. C. Harris, Lieut. I. L. Lautenbach and Lieut. D. S. Keller.

Meanwhile the enemy artillery reaction was growing exceedingly violent and the whole battlefield from Montfaucon to Madeleine farm was a seething mass of screeching and bursting shell. The 315th was effectually checked with constantly mounting casualties and it was obvious that without more thorough artillery preparation there was no chance for the worn and exhausted troops to make any effective headway. About 2 p. m. Col. Oury sent a message by an orderly officer depicting the deplorable condition of his brigade due to casualties, lack of food and exhaustion, and requested its relief by fresh troops. Satisfied that the infantry was no longer capable of effective driving power, both brigades were ordered to organize a holding line north of Nantillois and along the northern edge of the Bois de Beuge.

Before this order could be transmitted to Gen. Nicholson, he had directed the depleted 313th, which was in support of the 316th, to pass through the latter regiment and to attack. The remnants of the 316th were ordered into a provisional battalion under command of Maj. Par-

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TO COL. COOLIDGE IN CAPITAL'S GRIEF

Senate Shows Respect by Adjourning and House Adopts Resolutions.

(By Associated Press.)

Expressions of sympathy for President Coolidge because of the death of his father were mingled in Washington yesterday, in and out of Congress and official life, with high tribute to the character of Col. John C. Coolidge.

The Senate adjourned out of respect to Col. Coolidge, an action which is rarely taken except as a mark of respect for someone who had been high in official life. The House, on motion of the Democratic leader, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, expressed profound sorrow over the passing of one whose "character, gentleness and simplicity of life furnished to all mankind an example worthy of emulation."

Dawes Pays Tribute.

Vice President Dawes in a tribute to Col. Coolidge, whom he styled a "personality in himself," said he imagined the people at Plymouth more often thought of the President as the son of Col. Coolidge than they did of Col. Coolidge as the father of the President."

Secretary Kellogg issued a statement saying that, "in common with the other members of the Cabinet, the news of the death of the President's father, although not unexpected, came to me as a shock."

"Nurtured in the rugged climate of Vermont, he lived to the fullness of years in the high esteem of his neighbors and all who had the privilege to know him," the Secretary continued. "He was of the best type of our citizenry, and his private virtues were such as to make him the object of honest pride to his countrymen and worthy of the emulation of all."

Eulogy by Gibson.

Senator Dale, of Vermont, reported the death of Col. Coolidge to the Senate and offered the resolution for adjournment which was carried without a record vote. In the House Representative Gibson, of Vermont, delivered a eulogy in which he declared the father of the President was "a great man when measured by the yardstick that truly determines the real value of citizenship."

FUNERAL OF COL. COOLIDGE TO BE HELD IN VERMONT TODAY

Mrs. Coolidge climbed into a three-seated sleigh, their son John and Attorney General Sargent, who came with them from Washington, riding with them.

Behind trailed other members of the party, including secret service men, newspaper reporters and photographers who had made the trip from Washington. At 10:10 o'clock, nearly twelve hours after his father had passed away, the President arrived at Plymouth. A detachment of Vermont national guardsmen were on duty here, as at Woodstock and Bridgewater Corners.

Visit Room Containing Body.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge, and their son, on entering the farm house went into the room in which rested the colonel's casket. They remained there several minutes, then called for the Attorney General to join them.

While they were in the house, the Rev. Mr. White called and the President discussed funeral arrangements with him. When the presidential party returned to Woodstock Mr. Sargent remained behind to see that everything would be in readiness for the funeral services and burial tomorrow.

A rotary snow plow and a score of men with shovels were pressed into service to clear a path for the funeral party to the cemetery which is a quarter of a mile from the family homestead. In the cemetery another group was at work digging the grave, already marked by a headstone which is in a plot adjoining that in which the President's mother, sister and son, Calvin, who died in the summer of 1924, are buried.

Three Watch Over Body.

Keeping vigil tonight over Col. Coolidge's body were three friends who cared for him during the closing days of his life. They are Mrs. May Johnson, nurse, Miss Aurora Pierce and Deputy Sheriff Angus MacAuley.

It had been expected that funeral services would be held in the little church across the road from the Coolidge home, where the colonel worshiped for years, but in accord with the wishes of the President, it was decided to hold them in the farm house parlor. Folding doors, separating it from the sitting room where by lamplight the colonel administered the oath as President to his son in August, 1923, have been opened, and it is in this enlarged inclosure that tomorrow's services will be held.

Carcinoma, a form of cancer, was given today as the cause of Col. Coolidge's death. It affected the region of the bladder, his physician said, with myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart muscles, a contributing factor.

Dr. Cram, who attended the President's father throughout his fatal illness, announced his diagnosis after he consulted Maj. James F. Coupal, White House physician, who accompanied the presidential party here. Dr. Cram said the carcinoma was the primary cause of death.

It was indicated that the physicians and surgeons who attended Col. Coolidge last summer when an operation on the bladder was resorted to during a critical illness, discovered a cancerous growth, but this was guarded from the public. Myocarditis, Dr. Cram said, was suffered by the colonel in a mild form.

President Takes a Walk.

From the Woodstock Inn, where the President is staying, it was announced tonight that Mr. Coolidge probably would leave for Plymouth at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, arriving about noon at the farmhouse here, where he would remain until the funeral services at 2 o'clock.

After the interment, it was said, the President would leave immediately for Woodstock, where he would go at once on board his special train for the return trip to Washington. The party expected to arrive at the Capital early Sunday.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, take their meals in the public dining room at the Woodstock Inn. Mr. Coolidge this afternoon followed his daily custom of taking a walk, trudging several miles through snow and slush. Gov. and Mrs. Billings, of Vermont, paid a call of courtesy at the hotel.

One telegraph wire at the hotel was kept busy today with messages of condolence addressed to the President. They came from members of the cabinet and Congress, diplomats, close personal friends and organizations throughout the country.

There will be no pallbearers at the funeral of Col. Coolidge, it was decided tonight. Instead there will be six bodybearers, national guardsmen designated by their officers, to carry the casket to its final resting place.

Coolidge Farm Was Deeded To President 3 Weeks Ago

Plymouth, Vt., March 19 (By A. P.).—Three weeks before his death, Plymouth learned today, Col. John C. Coolidge transferred to his son, Calvin, the farm on which members of the Coolidge family have lived for generations. The farm consists of 225 acres with the White farm house which was the President's boyhood home.

Throughout the colonel's lifetime the family property stood in the name of his father, Calvin G. Coolidge. The town records show that the transfer was made from the estate of C. G. Coolidge to the President.

The colonel died ostensibly penniless, although a man of substance. Neighbors say that all property other than the land was made over to the President during his lifetime. Plymouth never knew the value of the Calvin G. Coolidge estate, and the same secrecy has been maintained in the case of the colonel's property. There was no will.

In addition to the homestead, the President owns the lime kiln lot which is the Coolidge sugar orchard. This tract he inherited from his grandfather.

SEATS OF 2 NATIONS ON LEAGUE COUNCIL MAY BE FORFEITED

Dropping of Spain and Brazil, Due to Dispute Over Germany, Is Urged.

Geneva, March 19 (By A. P.).—The special commission which is to discuss reconstruction of the council of the League of Nations, it was learned tonight, probably will be asked to consider the desirability of affirming the power of the league assembly to reduce at any time the period for which non-permanent members of the council are elected.

This suggestion is deemed important in view of Brazil's announced intention of vetoing the election of Germany unless she herself was assured a permanent seat and the attitude of Spain that she might withdraw from the league unless similarly advanced from the ranks of non-permanent members.

Albania is really responsible for this idea of curtailment of a temporary member's tenure of office. It was the Albanian delegation to the assembly who remarked that when any member of the council, who had been elected by, and is therefore responsible to the assembly, goes beyond his mandate from the assembly and seeking primarily the national interests of his country, prevents unanimity on vital matters supported by other members, he should be shorn of his mandate.

Singularly enough, the covenant does not specify the term of a non-permanent member of the council; it is precedent which fixes it at one year. By precedent, Brazil and Spain have the right to serve until the end of 1926, hence either of these countries could block the admission of Germany to the league in September.

Thus unless Germany, now "morally a member of the league," as one statesman said tonight, can be induced to approve the promotion of both countries to permanent seats simultaneously with her own accession, it is forecast that the same deadlock as that of the past week will exist at the September meeting of the league.

Suggestions are advanced therefore that it may be necessary to resort to an appeal to the assembly to shorten the period of membership of both Spain and Brazil in order to permit the entrance of Germany.

17 Sentenced to Cells In Alcohol Conspiracy

Columbus, Ohio, March 19 (By A. P.).—Seven men were sentenced to the Federal prison at Atlanta, ten to county jails in Ohio and six others were fined in Federal court here today, completing the government's prosecution of an alcohol ring which was said to have been operated in Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

Thirty-five men were indicted in the grand jury's investigation of the alleged conspiracy, 26 of whom pleaded guilty last week. Cases of 3 of the 26 were continued today and the case of another of those indicted was continued until the June term of court, following his plea of not guilty.

Remus Divorce Suit Delayed.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 19 (By A. P.).—The hearing of the divorce case of George Remus, former "Cincinnati bootleg king," and his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, was continued indefinitely today by Judge Charles Hoffman, who had ruled that personal service on Remus' cross-petition had not been made on Mrs. Remus.

Commitment Papers For Forbes Mailed

Chicago, March 19 (By A. P.).—Commitment papers for Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States veterans' bureau, were issued here today and mailed to the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kans.

Col. Forbes is at Leavenworth waiting to begin a two-year sentence on charges of defrauding the government in connection with the construction of hospitals for disabled war veterans. Acting on orders from Attorney General Sargent, United States District Attorney John Elliott Byrne petitioned the circuit court of appeals to release the mandates for the appearance of Col. Forbes at the Federal building here.

LEAGUE FAILURE TOPIC OF OFFICIAL DISCUSSION

Ambassador Houghton and Senator Borah Confer on European Situation.

The European situation, the collapse of the Geneva league conference and disarmament and world court questions as they affect America were discussed yesterday at a meeting between Alanson B. Houghton, American Ambassador to Great Britain, and Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Though no result of the conference was announced, the understanding is that Mr. Houghton and Senator Borah found themselves in perfect accord on many of the vital questions of American relationship to European politics. Both are said to believe that latest European developments have caused a great loss of prestige by the league and both are understood to be somewhat skeptical about the proposed arms conference at Geneva.

The question has arisen as to whether it would not be better for the United States to refrain from participation in the preliminary arms conference and permit the European powers to first frame the agenda. The United States could then see in what respect American cooperation might be most helpful.

President Coolidge, however, already has taken steps to have America represented at the preliminary conference so that a change of plan may not be expedient. Both Republican and Democratic Senators are worried over the League of Nations' plan to invite the United States to confer on the American reservations in September.

Cable reports, printed yesterday morning, that a Japanese expert heads the special committee which has censored the Senate reservations to the court protocol and that this committee will require certain changes before American membership is acceptable, has opened the eyes of Senators, it is explained. Furthermore, the fact that the league will act as final arbiter on the Senate reservations has also caused surprise.

Senators Butler, Lenroot and McKinley, all of whom are up for reelection this fall and all of whom are confronted with the world court issue, fear the latest Geneva developments will prove embarrassing in their campaigns.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon, March 19, and adjourned at 12.02 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Adjournment was taken immediately after adoption of a resolution expressing regret at the death of the father of President Coolidge.

Interstate commerce committee has called representatives of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and National City Bank to explain their plans for reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad.

Public hearings on bills for modification of prohibition enforcement act will be recommended to full committee by action of subcommittee of judiciary, "wets" and "drys" to be given six days each in which to submit testimony.

Hearings on co-operative marketing bill submitted by Department of Agriculture were closed by agricultural committee and measure will be voted on Monday.

Senator Edge of New Jersey issued an appeal to the striking textile workers at Passaic to "get together" and adjust their differences, declaring there was no reason for Federal intervention.

HOUSE.

Met at noon March 19 and adjourned at 5 o'clock p. m. until Monday at 12 o'clock.

Adopted a resolution extending sympathy to President Coolidge on the death of his father.

Tribute to Col. Coolidge was paid by Mr. Gibson, of Vermont.

One hour was devoted to eulogies on William Jennings Bryan.

Reno, Nev., March 19 (By A. P.).—E. E. Roberts, mayor of Reno and formerly representative in Congress from Nevada, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator against Tasker L. Oddie.

TRIBUTES TO BRYAN ARE PAID IN HOUSE

(By the Associated Press.)

Republicans joined with Democrats in the House yesterday in tribute to the late William Jennings Bryan, once a House member from Nebraska, in observance of his sixty-sixth birthday anniversary.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, said he had differed with Bryan on many questions, but admired him "for his clean personal character" and for his zeal in "every righteous cause as he saw the right."

Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, told of the Commoner's strenuous efforts at the Democratic national convention in New York city, in the hot summer of 1924, to combat factions which he believed were working toward party dissolution, and how he had expressed to him a belief that he was attending the last of the many conventions in which, for half a century, he was an outstanding figure.

Representative Moorehead (Democrat), who represents Bryan's old Nebraska district, said he would be remembered as the "pathfinder of the common people," and Representative Howard, also a Nebraska Democrat, who served as secretary to Mr. Bryan during his membership in Congress, praised him as "magnificently human."

G.O.P. IN MANHATTAN FOR BEER AND WINE

Three Women Members of the County Committee Vote Against Change.

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). The Republican committee of New York county, over the protests of three women leaders, has recorded itself as in favor of modification of the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer.

The action, taken last night, was approved by a majority of 1,000 votes with about 100 voting against modification as proposed in a resolution submitted by the resolutions committee and favored by Samuel S. Koenig, county chairman. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, chairman of the Republican Women's club, addressing the meeting said:

"I don't want to see our party go down to defeat. Neither do I want it to stand for anything but the highest things. We have a constitutional amendment. I know that it has been horribly broken and, to judge by appearances, by some of those present. In my opinion, any one who breaks the Constitution is a traitor."

Ghent Palace of Justice Burned.

Ghent, Belgium, March 19 (By A. P.).—The famous palace of justice here was destroyed by fire today. Many important historical documents were burned.

Maj. Gen. Coe. G.A.C. Commander, Retires

Maj. Gen. Frank W. Coe, chief of coast artillery, was retired yesterday at his request after more than 37 years service and is succeeded by Col. Andrew Hero, jr., Fort McPherson, Ga., who will have the grade and pay of a major general during tenure of office.

Maj. Gen. Coe was born in Kansas in 1870 and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1892, serving continuously in the coast artillery. He served in the world war as chief of staff, First division, and commandant of the First separate brigade of coast artillery, receiving the distinguished service medal, and French and British decorations.

SCHOOLS AND NONRESIDENTS.

The House of Representatives once more has given evidence of the inclination of some legislators on Capitol Hill to make the taxpayers of the District shoulder an unfair burden of the cost of governing the Federal city.

On a roll call Thursday the House of Representatives voted to knock out an amendment to the District appropriation bill previously adopted by the committee of the whole and confirmed by a standing vote in the House, by which Maryland and Virginia school children would be barred from attendance upon the public schools of Washington.

Under the bill as passed by the House, nonresident school children will be free to attend the overcrowded District schools without any cost whatsoever. If the bill in its present form should be approved by the Senate, District taxpayers would be in the position of educating more than 3,000 pupils who are not residents of the District at a cost of more than $300,000 annually, while more than 12,000 District children can attend school only part time, because of the congestion. Obviously, this is so unjust to the people of Washington that the Senate in all probability will insist on amending the House bill so as to require nonresidents to pay tuition. This, in fact, was the purpose of the framers of the provision in the District bill.

The people of Washington have no desire to exclude the children of Maryland and Virginia who live close to Washington from attending the public schools here; but the schools are overcrowded. Pupils from Maryland and Virginia take up space equivalent to 10 eight-room buildings. It is estimated that it costs approximately $100 annually for every boy and girl who goes to the public schools here.

There is no process of reasoning that would result in the conclusion that the people of Washington should be required to pay for the education of the children of other States whose taxpayers provide schools for them. And it is altogether unlikely that the residents of Maryland and Virginia desire to impose such a burden upon the District. Manifestly the only fair thing is to require nonresidents to pay a reasonable tuition.

BALTIMORE CRIES FOR HELP.

Baltimore is getting ready to kick against Congress. That body of statesmen shows no disposition to buy or build a building for the use of the Baltimore branch of the Federal reserve bank, which for this district is located in Richmond. The Baltimore Sun pleads pathetically for legislation which will permit the Richmond bank governors to erect a building for the Baltimore branch, which is now housed in inadequate quarters in three different buildings. The Sun points out that Baltimore supplies one-fourth of the capital and one-third of the business of the district, which embraces three States and the District of Columbia, and that Baltimore is entitled to suitable quarters, especially as the money will come from the bank's own funds and not from the Federal Treasury.

Buffalo is more fortunate in this respect than the Maryland city. Although not nearly as important as Baltimore, from the standpoint of business of the Federal reserve bank, the House has passed a bill to authorize the governors of the Federal reserve bank in New York to purchase for the Buffalo branch a modern bank building, which has come into the market through the consolidation of a number of banking institutions in that city. The Richmond headquarters, by the way, is housed in one of the most attractive banking buildings in the country. Naturally our northern neighbor (possibly a little jealous of Washington's fine bank buildings) is peeved at the indifference shown by the House of Representatives toward its prayerful pleadings. Brace up, Baltimore, Washington is with you! We have several acres of "sites" here which the government purchased some years ago, and which are still "vacant."

SHENANDOAH NATIONAL PARK.

Washington is a city of parks for the pleasure and enjoyment of citizens and visitors alike. But Washington is remote from the reservations which the Federal government has so generously transformed into great public playgrounds. The Yellowstone, the Sequoia and all those wonderful scenic panoramas of the western section of the country known as national parks are too far removed from the Atlantic seaboard to attract many people from the National Capital. But the time is not far distant when it will be possible for the owner of a car, even though it be only of the humble "flivver" type, to have available a vast tract of park land wherein to spend his week-end with his family, with all the enjoyment and all the thrills which go with "camping out."

A tract of upward of 600 square miles along the valley of the Shenandoah and through that section of the Appalachians, with forests, streams and mountains, is to be transformed into the Shenandoah national park. More funds than the government is willing to expend must be provided. The State of Virginia has already raised $1,200,000 of the needed money, and during the coming week a drive will be started in Washington in order that the Capital's share may be pledged. The chairman of the committee which has undertaken this task is Col. Robert N. Harper. The potential contributors will be advised of the benefits which will accrue to the Capital City through the creation of the proposed "back garden" for the National Capital itself.

All the arrangements for the initiation of the movement have not yet been perfected, but within a few days the drive will follow with a rush. Within a few years, with the building of many miles of good roads contemplated by the Old Dominion and the addition of the Shenandoah to the list of national parks, Washington will have additional attractions to offer visitors on the lookout for the beauty spots of the nation, and, incidentally, Washington business men will reap the benefit of this addition to those reasons why every American should "See Washington First."

AN ECONOMIC PLAN FOR EUROPE.

President Robert S. Brookings, of the Institute of Economics, contributes in another column a thoughtful survey of economic conditions in Europe, with suggestions which, if approved by the nations concerned, would doubtless greatly improve their condition and conduce to the prosperity of the United States as well.

The core of his suggestion is that European nations should form an economic union for their mutual benefit by removing the barriers which interfere with the free flow of commerce among them, and then to establish a suitable general tariff applicable to the outside world.

The analogy which Mr. Brookings draws between the States of the Union and the nations of Europe, in respect of domestic and foreign commerce, makes his argument clear. There is free trade between the States, and tariff protection for all of them as against foreign competition. The standard of living is thus raised and stabilized and the per capita production increased, both by the maintenance of a vast dependable home market and by the development of the principle of mass production.

Without the security of a tariff the nations of Europe are injured by the dumping of cheap foreign goods into their markets; and yet, if they all maintain high tariffs against one another they are deprived of neighboring markets and thrust back upon their own insufficient resources. They have not the enormous natural resources of America, nor is any one of them able to create a home market big enough to warrant expansion in the form of mass production.

Superficially considered, Mr. Brookings' reasoning would appear to attack the validity of the American protective tariff principle; but in reality his proposal vindicates that principle and would confer upon Europe the benefits which America has enjoyed from protection. He would make Europe, economically, a system of united states, which would enjoy free trade among themselves and develop a home market comparable with the American home market.

The erection of a protective tariff around the united states of Europe can not meet with the opposition of any American protectionist. It is the only logical step that could be taken if a home market is to be created and maintained. The object, primarily, is to raise the standard of living and the productive capacity of the individual. Under the present plan of fencing in Europe by small and poorly endowed nations, neither the individual nor the state can develop higher standards of living. Consequently Europe as a whole will remain a poor market for American products. But with the merging of resources, energies and man power with one great free market to encourage production, the standard of living would be raised and Europeans would become great consumers of foreign products. Thus, in spite of a protective tariff around the European market, American products would be in demand and the exchange of products would be mutually beneficial to Europe and America.

In view of the political conditions in Europe, the inheritance of a benighted past, the chances of adoption of a great common economic policy seem to be very slight. Perhaps Europe must pass through further ordeals before the peoples will perceive the advantages of economic cooperation on a continental scale. Nevertheless, it is the duty of America to contribute to the upbuilding of Europe by furnishing suggestions which have been tested here and found to be practical. It is not America's fault that the political principles underlying this republic have not been applied to Europe; Europe could have applied them a century ago if it had had the wisdom and courage to do so. Economic cooperation is almost as difficult to obtain as political confederation; but Mr. Brookings has outlined a statesmanlike proposal which, if Europe could bring itself to adopt, would work for the eventual peace and prosperity of all the nations within its confines.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC SYSTEMS.

The suggestion has frequently been made that there should be a uniform traffic system in operation in all the large cities. Little attention has been given to the proposition because, it is presumed, there has never been any definite plan submitted and no concerted movement begun by the citizens of any city. It is admitted by the traffic experts of nearly every municipality that a uniform plan would go far toward solving the traffic problem with which every city is struggling. It would not only make it easier for the operators of motor cars to find their way in strange cities, but it would prove to be an effective means of educating all Americans in traffic matters. Not until the people become familiar with the laws and rules governing traffic will any system be greatly improved. Recently the national conference on street and highway safety declared that the education of the public is the most important feature of traffic regulation. It is reasonable to presume, therefore, that if a national traffic system were adopted the residents of every city would give more time and study to it, and that it would result in far more effective cooperation between the public and the authorities than now exists.

Few persons realize the enormous waste of inadequate traffic facilities. According to the officials of the street and highway safety conference, a survey of the traffic conditions in all the important centers discloses that the cost of imperfect traffic conditions to each individual in the United States is $20 a year, a total of $2,000,000,000. It urges a traffic survey by every community or metropolitan area to determine wherein improvements can be made. Among the chief sources of losses are the congestion of thoroughfares, inferior road surfaces, heavy grades, railroad and main-traveled highway grade crossings, draw bridges, insufficient traffic police, inadequacy or absence of signal systems, poor signs, badly-marked detours and toleration of vehicles unsuited to local conditions. The conference proposes the creation of a permanent official traffic commission for every city.

ALABAMA'S HIDEOUS CASE.

The Alabama convict system has given rise to shocking abuses and crimes, according to the report of the attorney general of that State, as reported to the New York World. Attorney General Davis has reported to Gov. Brandon on the case of James Knox, a convict supposed to have committed suicide by poisoning in August, 1924, at the Flat Top prison mine near Birmingham. It is now declared that Knox was the victim of fiendish cruelty, resulting in his death. His stomach was then pumped full of bichloride of mercury, to make it appear that he had committed suicide. Some of the testimony indicates that he was scalded to death in a vat.

Evidence taken by the attorney general indicates that Knox was beaten repeatedly by "trusties," who used a trolley wire the size of a man's finger, shovels and hickory sticks with which to attack the man. He died in the wash vat into which he had been thrown. No effort was made to administer mercury antidotes or to call a physician, and he died within 40 minutes after supposedly taking the poison. The surgeon who performed the autopsy upon Knox's exhumed body reports that a discoloring poison appears to have been injected artificially into his stomach and that his death within 40 minutes could not have been caused by the bichloride of mercury, which is a slow-acting poison.

A trusty secretly advised Attorney General Davis that Knox had been scalded to death in the vat. This communication resulted in an inquiry of wide scope, which convinced the attorney general that Knox had been done to death. Gov. Brandon has accordingly directed a grand jury investigation.

The honor of the State of Alabama is involved in this hideous affair. The State authorities appear to have acted with promptitude and courage in sifting out the preliminary evidence. The case should be pursued to the end, now that the presumption of murder has been established. The mind recoils from the horrors of the detailed recital of witnesses. Possibly the truth may reveal that some of these details are imaginary. But it is obvious that Alabama can not afford to lose any time in pressing this case and bringing all guilty parties to justice in order that its convict labor system may not be indicted by the whole country as a reproach to American civilization.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Even when William J. Bryan was in the thick of his political battles no opponent ever dreamed of attacking him as a man or a citizen. His political beliefs might have been considered vagaries and his remedies for the ills of the country were regarded by the majority of the American people as nostrums of no therapeutical value, but his sterling character was always recognized and admired.

Mr. Bryan's birthday was the 19th day of March, and yesterday the House of Representatives paid tribute to his memory. Because of the knowledge that he was absolutely sincere in his political beliefs, those tributes were paid alike by men of both parties who knew him in life. Mr. Tilson, of Connecticut, told of his admiration for the former Secretary of State, as a man, while carefully refraining from indorsing any of his doctrines. "Dick" Yates, of Illinois, was a schoolmate of Bryan, and he retains the admiration which he always felt for his schoolmate. Edgar Howard, of Nebraska, who represents the district which sent Bryan to Congress, and who served him as his secretary, was filled with emotion as he testified to his love for his old chief. So, too, William R. Green, of Iowa, as far removed politically from the man he eulogized as the north pole is from the Southern Cross, was glad to add his tribute. Shallenberger, of Nebraska; Rankin, of Mississippi; Garrett, of Tennessee; Crisp, of Georgia; Connally, of Texas, and many others joined in the testimonials, which kept the seats in the House chamber well filled throughout the afternoon.

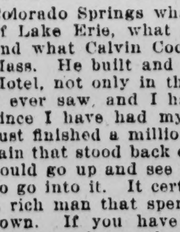
A month ago it was claimed that the protective tariff was the cause of the declining condition of the Iowa farmers. Now it is claimed that the "long haul but short-sighted policy of granger roads" is the cause. In the meantime the condition of the farmers is improving.



The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Mr. Penrose, of Colorado Springs, Colo. If you think Senator Penrose was well known in the manipulating of the Republican Party up to his death, you ought to see what this Brother of his means to Colorado! He is to Colorado Springs what Henry is to the shores of Lake Erie, what Marlin is to Ponca City, and what Calvin Coolidge is to Northampton, Mass. He built and owns the most wonderful Hotel, not only in the West, but the best one I ever saw, and I have seen some good ones since I have had my expenses paid. He has just finished a million dollar road up a mountain that stood back of the hotel, so the Guests could go up and see Kansas and still not have to go into it. It certainly is a pleasure to see a rich man that spends his money in his own town. If you have never been to Colorado Springs, why go there next summer. It come mighty near catching Asheville, North Carolina, as being just about the most beautiful place I have seen. Of course, it has more beautiful mountains. Mr. Penrose occupies a little modest Bungalow, covering 31 acres. There is Golf courses in the dining room. He had just returned from Europe, where he made the trip on the Leviathan. They had a pet cat on board and the Cat picked out one of the most expensive Staterooms on the boat for her home, and gave birth to some kittens there. One of the Sailors was heard talking to the old Mother cat.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself! Couldn't you get along with some less expensive stateroom? We treat you right, and give you shore leave in New York, but you ain't playin' fair with the company! If it wasn't for your charmin' daughters I'd pitch you down in the steerage, where rates is cheaper!"

Good Hunting, Brothers!

European Economic Conferences

By ROBERT S. BROOKINGS
President Institute of Economics.

THE most important feature of the Locarno pact, in my opinion, is the proposal for an economic conference of the nations to be held in October, 1926. It indicates that the European nations composing the league appreciate the necessity, if not of a wide-reaching economic entente, at least of the removal of many artificial barriers that now impede economic intercourse. These barriers are the result, in great measure, of a distorted spirit of nationalism that had dominated the policy and practice of most European nations.

Since the Locarno meeting, a pan-European economic conference has been called for October 4, to be held at Vienna. This is a nonpolitical conference to be attended by committees of representative men from nations on both sides of the water.

The doctrine of nationalism developed in the nineteenth century along unfortunate lines. It came to include, along with beneficent traits which we honor as patriotism, other traits often not only selfish but also destructive. It bred a feeling that the welfare of one nation depended not only on the fullest development of its own resources but also on weakening the opportunities for development in other nations.

In this country it was well enough for Henry Clay and Daniel Webster to advocate an "American system" which should promote our economic independence. They were driven into a more intense nationalism by the depredations at the hands of France and England to which we had been exposed during the Napoleonic wars. Even Thomas Jefferson, perhaps the leading protagonist of liberalism in his day, wrote: "We have experienced what we did not before believe, that there exist both profligacy and power enough to exclude us from the field of interchange with other nations * * *," and he assented to measures promotive of national self-sufficiency.

The policy and principles regarded by these statesmen as applicable to the special situation of the United States at that time had a curious influence on subsequent policy in Central Europe. Their operation had been observed by Frederich List while an exile in this country, and they made a deep impression on him. After his return to Germany he published, in 1840, his "National System of Political Economy," which was destined to exert a powerful influence on the thought of his countrymen.

Meantime, however, it had become apparent that the separate application of these principles by the innumerable little principalities then composing central Europe was deadening to their economic welfare. A movement, therefore, began about 1828 and culminated within a relatively short period in the establishment of a customs union (zollverein) which permitted free intercourse among the states who joined it. A further extension of the movement so as to include Austria, and perhaps other countries, was checked by political rivalry.

During the second half of the nineteenth century a most unfortunate interpretation of nationalism came quite generally throughout the continent to be inculcated in the schools and through the press as patriotism, and was enforced by social ostracism. Offensive rather than defensive economic nationalism was steadily emphasized. Not so much economic independence and self-sufficiency, as, rather, economic control and self-aggrandizement became the basis of national policy. A striking characteristic was the development of the dumping of surplus production into the home markets of competitors.

The spirit of offensive rather than defensive nationalism was intensified by the great war and it has premeated the policies of the new states which have since come into existence. When it is remembered how many new national boundaries have been drawn and, therefore, how much narrower are national markets and how much more restrictive is the application of nationalistic policies, it is clear that the need of some modern form of customs union in Europe is now more imperative than was the need for the German zollverein a hundred years ago.

The commercial restrictions and high tariffs maintained by the old nations and adopted by the new ones are keeping producers in perilous dependence on their home markets, for these markets are too small to absorb enough of their output to keep labor and capital effectively employed. This has lessened their production per capita and has accentuated their economic poverty.

The extension of this practice has deprived Great Britain of a large part of her continental market. It also tends to make her own unprotected market a dumping ground for the products of continental countries which they can not exchange among themselves. As a result, Great Britain has been forced to give serious consideration to the feasibility of adopting similar trade restrictions as a measure of self-defense.

The economic well-being of a people depends entirely upon the amount of their production per capita.

Production per capita depends upon the division of labor, the adoption of labor-saving devices, the standardization of mass production and the achievement of economy in distribution.

The distribution of standardized mass production is primarily dependent upon the existence of a wide home market.

Extensive home markets are made possible only by a customs union between States of adequate population with coordinate interests and a wide distribution of production among the people.

Whatever prosperity has accompanied the maintenance of a high tariff in our own country has been made possible by the enormous size of the home market, our unsurpassed abundance and variety of natural resources, our genius for organization, our wide adoption of division of labor and labor-saving devices, and our comparatively equitable distribution of the national output through high wages. To apply our tariff to the nations of Europe who have not these other advantages that we enjoy is to sacrifice economic welfare in order to gratify a dangerously narrow nationalistic spirit.

A study of continental European economic conditions shows that nothing less than an economic entente, which would extend the limits of their markets and diversify their resources and their facilities, will enable them even approximately to follow our example. In other words, if the principal continental countries, with or without Great Britain, would enter into a Zollverein or economic union, they might adopt for collective application a tariff policy like our own. Then, with their large aggregate population, they would be able to imitate our efficient standardized mass production. If this is done it will increase their per capita production, and if they will then distribute the output, as we do, through high wages, they will increase their home market to where it will be sufficient. Such a development and such a distribution will then, in Europe as with us, sound the knell of communism.

Arguments have appeared in the press of this country which interpret such a European entente as a menace to the development of our enterprise. In fact, however, whatever would increase the economic well-being and therefore the purchasing power of our European customers would result to our benefit. Our tariff laws profess to provide for such measure of protection to our industries as will equalize the disparity in cost of production resulting from low European wages. A raising of the wages paid in Europe to our own standard would naturally modify the application of this policy, so as to gradually increase our trade relations with other countries.

The proposed European economic union would tend to develop a flow of economic life between European states such as exists in our United States. Had the nullification efforts of South Carolina in 1832 been successful, and had each of our States attempted to develop a self-sufficient economic policy, we would never, of course, have approached our present economic well-being. Such a European union might embrace either all of the European states or be segregated into two or more group unions having in mind the amount of population and diversity of interests which would best coordinate.

In view of the controversial political aspect of tariff policy it may be well to emphasize the fact that the question of protection or free trade of Europe with the rest of the world is not involved in recognizing the necessity of an economic union among the European states. The effect of a European union or unions would have on our present European economic relations would be to substitute a consolidated protective tariff for the present numerous protective tariffs. It would, however, so increase the European production or economic well-being as to greatly increase our export possibilities.

As the economic and social interests of a people are infinitely more important than their purely political interests a European economic union will certainly modify that overdeveloped nationalism which is the greatest menace to the world's peace. Here in America, while each State of the Union is most jealous of its political entity, it makes little difference to our citizens in which State they reside because of the freedom of trade between the States. Germany was evidently deeply conscious of this difference in interests when she established a national economic council as an advisory board of the reichstag.

It is to be hoped that, if invited to participate in the proposed conferences, we shall accept the invitation. We should participate not with any view, of course, to becoming a party to such an economic entente as Europe needs, but in order to counteract the mistaken interpretation given to our own policy and to aid in promoting the general economic welfare of all nations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Helping the Poor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Raising children has proved to be more unprofitable than going into the "chicken business." The expense attached to it is not the only item to be considered. Many parents have been neglected by their own children in their old age, after spending all their money on their offspring, to give them a proper start in life.

A priest connected with a Washington church by the name of Father Walter, years ago recognized this parental neglect among his people, and was the means of bringing a worthy charity to the Nation's Capital, presided over by a deserving religious order, commonly called the "Little Sisters of the Poor." These good sisters have stepped in on numerous occasions and prevented deserving people from being taken "over the hills to the poorhouse," and no distinction was made on account of "race, color or previous condition of servitude." Such a worthy charity should be recognized by those able to assist the unfortunate.

Powers of Interstate Commerce Commission.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many of your readers have fully agreed with your editorial writer that the United States tariff commission should be abolished because the reposing in any commission to determine the policy of Congress relating to the raising of revenue or to the protection of American industries is unsound. That is a question of public policy that should be exercised by Congress alone and the Constitution undoubtedly intended that it should not be delegated.

It would seem that whether or not this country is to have a merchant marine would be considered as much a question of public policy as whether it should have a protective tariff. Yet, I see from a recent editorial in your paper entitled "Water vs. Railroads" that your editorial writer insists that this question of public policy should be left to the discretion of the Interstate Commerce Commission under its present authority to determine whether the railroads should be allowed to overcome competition by steamship by charging a less rate for the long distance than for the short distance.

The issue involved in this long and short haul matter is fundamental, and that issue is whether the extent of our merchant marine shall be determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission or should be determined by Congress. At the present time it is determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Gooding bill now pending is intended to deprive the commission of that power.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

THE Vice President and Mrs. Dawes will be the guests in whose honor Mr. Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone will entertain at dinner Monday evening, April 19, at the Willard hotel.

The luncheon which Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey, wife of Representative Dempsey, of New York, had planned in honor of Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the Vice President, at the Shoreham today has been postponed because of the death of Col. John C. Coolidge.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg will be the guests in whose honor the Ambassador of Brazil, Mr. S. Gurgel do Amaral, will entertain at a large dinner at the Montgomery Country club Saturday evening, April 17. Additional guests have been invited to attend the dancing which will follow the dinner.

Donna Antoinette de Martino, wife of the Italian Ambassador, will sail today on the Conte Rosso for a visit of two months to her home in Italy. The Ambassador and Signor Leonardo Vitetti, secretary of the embassy, who accompanied her to New York, will return to Washington next week.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Wilbur were the guests at dinner last evening of Mrs. W. S. James, of Los Angeles, who entertained them informally at the Mayflower.

Mrs. James, who is stopping for several days in Washington with her sister and her nieces, Mrs. Fred Potts, Miss Doris Potts and Miss Dorothy Hurlbut, will go to Boston next Friday and will sail from New York Sunday, March 28, for Europe, where she will pass several months in France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Belgium and England. Mrs. James had luncheon informally yesterday with Mrs. Wilbur.

The Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Herbert Hoover, will be guest of honor at the dinner of the "baby cabinet," which will be held at the Willard Monday, April 12.

Entertain at Dinner.

The Minister of Latvia and Mme. Seya entertained at an informal dinner last evening at the legation at 1715 Massachusetts avenue, when there were 22 guests.

The Minister of Greece, Mr. Simopoulos, returned to Washington from New York yesterday, where he had been for a few days.

Mme. Von Lewinski, wife of the German consul general in New York, entertained at dinner last evening at her home in honor of the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation and Senora de la Barra. There were twelve guests.

Mrs. Godfrey Lowell Cabot will entertain this afternoon at a small informal musicale and tea at her home, 2223 R street. Mr. Sigurd Nilssen will give a program of songs.

Mrs. Thornton Boland's sister, Miss Hellmuth, of St. Louis, will arrive in Washington Tuesday, March 30, and will remain with Mrs. Boland until she goes to her cottage in Douglas, Mich.

Miss Virginia McKenney has returned to Washington after passing a month in Savannah, Ga., as the guest of Mrs. John Porter Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hugh Bagby entertained at dinner last evening at Rauscher's in compliment to the interstate commerce commissioner, Mr. R. V. Taylor. The guests were Representative and Mrs. A. J. Montague, Mr. and Mrs. Jean J. Labot, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Graham, Dr. and Mrs. James G. McKay, Mr. E. Hilton Jackson, Miss Elizabeth Jackson and Maj. and Mrs. R. G. Payne.

Hostess at Luncheon.

Mrs. Cooper, wife of Representative Henry Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin, was hostess at luncheon yesterday, entertaining at the Willard in compliment to Mrs. L. A. Pradt, of Warsaw, Wis., who has many friends here, made during the years that Mr. Pradt was an Assistant Attorney General, during the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations. Mrs. Cooper's other guests included Mrs. William A. Oldfield, Mrs. James A. Frear, Mrs. Benjamin L. Fairchild, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Anderson H. Walters, Mrs. Everett Sanders, Mrs. Fred Dennett, Mrs. Carl A. Droop, Mrs. H. L. Rust and Miss Sue Brunn.

Mr. Edward F. Colladay will entertain at luncheon in the presidential suite of the Willard Tuesday.

Miss Elizabeth Irwin Edmonds, a senior at National Park seminary, arrived yesterday to pass the spring vacation with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank H. Edmonds. Miss Edmonds has as her guest her roommate, Miss Marjorie Traver, of Detroit, Mich.

The New York State society will meet at the Willard hotel this evening, at 8:30 o'clock. There will be an entertainment, arrangements for which are under the direction of Mr. John Lynch, the past president. The Washington Male quartet, composed of Mr. William Shanahan, Mr. Wilbur A. Gantz, Mr. Earl Carbaugh and Mr. Edwin Callow, will sing; Mr. George McCauley, banjoist, will play, and there will be other features. Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, jr., will be assisted by the vice presidents. Dancing will close the evening. Mrs. John Nicolson is chairman of the reception committee.

Mrs. Patton Wise Slemp, who is passing some time in Washington with her mother, Mrs. Fred Dennett, was hostess to a company of eight at luncheon yesterday in the presidential dining room of the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyne, of Denver, Colo., have returned to Washington, after passing the winter in Florida. They will be joined next week by their son, Mr. Harry Lyne, jr., a senior at Phillips academy, Andover, who will pass the Easter vacation with his parents here, at 1779 Church street northwest.

Cotillion Committee.

Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, is chairman of the men's committee for the Washington cotillion, to be held at the Mayflower Easter Monday evening, April 5, and Mr. William Bowie Clarke is secretary. The women's committee is composed of Mrs. John Washington Davidge, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mrs. Charles H. Patterson, Mrs. Emory Sands, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman and Mrs. Walter D. Wilcox.

Mr. Boyd Carpenter will be the guest of the literary lectures section of the Women's City club this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock and will speak on "The Literary Contacts of Europe with Asia."

The Women's City club will give a tea tomorrow, to which all women in the government service are invited. Mrs. J. Raymond McCarl will be the honor guest. The hostess, Mrs. Ralph A. Shepard, will be assisted by the president, Dr. A. Frances Foye; Judge Mary O'Toole, Judge Katherine Sellers, Miss Jessie Dell, Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman, Mrs. Mina Van Winkle and Miss Pearl McCall.

Miss Laura Berrien and Miss Ivy Wentworth will serve at the tea tables. Others assisting will be Mrs. Gertrude Reed, Miss Mary Benton Wright, Miss Maizie Buie, Miss Caroline Sudler, Mrs. Frank Gregory Stewart, Miss Josephine Crowley, Dr. Nell Bartrom, Miss Grace McVey, Miss Elaine Eppley, Miss Inez Justus and Miss Fay Bentley.

"The Style Show of 2,000 Years Ago" will be given in the Hall of the Nations at the Washington hotel at 2 o'clock next Thursday afternoon for benefit of the Holy Family and Myra McCoy Day nurseries. Some of these authentic robes, that are more than 2,000 years old, will lend added interest to the dramatic sketch, "A Day with the Water Carrier," which will feature the human side of the Bible.

Among those interested in furthering this charity are Mrs. Edmund Brennan, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Wymond Bradbury, Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews and Mrs. Nannette Paul, who is lending these wonderful robes, collected by the late Mme. Mountford Munford during her life in the Holy Land. Some of those wearing the costumes are Mrs. Leland Stanford Conness, chairman of the costume committee; the Rev. Henry L. Durrant, Mrs. Mabel Owen Wilcox, Mrs. Ada Louise Townsend, Mr. Conrad H. Young, Mr. Collier H. Cameron, Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., Mr. Paul Starkweather. Mr. Charles Doing is treasurer for the committee.

Mr. Samuel J. Henry, of the Rock Creek Riding and Hunt club, will have a drag riding to the hounds at the Congressional Country club, followed by a hunt breakfast, next Saturday at 3 o'clock.

Patronesses for Benefit.

Mrs. George M. Mattingly, chairman of the patronesses for the benefit card party and dance to be given by the members of the Mathis club at Rauscher's April 15 for the Bengal foreign missions, reports the following partial list of patronesses:

Lady Isabella Howard, Donna Antionette de Martine, Mme. Ciechanowska, Princess Margaret Boncompagni, Miss Lee, Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. William Kearney Carr, Mrs. J. J. Broderick, Miss Mary Patten, Miss Cullen, Mrs. David McCarthy, Mrs. George Scriven, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Mrs. Thomas Carter, Mrs. Milton Ailes, Mrs. John Cammack, Mrs. George J. INTOLERANCE IN AMERICA SEEN BY DR. ALDERMAN Brave Men Must End It, Head of University of Virginia Says in Address.

SCHOLARLY MINDS LEAD

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 19.—"Thomas Jefferson was the greatest liberal in American history," declared President Edwin A. Alderman, of the University of Virginia, who presided tonight at a formal dinner tendered delegates from 12 Southern states, here to attend the second conference on teaching and research in the social sciences, which opened this morning.

"Liberalism stands for the subordinating to the judgment of the individual man all arbitrary claims of external authority, ecclesiastical or constitutional. Practically, liberalism is trust in the people. Its aim is to give the people a chance to make themselves fit to be trusted. The supreme foe of liberalism is intolerance.

"A scheme of society in which intolerance prevails—and there are some ugly instances of its appearance in American life today—a scheme of society in which men cannot deliberately seek the truth and then fearlessly proclaim it to the world, is a society branded with the deepest infamy possible to the human spirit and one that brave men should unite in crushing."

Dr. Alderman, explaining that the "scholarly-minded man" is one "who observes closely, who is satisfied with the whole truth and nothing less, and who is intellectually sincere."

"The patriotic man," one "who wants to have a hand in the building of things ever better and better" are the ones who "will control society sooner or later." "It is they," he added, "who must give it its form, its direction, its permanence, its beauty. Democracy unsteadied by such forces is not a glorious optimism but an unsubstantial dream."

Fugitive Slayer Held With 2 Companions

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). Police officials announced this afternoon that Richard Reese Whittemore, alleged convict and slayer of a Baltimore prison guard, who was captured earlier in the day with two other men, had been identified as one of five men involved in the $100,000 diamond robbery on January 11.

The five robbers attacked two jewelers in a hallway on Forty-eighth street in broad daylight while thousands of persons were passing along Fifth avenue, only a few steps away.

The two other men arrested, who said they were Bernard Mortilloro, of the Bronx, and Pasquale Chiarelli of Manhattan, are also held on suspicion of having broken into the George M. Cohan theater in Times Square on March 18, when employes in the theater were bound and the safe looted.

Franc Sets New Mark For the Third Republic

Paris, March 19 (By A. P.).—The French franc tumbled today to depths hitherto unknown, so far as Paris is concerned, in the history of the third French republic, breaking even the low record of March, 1924. After the bourse had closed, the franc was quoted at 28.25 to the dollar and 137.20 to the pound sterling.

A council of ministers, presided over by President Doumergue, will meet Monday morning to examine the financial situation and study plans submitted by Minister of Finance Peret.

Giant Sea Serpent Reported in Pacific

Prince Ruppert, B. C., March 19 (By A. P.).—Capt. C. J. House, commander of the government fishery protection boat Cloyah, related here today that when his vessel entered Wright sound, 50 miles south of this city, Tuesday, he sighted a sea serpent raising its head 30 feet out of the water.

He said the creature's body emerged spirally, like a snake, and then straightened out. The head, which was wider than the rest of the body, was about 18 inches wide and 2½ feet long. House said the sun gave the monster a greenish gold appearance.

the Shenandoah, in her forced flight."

The radio officer attempted to communicate with the station, but in his first attempt picked up the broadcast of a Wednesday evening prayer meeting. Later, however, he got in touch with the field.

"At 1:30 in the morning we were some 44 miles from Scott field and making no headway against the gale," continued Prof. Burgess. "At 2 o'clock, however, we began to move forward. By that time the temperature in the central cabin was 12 degrees above zero. We were all suffering from thirst and hunger, and every man was weary.

Land in Searchlights' Glare.

"It was 5 o'clock and still very dark when Lieut. Anderson brought the RS-1 over Scott field again, but the wind was still too strong to land. At 6 o'clock the station sent a message that conditions were favorable for landing.

"After circling several times, Lieut. Anderson brought the RS-1 to the ground in the full glare of the station's big searchlights. Despite the terrific strain to which the ship had been subjected she was undamaged except for the two broken struts."

No Struts on Ship, Says Officer.

Belleville, Ill., March 19 (By A. P.).—No such harrowing experiences as described today by Charles P. Burges, associated professor of aeronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, were undergone by the crew of the army dirigible RS-1 in a flight at Scott field last January 27, Lieut. Col. John A. Paegelow, commander of the field.

Paegelow said the ship was forced to remain aloft nineteen hours because of a severe gale, but that no struts on the control cabin were broken and that, in fact, the ship has no struts. Only wire cables are used to hold the control car and these were not broken, the field commander said.

Several points on Burgess' story were disputed by Paegelow.

kin with orders to support the 313th. The attack was pushed with great gallantry and determination and brought the 313th almost to Madeleine Farm where it was checked by the enemy fire at 4 p. m. Without adequate artillery and infantry support, the greatly depleted regiment could not have maintained itself in its advance position nor was it called upon to do so for long, as shortly thereafter the order directing the brigade to take up a holding line north of the Bois de Beuge was received and the regiment accordingly withdrawn. This attack cost the 313th heavy casualties, including five officers killed, Capt. David Rupp 3d, of "C" Co., Capt. C. G. Riley of "D" Co., Lieut. W. P. McGoohan of "A" Co., Lieut. W. J. H. Walters, of "B" Co., and Lieut. D. M. Rupp of "G" Co. Among those seriously wounded was Maj. H. N. Jackson, senior medical officer of the regiment.

SENATORS TO HOLD HEARINGS SOON ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

amendment or to authorize light wines and beers. There is no suggestion that any member of the Senate who supported the amendment or the legislation for enforcement has changed his mind. If there were any suggestion of any change in sentiment reflected in the attitude of any considerable number of the members of the Senate so as to make amendment or repeal a reasonable probability, I should not only not oppose but would favor a full hearing.

Walsh-Wheeler Clash Awaited.

"In the circumstances I can regard the request for hearings as having no significance except as reflecting a desire to spread 'wet' propaganda."

Senator Reed is expected to be nesses, and it is assumed that Senator Walsh will play a similar role with respect to the wets. Mr. Reed is not an antiprohibitionist in the sense that he represents a wet State. But he has stood against the principle of prohibition and what he terms the "sham and hypocrisy" of the "professional drys," even when this meant taking his political life in his hands. No amount of pressure and no threats have moved him from his position, and he will admittedly be a force to reckon with when the hearings begin. His anticipated cross-examination of Wayne B. Wheeler is expected to mark one of the high spots of the hearings.

Praises Press Polls.

William H. Stayton, chairman of the association against the prohibition amendment, said yesterday that the newspaper polls on light wines and beer had much to do with bringing about the public hearings.

"The reversal of the decision of the judiciary committee in the matter of public hearings is undoubtedly due to the expression of public opinion of the citizens of the country through the unofficial polls being taken by the newspapers," said Capt. Stayton. "This poll, now extended to practically every State in the union, and to nearly all the larger cities, has demonstrated beyond question that the Volstead act lacks popular support, and that the great mass of public opinion is strongly arrayed against it.

"Approximately 3,000,000 citizens have already expressed their opinion, and the newspapers participating in the poll, and those publishing its results, have rendered a distinguished public service. It has been our contention from the beginning that the Volstead act was minority legislation, and nothing but evil results can flow from statutes which merely represent the will of small groups of our citizenship.

"The Senate judiciary committee is to be congratulated in promptly yielding to popular opinion on the Volstead act. In the hearing before the Senate judiciary committee facts will be presented to prove the disastrous effect of the Volstead act on respect for law and governmental authority and the consequent growth of crimes of violences, of its complete failure as a temperance proposition, of its demoralizing influence upon the youth of the land, of its vicious influence upon the social life of the nation and the contempt with which the general public views the law.

"When the true story of the failure of prohibition is revealed to the country, as it will be in the Senate committee hearings, the days of the Volstead act will be numbered. No law can endure in this country when the overwhelming opinion of the citizenship is bitterly hostile to it, as in the case of the Volstead act.

"The newspapers that are conducting the polls are to be congratulated for furnishing the medium through which the voice of the people might be heard on this all-important question. When the people are heard in final judgment on prohibition, Congress will not fail to respond by enacting sane legislation to produce the highest attainable degree of temperance with the least possible interference with the liberties of the citizens."

Attacks on Congress Resented by Thomas

(By the Associated Press.)

Declaring newspapers and magazines were constantly "belittling Congress" and printing articles constituting an "impeachment of the entire membership," Representative Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, introduced a resolution yesterday for a congressional inquiry into attacks on Congress in general.

"If there is decadence," he said, "let us find it out ourselves, and prevent this pyramiding of criticism." His resolution would provide for an investigation by a special House committee into "possible governmental improvements."

CIRCLING GLOBE IN YAWL BRINGS DEEP-SEA PRIZE

Blue Water Medal Awarded to Harry Pidgeon, Self-Taught Navigator.

ESCAPED MANY DANGERS

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). The Blue Water medal of the Cruising Club of America has been awarded to Harry Pidgeon, adventurer and yachtsman, for his recently completed feat of circumnavigating the world in a 34-foot yawl, it was announced today.

The medal, awarded every five years for the most courageous feat of navigation, will be presented to Pidgeon on April 6, at a dinner to be tendered him by the Cruising club on his arrival here from San Pedro, Calif., where his world cruise ended. Pidgeon and his yawl, Islander, which he built himself, are both aboard the steamship Virginian.

Only one other man ever has circumnavigated the globe in a small boat, according to the records of the Cruising club. He was Capt. Joshua Slocum, of Gloucester, Mass., an experienced navigator. Pidgeon, however, is only an amateur. He learned navigation by studying in a public library.

Since he sailed out of Los Angeles harbor on November 15, 1921, 35,000 miles of blue water has passed beneath the bow of his bobbing craft. The trip occupied 1,422 days, and Pidgeon reckoned it cost him only $1,000. All other entries are on the credit side of his travel log.

He had no previous knowledge of places he was to visit, nor of ocean currents, storm lanes and typhoon breeding grounds. Experience with these things and places were chalked up as knowledge gained. His log noted that eight miles north of Cape Town a "sou'-easter" drove him high and dry on the beach.

At another time while he was taking a "watch below," with the Islander wallowing in a sluggish Pacific swell, he was all but run down by a tanker which sheered his starboard quarter, leaving the Islander with a broken sprit and mangled starboard shrouds.

Running before gales which his small boat could not face, Pidgeon found himself in dangerous narrow passages, urged forward by current and gale, with rocks or reefs showing their teeth through the white breakers about him.

Round Table Knights Observe Anniversary

The fourth anniversary of the Loyal Knights of the Round Table was celebrated yesterday by a luncheon of the local chapter at the University club. William Knowles Cooper spoke on "What is Happening in Europe," devoting attention to the League of Nations. He compared the league to the union of the thirteen American colonies, but says it can never be a reality between the United States and Europe, because of racial, religious and linguistic differences.

The history of the organization, which was founded in Oakland, Calif., was given by W. Homer Maris. It now has 50 chapters in this country and Canada numbering more than 4,000 members. Dr. Everett M. Ellison, president of the local chapter, presided at the luncheon.

Commissions Awarded.

The following have been commissioned in the army reserves: William Orlo Boss, 3307 Northampton street, major, dental corps; Immanuel Augustus Hasskarl, Twenty-first and H streets, first lieutenant, military intelligence; Harold Emerson Brooks, office chief of chemical warfare service, first lieutenant, chemical warfare service; Jesse Clinton Muncie, Alexandria, Va., first lieutenant engineers.

FIRST PRESBYTERIANS TO PURCHASE NEW SITE

John Marshall Place Church Has Been Occupied for 99 Years.

ONCE MET IN CAPITOL

At a meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening, it was voted to purchase a new site for the church at the corner of Massachusetts avenue, Garfield and Thirty-sixth streets. The present building at John Marshall place northwest, has been in use for 99 years.

The first meeting place of the congregation was in the carpenter shop used by the workmen building the White House, several years before the national government took possession of the city. The Rev. John Brackenridge, the first pastor, was commissioned in 1795 by the Presbytery of Baltimore to act within the bounds of "The Federal City."

On giving up the carpenter shop the congregation was granted the use of a room in the Capitol, the room used by the Supreme Court. Here the first Lord's supper of the new church was administered.

Several distinguished figures in American history have been regular attendants at this church, Presidents Jackson, Polk and Pierce; James Buchanan while United States senator, and, in later times, President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who were married in the White House by the Rev. Dr. Byron Sunderland. The Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage was associated with Dr. Sunderland and Dr. Adolos Allen in 1895, continuing till 1899.

The present pastor, the Rev. John Brittan Clark, began his ministry in 1913, succeeding the Rev. Donald McCloud.

Party Will Be Given By Epworth League

Green decorations and Irish features will mark a St. Patrick's party to be given by the Epworth League of the Anacostia M. E. church in the church hall at Fourteenth and U streets southeast Wednesday. The league has deferred its St. Patrick's party until the monthly meeting, which will precede the party.

Miss Pearl Zirkle is in charge of the committee of arrangements. George C. Havenner, president of the league, will be in charge.

HINDU WILL ADDRESS 3 EPWORTH LEAGUES

Illustrated Lecture, Demonstration of Indian Customs and Magic on Program.

The Epworth leagues of Foundry Methodist Episcopal church, the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church have obtained the services of Dr. S. G. Krishnayya, a young Hindu, who has been of service in the movement to improve the condition of the lower caste natives of India, for a series of three lectures next week.

Dr. Krishnayya, a graduate of Nobel college and the University of Madras, and who was given the degree of doctor of philosophy at Columbia university, is in this country to study the industrial school system of the United States as an aid in working out a similar system in India. His program includes an illustrated lecture on India, a demonstration of Hindu costumes and custom, and a demonstration of Hindu magic.

Dr. Krishnayya will speak at the Metropolitan church, Tuesday, the Mount Vernon Place church Wednesday, and the Foundry church on Friday. In addition to the regular program at the Foundry church, Dr. Krishnayya will give a dramatization of the favorite love story of the Hindu's, "Mahabarhata, the Story of Queen Savitri."

Vocalists, Violinist In Vesper Concert

The nineteenth vesper concert will be held in the First Congregational church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at 4:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Ruby Smith Stahl is in charge of arrangements. Marguerite Carter will be the violinist, Earl Carbaugh, barytone; Mabel Flehr, contralto, and Charles T. Ferry, organist.

Among selections will be a barytone solo by Mr. Carbaugh, "Open the Gates of the Temple;" an organ offertory, by Mr. Ferry; contralto solo, "He Was Despised and Rejected," by Miss Flehr, and violin numbers by Mrs. Carter. Mendelssohn's funeral march will be used as a prelude.

ANNUAL MEETING ARRANGED.

Federation of Churches Executive Committee to Meet April 7.

At the monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Federation of Churches Thursday it was agreed the next annual meeting would be held in the hall of nations, Washington hotel, Wednesday, April 7, at 12:30. Dr. Earle Wilfley, president of the organization, will appoint a committee on arrangements.

The nominating committee, which will suggest officers and other members of the executive committee to be elected, will hold a session Monday afternoon in the office of the federation, in the Woodward building.

Church Plans Holy Year Mission.

In preparation for the jubilee visits of the holy year just extended to the whole Catholic world, a mission will be given at Holy Rosary church, Third and F streets northwest, for the members of the parish, starting next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and it will last the whole week. The Rev. F. Lardone, professor of the Catholic university, will deliver the sermons each evening.

THE REV. W. A. LAMBETH, D.D. Pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church South, where dedication services will be held tomorrow.

CHURCH WILL PRESENT PASSION PLAY PICTURES

First Congregational Plans Four Showings Beginning Tomorrow Afternoon.

DR. PIERCE WILL PREACH

The Passion Play of Oberammergau, as given in 1922 and photographed by Prof. Timothy Drake, will be given at six separate presentations next week in First Congregational church.

Professor Drake is regarded as the best authority in the United States on the Oberammergau Passion Play. He has memorized the speaking parts which he gives as the pictures are shown. An interesting feature of his work is that he has given this presentation in thousands of Catholic and Protestant churches of all denominations in this country. This is his first visit to Washington. The 125 scenes to be shown were colored in Oberammergau so as to reproduce exactly the tone colors of the garments worn by the players.

The play will be presented at 8 p. m. tomorrow, at 4:45 p. m., Monday, and at 4:45 and 8 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

At 11 a. m. tomorrow Dr. Jason Noble Pierce will speak on "Ability and Accountability." The Men's Bible class, at 9:45 a. m. will be addressed by Charles Pergler, commissioner in the United States of the Czechoslovakia republic and later Czechoslovakian Minister to Japan, on "Central European Problems."

FREEMAN TO ADDRESS 4 NOONDAY SERVICES

Will Speak During Holy Week at Keith's Theater; Others on Program.

Dr. L. W. Glazebrook, chairman of the committee of the Laymen's Service association in charge of noonday Lenten services in Keith's theater, announces that the speaker on the four days of Holy Week, preceding Good Friday, March 29, 30 and 31 and April 1, will be the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington.

The Rev. Andrew R. Bird will speak Monday. The Rev. Percy Mitchell will conduct the service and Walter B. Patterson, supervisor of special schools, will preside. Tuesday Charles V. Vickrey, executive secretary of the Near East Relief, with headquarters in New York, will speak. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of public schools, will preside, the Rev. C. E. Buck, rector of Washington parish, will pronounce the invocation and benediction.

Andrew H. Phelps will deliver the address Wednesday and the Rev. G. A. Ogg the invocation. Wilson Compton will preside. Thursday the presiding officer will be H. Lawrence Choate. The Rev. James H. Taylor will conduct the service. The Rev. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, will speak. Friday the audience will hear the Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, rector of Grace and St. Peter's church, Baltimore.

Y. M. C. A. LECTURE TO BE EASTER STORY

Illustrated Hymns Will Be Sung From Screen Tomorrow Afternoon.

An illustrated lecture will be given at 4 p. m. tomorrow in Central Y. M. C. A. entitled "Crispus, The Corinthian." This is an Easter story of one who was supposed to have been an eyewitness to the events of the first Easter.

The lecture will be given by Page McK. Etchison, religious work director of the Y. M. C. A. There will be several illustrated hymns which the audience will sing from the screen. Randolph E. Myers, social secretary, Y. M. C. A., will sing, "Open the Gates of the Temple." Mrs. Page McK. Etchison will be at the piano.

Mr. Etchison will speak to the Box Bible class of Emory M. E. Church South at 9:45 a. m. on "Jesus, the Citizen." The circulars and enrollment cards for the summer conferences for Christian workers of the District of Columbia are now ready for distribution and may be secured upon application at Room 217, 1736 G street northwest.

MT. VERNON PLACE M. E. CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

Bishop Chandler, of Atlanta, Will Officiate at Ceremonies Tomorrow.

LEADERS WILL ATTEND

The Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, the representative church of all Southern Methodism, will be formally dedicated tomorrow at 11 a. m. by Bishop Warren A. Chandler of Atlanta. The congregation will include leaders in official life in the Capital, leaders of the Southern Methodist Church and former pastors of the Mt. Vernon Place Church.

The church, ground for which was broken in 1917, now stands clear of debt. The last payments were made as a result of a campaign conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Lambeth, pastor.

Special music has been written for the service by R. Deane Shure, director of music in the church, and will be sung by the Mt. Vernon chorus.

The morning service will be broadcast by Station WCAP. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, Dr. T. D. Ellis will preach.

Prominent leaders in the church are in town for the dedication ceremony and also for a banquet which is being held tonight at the Lee House, at which former pastors and presiding elders will speak.

The Rev. W. A. McKee, assistant pastor, will preach to the Junior church tomorrow, at 11 a. m., on "The Man Who Counts."

The pastor's visiting committee will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when the quarterly conference of the church will be addressed by Dr. E. V. Regester, presiding elder.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Ella Leveritt, of Changchow, China, a Southern Methodist missionary for 30 years, will speak to the Woman's Missionary society at 8 o'clock.

In the absence of Dr. Lambeth, who will attend the Baltimore annual conference of the church to be held in Winchester, Va., A. F. Burgess will conduct the prayer meeting Thursday night.

PRAYER FOR EUROPEAN AFFAIRS IS AUTHORIZED

Use in Episcopal Churches Is Asked by Bishop During Present Crisis.

OBSERVE ANNUNCIATION

The disturbed condition of European affairs has become so acute that the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, has sent the following prayer to the clergy of the diocese of Washington, authorizing its use in services tomorrow, and until the present crisis has come to a peaceful settlement:

"Almighty God, King of kings, and Lord of the nations, who sittest in the throne judging right; we humbly beseech Thee to guide and prosper the council and the assembly of the League of Nations, now in session in Geneva, and give unto them the spirit of love, wisdom and understanding, that they may discern the right, and seek to do it in fear of Thee alone, for Thy glory, and to the comfort and peace and joy of all mankind; through Thy Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen."

Thursday will be celebrated in the Episcopal churches as the feast of the annunciation, on which day is commemorated the traditional visit of the Angel Gabriel to the Virgin Mary with the announcement that she was to become the mother of the Son of God. The usual form of commemorating this day is by a celebration of the holy communion in the morning.

Tomorrow morning the Rev. Luther B. Franck will officiate for the first time as rector of Emmanuel Episcopal church, Anacostia, succeeding the late Rev. Francis G. Ilsley.

Mr. Franck comes to Washington from Trinity parish, Charles county, Md. He is a graduate of William and Mary college and of the Virginia Theological seminary.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the diocesan officers of the Order of the Daughters of the King, in the diocese of Washington, will assemble in the chapel of the Good Shepherd.

The annual spring meeting of the Bishops Guild of the Episcopal Church will be held in St. Alban's Guild hall Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. The business meeting will be preceded by a celebration of Holy Communion in the Bethlehem chapel at 10 o'clock.

The Bishops guild is composed almost entirely of women, many of them being officers or active members of organizations of women within the church.

Theosophists to Meet.

The United Lodge of Theosophists, 709 new Hill building, Seventeenth and I streets northwest, will hear a talk tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock on "The Birth of Spring." The regular study class will be held Wednesday, March 24, at 8 p. m., "Reincarnation" being the subject now under consideration.

Church Club Hikes Tomorrow.

The First Congregational Church Outing club, Colin K. Cameron, chairman, will meet at the car stop at the end of the Mount Pleasant car line at 2 p. m. tomorrow, following which a hike will be conducted through Rock Creek park. Barbara W. Butler is leader.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Licenses have been issued in Rockville for the marriage of George Woodfield, 36 years old, and Miss Edith O. Burdette, 26, both of Woodfield, Md.; Elmer Dunawin, 22, and Miss Carrie McDaniel, 21, both of Louisa Courthouse, Va., and Carl T. Denekes, 31, and Miss S. Margaret Shartzer, 21, both of Washington.

REV. J. R. SIZOO TO SPEAK IN MORNING ON DREAMS

Rev. S. Roland Wagner to Be Assistant Pastor at First Baptist Church.

FREEMAN AT ST. JOHN'S

The sermon at 11 a. m. tomorrow in New York Avenue Presbyterian church will be by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, whose topic is "When Dreams Come True." The evening subject will be "Can We Avoid Temptation?" This is one of a series of sermons on personal problems in religion.

At Emory M. E. Church South, the Rev. D. L. Snyder will preach at 11 a. m. on 'The Last Step," and at 8 p. m. on "Lingering Longer."

The Rev. S. Roland Wagner, former pastor of Rockville, Md., has accepted the position of assistant pastor at First Baptist church in the absence of the Rev. Samuel Judson Porter, who is still confined to the hospital. Dr. T. D. D. Clark will preach at both services tomorrow. In the evening the cantata "Gallia" will be sung by the quartet. The day will be observed as "Visit Your Community Church" day at Chevy Chase Baptist. The Rev. Edward O. Clark will preach at 11 a. m. on 'The Veil of the Temple;" 8 p. m., "Behold the Man."

The sermon tomorrow evening at Central Presbyterian church will be by the Rev. E. M. Delaney, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Alexandria.

At Fifth Baptist church Dr. T. Ryland Sanford, of Fredericksburg, Va., will preach for the Rev. L. B. Warren, who is sick.

The Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector, will preach at 11 a. m. in St. Margeret's Episcopal church. The 4:30 evensong service will be addressed by the Rev. H. P. Almon-Abbott, of Baltimore. The daily afternoon services next week will be in charge of Canon A. P. Stokes.

Dr. John M. Atwood, of Canton, N. Y., president of the Universalist general convention, will speak at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Universalist Church of our Father, meeting in the Metropolitan theater. The adult Bible class will convene at 9:45 a. m.

The 11 a. m. service in Vermont Avenue Christian church will be addressed by Dr. Earle Wilfley, pastor, on the subject "The Great Teacher" and at 8 p. m. on "Watchers of the Sky."

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman will visit St. John's church, Sixteenth and H streets, tomorrow morning for confirmation and will preach. At 8:10 p. m. the Rev. Robert Johnston, rector, will preach on "The development of religious ideas in the period between the Old and the New Testament."

Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will speak to the Lattimore-Radcliffe Bible class in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow morning. At 8 p. m. he will preach in the Presbyterian church, Alexandria.

The Rev. B. P. Robertson, pastor of First Baptist church, Hyattsville, will preach at 11 a. m. on "An Assured Reward for Faithful Service" and at 8 p. m. on "The Scriptural Baptism of a Scriptural Subject."

In the morning the subject of the Rev. Charles Wood, at the Church of the Covenant, is "The Angel's Stroke" and at 8 p. m. "The Saving Name." Mrs. Ethel E. Patterson, of Los Angeles, will give a course of five lessons in the "Practice of the Presence of God" in the lecture room at 4:45 o'clock every afternoon next week.

SERVICES TOMORROW IN COLORED CHURCHES

Evangelistic Campaign Will Open at John Wesley A. M. E. Zion; Sermons at Others

The Rev. H. T. Medford, pastor of John Wesley African Methodist Episcopal Zion church, announces that the "gospel feast party" of Xenia, Ohio, will begin an evangelistic campaign tomorrow at 10:45 a. m.

The Rev. J. Milton Waldron, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church, will preach at 11 a. m. on "Christ and His Friends." At 8 o'clock he will speak on "Christ, the Bread of Life." The choir, under direction of Prof. T. H. Ward, of Florida, will render special music.

The Rev. George O. Bullock's topic at Third Baptist church at 11 a. m. is "The Way to Heaven" and at 8 p. m. "The Christian's Badge."

At Lincoln Congregational temple tomorrow morning there will be a special celebration of builders' day. The Rev. R. W. Brooks will speak on "The Certainty of Success." At the evening service Dr. William N. DeBerry, of St. John's Congregational church, Springfield, Mass., will speak. Lincoln Memorial Congregational temple is the outgrowth of a mission founded 57 years ago as a memorial to President Lincoln. Under its pastor the church has raised $12,000 toward its new building fund. It is hoped that this amount will be increased to $25,000 tomorrow, which will make available amounts aggregating $75,000 to be raised by the Church Building society.

Maj. Ernest H. Van Fossan, leader of All Comers Bible class for men at the Church of the Covenant, will continue his series of addresses on "What Manner of Man Was Jesus?" Sunday at 9:45 a. m. The subject this week is, "Jesus, the Student of Men."

"LET'S GO"=To Church=YOUR Church

Seek and Ye Shall Find

"I will instruct thee, and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go; I will guide thee with mine eyes."—Ps. 32:8.

DIVINE worship is the highest act of man. To worship God in its true meaning is the greatest privilege of mankind. When a man truly worships he is receiving knowledge and power; he opens himself, like a flower, to the universal light of Truth, and receives and drinks in its life imparting rays.

Worship implies the element of conscious inferiority and requires participation. It demands that the worshiper throw his whole personality into the act if he would come in contact with the personality of God. A poor sermon, commonplace music or disturbing details do not prevent worship.

He who attunes his mind to that which is pure and beautiful and good, who in the hour of worship strives to reach to the central and eternal heart of things, brings himself in touch with the personality of God and will receive Divine guidance.

"Seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

The church is the appointed place for divine worship, through which there is a way to knowledge, wisdom, truth and power.

TRADE BOARD BODY ASKS BOXING WITH LOCAL RULE

Sunday Closing Bills Are Condemned by the Public Order Committee.

FULL GROUP WILL ACT

Authorization of boxing in the District, under the supervision and control of the District commissioners, was advocated by the public order committee of the Board of Trade at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the Raleigh hotel. The committee also denounced the Lankford and Edwards Sunday closing bills.

Matthew E. O'Brien, local attorney, led the fight on the boxing bills saying that the Pepper and MacGregor bills contained "jokers" that would force boxing laws on all United States territories and insular possessions, and would remove restrictions against picture rights on fight films, by repealing sections of the criminal code.

"We want boxing," Mr. O'Brien said, "but we don't want undesirables here, nor do we want a bill legalizing our boxing matches that are forced on us by outside interests." The committee asked Mr. O'Brien to prepare a bill giving the District commissioner the power to issue boxing permits.

Sunday laws were opposed by a unanimous vote. Joseph Burkhart, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the question, stating that the attitude of President Coolidge should be "fully indorsed."

The full committee report will be submitted to the Board of Trade Tuesday night at its meeting in the Willard hotel. It is expected that the recommendations by the public order committee will be upheld.

Two Policemen Held On Assault Charge

Justice of the Peace Robert E. Joyce, of Mount Rainier, Md., last night held Constable Guy Robey and Special Officer Bernard Rowe, of that suburb, on bonds of $500 and $1,000, respectively, for their appearance before the Prince Georges county grand jury on charges of assault and battery on George Walsh, of Hyattsville, Md.

The charges grew out of the raid last Saturday night by the policemen on the home of Mrs. Mary C. Beach, of Daniels Park, Md. Although Walsh was arrested on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and assault and battery on the officers in an alleged attempt to resist arrest, the policemen were accused of beating Walsh.

$1,350,000 to Improve 6 Battleships Asked

(By the Associated Press).

A bill to authorize expenditure of $1,350,000 for improvements on six battleships, as recommended by Secretary Wilbur, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Miller (Republican), Washington, in behalf of the naval committee.

The vessels are the New York, Texas, Florida, Utah, Arkansas and Wyoming. The principal alterations will consist of installinng appliances for launching planes.

OPPORTUNITY

Are You Satisfied With the Amount of Your Pay Check?

The Washington (D. C.) Agency of The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York will inaugurate classes of Life Insurance Instruction and Salesmanship, covering a THOROUGH, PRACTICAL TRAINING, beginning Tuesday, March 30, 1926, at 8:00 P. M. at the Company's offices. Each class will meet two nights every week to complete the course of six weeks.

Ambitious, high-grade men, preferably those without life insurance selling experience, are invited to make applications to join the April classes.

Upon completion of each course, places will be offered to members who qualify. THIS AGENCY'S SYSTEM OF CO-OPERATION MAKES IT PRACTICABLE, THROUGH JOINT WORK WITH EXPERIENCED REPRESENTATIVES, FOR STUDENTS TO REALIZE AN INCOME EVEN DURING THE PERIOD OF INSTRUCTION. It is the object and purpose of this Department to develop successful life underwriters for this Company.

Life Insurance is today a part of the modern scheme of business and social life. Life Insurance practice, therefore, invites one to a more speedy financial success than most any field of endeavor, where HONESTY, ENERGY and BRAINS are ESSENTIAL PREREQUISITES.

Men who have come to a realization of the income limitations of their present occupation or employment will do well to seriously consider and investigate this opportunity.

It is our work to SEE THAT YOU SUCCEED.

Conferences at our offices beginning Wednesday, March 17, 1926.

Are the Spring Colors in This Sale of 150 Spring Topcoats

The sort of sale you'll want to tell your best friend about. For it gives a man a chance to get a good-looking Topcoat at a price he can pay, just when he wants it—at the start of the season. It gives Dad a chance to celebrate Spring in new clothes with the rest of the family, instead of waiting "'til later on when prices are lower."

In this case the price couldn't be any lower. Not with such fabrics and tailoring as these coats boast of. Plenty of plaids, plain colors (light or dark), and mixtures, and a full range of sizes from 33 to 46.

Fine wool cassimeres and knitted coats never intended for a price like this.

Box-coats only--the accepted fashion for men for the Spring season, 1926.

All have silk-lined sleeves and yokes.

Sizes, 33 to 46.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

To the Patrons of the Washington Rapid Transit Company

We asked the Public Utilities Commission to approve the purchase of additional double deck buses. The Commission refused approval but we are so convinced of the advantages to the public from use of double deck buses that we contemplate asking for further consideration.

We would like to get your support in the matter before going to the Commission again.

Our drivers and conductors have been provided with cards which we wish you would sign if you agree with us about the advantages of the double deck bus. Write us a letter if you do not get a card.

The Double Deck Bus will:

(1.) Provide a healthful open air ride for both business and pleasure.

(2.) Reduce street congestion because of small street space occupied per seat.

(3.) Help to maintain a low rate of fare.

Washington is a beautiful city and its beauty can be best be enjoyed by both residents and visitors from the top of a double deck bus. One such bus will provide almost as many seats as three of the smaller single deck buses now in use.

Double deck buses are now being operated in large numbers in many cities:

The Barbarian Lover

By Margaret Pedler

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Patricia Luttrell, daughter of a British resident commissioner, meets Kerry Lorimer, her father's "mystery man." A few days later he saves her from the maddened charge of a wounded tiger. Kerry reproaches Pat with being overcivilized. Her father is killed on the polo field, and Kerry, acting at the wish of her father, escorts Pat to England, where she stays with her godfather, the Earl of Marchdale, at Strangways. Here she learns that Kerry as a nephew to the earl, but because of a suspected theft is banned from the household, and his name never mentioned. Kit Wynsborough, another nephew and heir to the earldom, and Lady Mary, a sister, reside with the earl, and Pat soon learns that the earl dominates the whole family. Kit is in love with the rector's daughter, but afraid to tell his uncle. Pat goes for a ride, and meets Kerry "caravaning" in the neighborhood. He forces her to dismount, and while he is putting up her horse a terrific storm arises. Shocked by a stroke of lightning, which hits a tree near her, Pat is stunned, and Kerry catches her in his arms. Pat finds she loves Kerry and he loves her, but because of the blight on his name, he tells her that he cannot marry any woman. She tells him she does not believe anything against him. On her way back from seeing Kerry, Pat is thrown from her horse, which shies at an automobile, and, landing on a pile of rocks, is badly hurt. Pat returns to consciousness to find herself at the home of Peggy Bethune, a rich widow, whose brother, Mark Strown, had been the unwitting cause of Pat's accident.

During the first few days there were many quiet hours when she was alone and able to envisage past and future in their relation to each other and school her mind to contemplate courageously a life which would henceforth hold no Kerry in it. Perhaps a certain fugitive sadness lurked in her eyes and mouth, but it passed unnoticed amid the natural alteration—the slight pallor and sharpening of the contour of her face—easily attributable to successive days of pain.

Later, when she was promoted to the Chesterfield downstairs—arriving thither with the help of a crutch on one side and Strown's arm on the other—she had more frequent visitors. Lady Mary drove across to see her almost daily, and occasionally Lord Marchdale would accompany her. The corners of his grim mouth twitched curiously the first time he saw the slim figure extended on the couch.

"Why the devil didn't you tell me that the mare was unsafe?" he demanded gruffly. "I'd have had her shot sooner than let you ride her, if I'd known."

"She's as safe as possible," protested Patricia, smiling. "Only we got caught in that thunderstorm, you know, and it tried her nerves, poor dear, and then the car's coming so suddenly round the corner was the last straw. Besides"—honestly—"it was really my own fault. I was thinking of something else at the moment, and when she whipped round like that it took me unawares."

"Well," he grunted grumpily, "now you see what comes of insisting upon your own way. If you'd had a groom with you——"

Patricia went off into a shout of laughter.

"Dear godparent, if I'd had a whole procession of grooms trailing behind, they couldn't have prevented my being thrown off. They could only have picked up the pieces—and Mr. Strown did that quite competently."

"Oh, of course, it's useless to argue with a woman," snapped Marchdale crossly.

Patricia beamed at him engagingly.

"Quite. So you'd much better make up your mind to let me have my own way over things."

The old man tuggd at his moustache to hide a smile.

"I suppose I've no choice. Am I to sell the mare, or what?"

"Sell the mare? Sell Queenie? Why, of course not! You don't suppose I'm afraid to ride her again, do you"

"No. I didn't suppose you were afraid," he admitted, with a grudging kind of approval.

Another visitor was Bernard Waybrant, and the assiduous visits of Kit and Nancy coincided with such remarkable frequency that Patricia could not refrain from gently chaffing Kit on the subject.

"Well, it does give me a chance of seeing her home to the rectory—without provoking comment in high places," he acknowledged. "You don't mind, do you?" he added boyishly.

"Of course, I don't mind," Patricia gave the assurance whole heartedly. "I do wish, though"—her face clouding over—"that it wasn't necessary."

"No one wishes that more than I do," returned Kit, rising abruptly and going over to the window. "What do you think he said to me the other day?" he went on hotly. "'The less you have to say to Nancy Waybrant the better. There's nothing gained by filling the girl's head with ideas above her station.' Looks promising, doesn't it?" he concluded savagely.

Patricia was silent a moment.

"It looks rather as though he suspects something," she admitted at last, with reluctance.

"Exactly what I thought"—grimly. "Well, if it comes to a bust, Nancy and I shall do a bolt, as I told you before. And that will be the end of it."

There was a new note in his voice—a note of dogged intention, and Patricia was conscious of a sudden definite sense of apprehension. It was evident to her that Kit was finding the position of things increasingly irksome.

"Oh, no," she said quickly. "You mustn't do that. There have been quite enough family feuds and troubles at Strangways without adding to them."

He drummed impatiently on the window-pane.

"Perhaps you will explain to me, then, why one man, with the antiquated ideas of the generation before last, should be permitted to interfere in half a dozen peoples' lives and mess them up?" It's—damnable!"

"I think one must make a certain amount of allowance for him," said Patricia soberly. "His own life has been very much spoiled—and embittered."

"Is that any earthly reason why he should spoil some one else's life?" he demanded. "It ought to be the very reason why he should let other people alone. I tell you, Pat, I don't believe in the last generation's gripping like grim death on the present. They've had their turn. We've each of us got only one life—so why shouldn't we decide for ourselves how it's to be lived?"

"I know." Patricia's eyes were thoughtful. The passionate demand found an echo in her own heart, as it finds in the heart of all youth, eager for self-expression. "It's frightfully difficult to decide how much we ought to defer to the last generation—and how much they ought to defer to us. But I do think, in this case, Kit, you ought to go slow—for every one's sake. Sometimes knots unravel themselves after a time."

"Precious little chance of that happening in this case! And, meanwhile, Nancy and I are to waste years and years waiting round for it to happen."

She smiled.

"No, not years and years. But a year or so longer wouldn't hurt you. And, if some day godfather could be persuaded to look at things more reasonably, it would make for the happiness of everybody—including Nancy herself. If you do a runaway marriage, you know what it means afterwards. A sort of hole-and-corner existence, with you unable to come to Strangways and Nancy more or less cut off from her father."

"I expect we should survive"—Curtly.

"Oh, you'd survive all right. Only—you'd want to come back to Strangways. You don't realize it now. But you would. It's been your home. And one never quite gets away from the ache for the place that's been home." As she spoke, she was thinking of the man, who, for all his ten years' wandering and the passionate resentment which had embittered him beyond most men, had yet come stealing back by night just to "have a look at the old place."

"Anyway, Kit, promise me one thing," she went on, persuasively. "Promise me that, whatever happens, you'll do nothing definite—, nothing like running away, I mean—without telling me first and giving me the chance to see what I can do with godfather."

"No one could do anything with him."

"I don't know about that," she urged. "If it came to a big thing like yours and Nancy's happiness, I'd like to try, at any rate. You know, he's got a funny soft spot deep down underneath his prickliness."

"Humph!" grunted Kit with frank unbelief. "I've never come across it."

"Its there, all the same," she persisted. "So will you promise?"

He hesitated.

"Please, Kit."

It seemed a long time before he answered, and Patricia waited anxiously for his reply. His expression was noncommittal, and she had no means of gauging how much or how little she had influenced him. She only knew that somehow, in some way, she must prevent him from taking the law into his own hands and defying Lord Marchdale. If he did this, it would aim another deadly blow at the old man's pride, and quench the last flicker of happiness in life for Lady Mary—add one more to the long list of happenings which had made of Strangways a "place of tragedies." Even if Kit gave the required promise, there was no certainty that she would be able to avert disaster, but it offered a bare chance—a breathing space in which something, perhaps, might be effected.

"Kit, promise me!" She spoke appealingly. Perhaps it was more the appeal for her white, tired face that moved him than her actual words. He capitulated suddenly.

"All right," he said. "I promise. And now I'm going. I've wearied you out," he added, compunctiously.

She contrived a laugh.

"Never mind that. I've got my own way—and godfather will tell you that's all that matters in dealing with a woman!"

But when he had gone, she lay back very white and still on the couch, thoroughly exhausted with the effort she had made. Her ankle, too, was aching rather badly. It was thus that Strown found her, coming in a few minutes after Kit's departure.

"You look tired out!" he exclaimed quickly, his face taking on a look of concern. "I came up to talk, or read to you, whichever you preferred; but now that I've seen you, I shall do nothing of the kind. What you want is a rest."

She shook her head.

"Play to me instead," she said. "That will rest me more than anything."

Strown was an unusually fine musician, and had beguiled many a wearisome hour for her by his playing. Very often, when, as on the present occasion, Peggy was out paying calls or shopping in Ravenhurst, he would sit and talk with her, or read aloud, or play, and out of those hours alone together had grown a rather rare and understanding intimacy. And now he assented readily to her request.

"Very well," he said. "I'll play to you. But first I'm going to doctor up that ankle of yours. It's hurting you pretty badly, isn't it?"

"It is, a little," she acknowledged. "How did you guess?"

"I think I should always know if you were in pain," he said quietly.

For the first time in all these pleasant days of unthinking companionship Patricia was conscious of a sudden little panicky fear at her heart lest Strown were beginning to think of her in any other way than as a friend. She wished devoutly that Peggy would come in, but, glancing down at her watch, she realized that there was no hope of this for an hour or more.

Meanwhile Strown had rung for a basin of water to be brought, and now with steady, capable hands he unrolled the bandages in which the injured ankle was encased and proceeded to bathe it with a touch as light and deft as a woman's. He did it all so simply and naturally, just as a brother might have done for a favorite sister, that Patricia began to feel completely reassured and disposed to laugh at her own suspicions; and when at last he bound her foot up afresh and laid it gently back once more on the couch, she thanked him with a perfectly untroubled smile. She had not the least idea that, for him, those few minutes while he had held the slender white foot in his hand had been moments of fierce temptation, when it had been all he could do to refrain from pressing his lips to the satin-soft skin.

"Now," he said, when he had rearranged her cushions for her, "what shall I play?"

"I think I'm in a Chopin mood," she answered, smiling. "I want to be soothed, not stirred to violent emotions."

He nodded and, crossing to the piano, began with one of the ballades. It was evident in the very first phrase that he was a first-rate musician. He possessed the sure, firm, comprehensive touch, the unforced strength, which is so essentially a man's prerogative and to which no woman pianist of relatively equal musicianship ever seems able to attain. It conveyed a sense of effortless ease, and Patricia lay back with closed eyes, listening contentedly as he passed from ballade to nocturne and from nocturne to prelude, playing ever more and more quietly until at last, to the exquisite B minor prelude, with its low, insistent monotone of falling rain, she fell asleep.

Nearly an hour later Peggy returned from paying a neighborly call at the rectory to find her brother still seated at the piano, improvising softly to himself. She had approached by way of the terrace and, catching sight of Patricia asleep on the couch, involuntarily paused on the threshold of the open French window. In a glance, her eyes took in hte whole picture—the girlish figure, lying easily in the unconscious abandonment of slumber, and the man watching her as he played on quietly, fearful lest the sudden cessation of rhythmic sound should waken her.

Peggy drew back, but her movement attracted Mark's attention, and he glanced toward the window. Across the room their eyes met, and there was that in his which suddenly, startlingly revealed to her his secret. She realizzed that she had inadvertently caught him "off guard," so to speak, and knew that the woman at whose side he was watching was the one woman in the world to him.

She drew her breath in sharply, with a little gasp, envisaging with all a woman's swiftness of perception what this would mean as regards the future. In a way she had lost him. She would never again stand first with him. And then quickly on the heels of this first thought—natural enough in the circumstances—came a rush of unselfish gladness for Mark himself. She smiled across at him, then putting her finger to her lips as though to indicate that she would not come in for fear of disturbing the sleeper, she slipped away, to conquer in solitude the undeniable ache, the unwilling sense of grudge, born of the knowledge that she must henceforth take second place with the brother to whom she had hitherto been all in all.

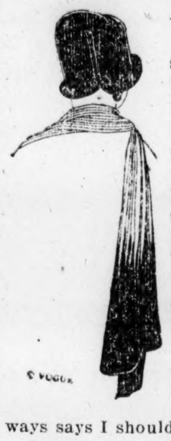
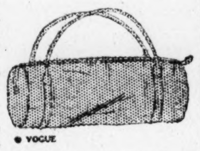
Eve In Paris



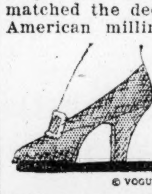
Angellest:

I go about and see such heavenly things that I'd be perfectly happy if only I could clutch you and say "Claribel! Look at that woman—isn't she just too divine?" Whereupon you'd be sure to say something cutting about the lady, or me, or life in general—and I'd climb down emotionally as mother always says I should.

Behold the lady with the new Rodier scarf. Just as we say, "The scarf is dead," we cry, "Long live the scarf!" But, of course, it's subtly different, so that it keeps the poor American husband chasing to pay its bills—just "in the little way that Paris has about everything.



This scarf is in a sort of fluted, shaded georgette, going from a heavenly pinky color to a deep wine. The little cut-felt hat matched the deepest part. I hear American milliners are trying to revive "trimmed hats," but, my dear, they'll never do it. Paris might; but I see no signs. Even the big straws for the country have nothing but a narrow band of velvet or grosgrain.



The zipper bag isn't new, but it gets more and more varied. It began in a traveling size—and it still travels. Then it had kittens, so to speak, and little tiny zipper bags appeared on the streets in town. It went to the Riviera to hold bathing suits—to Palm Beach, too, I'm told. So far, nobody has evolved an evening version, but I wouldn't put it past them.

The shoe I send is varied in ever so many ways—alligator, lizard, even antelope—but the high-cut simple line and the buckle covered in the leather are the same in all of them. Kid, of course, is the most popular shoe material at the resorts, but the reptiles fairly crawl all over the town. Love to you—and may some one die and leave you a fortune soon! Then you'll be sure to be with me in Paris.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

By NANCY CAREY.

I HAVE before me two recipes, and it gives me pleasure to award to Mrs. Frank A. Linzel, of 4118 Military road northwest, the first of the prizes offered in the contest of recipes, for her zwieback nut cake which, of the number of recipes selected to be tested, was found to be the most unusual and delicious.

The second prize is awarded, also with great pleasure, to Margaret Finks Bailey, of 814 Prince street, Alexandria, Va., for her frangipani tartlets. We shall print these recipes today exactly as they were received by this department, and I feel very safe in saying that you will feel no disappointment if you add them to your menu at any time or for any occasion whatsoever.

The contest has been for me a great enjoyment, and I wish especially to thank the many readers who took this opportunity to mention that The Housekeeper has been, in the few months of its existence, a source of interest and assistance to them. With the host of delightful letters we have discovered a host of friends, and The Housekeeper wishes to thank them very sincerely for their kindness.

It was difficult to decide upon the winners, for the recipes were, on the whole, splendid and most unusual. I am sorry that I had not many more prizes to award, for there were many deserving recipes. There are to be, however, more contests in the not too distant future, and those who were not successful this time may hope for better fortune next time. So many of the contributors signified a willingness to share their recipes, whether or not they won the prize, that I am going to ask anyone who does not wish her recipe printed to communicate with me. Otherwise from time to time I should like to include one or another of these delicious things in our daily menu.

And now, as this contest is quite a part of the past, and checks—one for $4 to Mrs. Linzel and one for $2 to Margaret Finks Bailey—are on their way from The Post, I should like to discuss with our readers plans for a second contest which we shall conduct some time next month. This was quite an unadorned contest—open to all types of recipes and in no particular way unusual. As these contests are conducted for the pleasure and interest of the readers of The Housekeeper I should like very much to have their suggestions and help in planning the next one to come. No doubt other cities have conducted unusual contests in which some of you have taken part, or an entirely new idea may present itself to some of you. As we have said many tunes; it is the purpose of the column to help the housekeepers of the vicinity by assisting them to share their experiences. May I hope that they will help me to make our next contest even more of a pleasure and help to us all than this has been—to make it, with their suggestions, interesting, unusual and attractive.

* * * *

It is again Saturday and again, because our space is well-nigh consumed, we must be brief with our menu and its details. Therefore shall we have chicken en casserole? With it appear only dishes previously described.

MENU

Consomme

Celery Chow-Chow

Chicken en Casserole

New Carrots Boiled Rice

Dressed Lettuce

Zwieback Nut Cake or

Frangipani Tartlets

Cafe Noir

Chicken en Casserole.

Fry one chicken (four or five pounds) which has been cut in pieces in a frying pan in which has been placed enough butter or drippings to keep the chicken from burning and one onion thinly sliced. The chicken must previously have been rolled in flour. Brown well and remove to a deep baking or casserole dish. Over the meat place one cup diced celery, one minced pimento, one chopped green pepper, one onion and one carrot cut in small pieces. Add salt and pepper and water to cover the chicken which has been brought to a boil and stirred around in the pan in which the chicken was fried. Serve with rice, and it is not necessary to remove the chicken to a platter, but is better in fact, served in the casserole dish.

Zwieback Nut Cake.
(First Prize.)

One cup sugar.

Four eggs.

One cup grated zweiback.

One cup chopped walnuts.

One-half teaspoonful vanilla.

One-half teaspoonful baking powder.

One-half pint double cream.

Beat yolks of eggs well into the sugar and add zweiback, walnuts and baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and add vanilla. Bake in two small layers in a moderate oven. Put whipped cream between layers and on top of cake and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts.

Frangipani Tartlets.
(Second Prize.)

Put one-fourth cup cream and one tablespoonful flour in a small saucepan and stir until smooth. Place on the fire a few minutes to cook the flour, stirring all the time. Remove from fire, and when cool add four tablespoonfuls powdered sugar, one tablespoonful each of sherry, orange juice, water, grated lemon rind and chopped citron and the yolks of four eggs. Set the saucepan in another pan containing hot water and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture has become a thick cream. Fill the tartlet shells that have been previously baked from good pastry with this cream and over the top spread a meringue. If you like, sprinkle the meringue with chopped almonds and finely cut citron and place a cherry cut in half in the center. Brown meringue in oven.

Wouldn't Any Young Miss Approve of This Frock?

It Would Seem So!

First of all—it is fashioned from Flat Crepe in the softest rose shade, luscious like the taste of crushed strawberries!

And next—just to be very different and extremely Frenchy, it introduces a touch of black, and a splash of orange-red, and some little leaves of Chartreuse; all in embroidery around the edges of the blouse, the high collar and sleeves.

Its price is $39.50 and this is only ONE style! Many others for misses.

A Little Saturday Talk

THE COMING OF SPRING.

SPRING is due to arrive tomorrow—on Sunday, March 21. The official time for its arrival is two minutes past four in the morning, but I suppose you will be in bed, sleeping soundly. That is a good thing to be doing, early in the morning—sound, restful sleep during the darkness helps us to enjoy the daylight.

Of course tomorrow may not be a pleasant day—it may be rainy or misty or blowy or even snowy; but we can rejoice no matter what the weather happens to be. At last the daylight has caught up with the darkness! The share of each will be about equal for a few days, and then we shall notice that the days are longer than the nights. For three months the days will continue to grow longer, and the nights shorter.

Down in South America, in countries below the equator, it is the other way around. The days are about to grow shorter than the nights in Argentina, Chile, Peru and most of Brazil. In those countries, autumn is ahead. When we have our summer, they will have their winter. That difference is all due to the "tilt of the earth's-axis."

(By the way, did you ever hear of the little girl who wrote that the equator was "a menagerie lion who runs around the center of the earth?" The earth's axis is just as imaginary as the equator, but it helps us to keep our ideas straight about the motion of the earth.)

So I greet you as spring is about to dawn. This is the season of the great awakening, when plants which have been dead during the winter come to life again—not living in themselves but in their children. Singing birds which have been away, return to build their nests and give us the joy of their songs. The people who live farther north cannot enjoy the change to the true springtime as soon as we; but growing things will shoot into life all over the northern hemisphere, except in the arctic circle.

Marbles and rope jumping have been here for some time, but the baseball and tennis seasons are ahead. Do you expect to have a good time this spring? What are you planning to do?

Q. Why did the Norse discovery of America have no important effect?—Florence Meyer, age 14.

A. Because the Norsemen were not able to make it a place of permanent settlement, and because they did not herald the news of the discovery to other nations which might have carried on successful colonization. When we remember, however, that the compass was not then used by European sailors, and that gunpowder and muskets were also lacking, we see that the news would probably not have led to successful colonization even if it had been widely spread—at least, not until after the year 1300 or 1400.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CHANCE.

Chance made him rich, but you can not find
That the self-same chance had made him kind.
Rich ore he struck
By a stroke of luck,
From the wheel of fortune he drew a prize,
But luck had no charm that could make him wise.

Chance filled his purse with a golden store
But left him just as he was before.
He was rough and loud
And his speech was proud,
He was still the man that he used to be,
For luck couldn't make him good company.

Chance couldn't give him what books contain,
It could fill his purse, but not his brain,
And it seems too bad
That the luck he'd had
Couldn't make him gentle, and kind and true
But these are miracles luck can't do.

The wheel of fortune may bring you gold,
But the man you'll be is your own to mold,
Chance makes you rich
By a lucky pitch,
But each for himself must his knowledge learn,
And the traits worth while every man must earn.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

No Good Ones!

DEAR Miss McDonald: Being a follower of your column, I am taking the liberty of writing down my experience as regards the feminine sex and which I hope you will publish. It is good food for thought. Thanks in advance.

To begin with, I have had some little Romeo and Juliet affairs, and certainly came out loser. Say Miss McDonald, there are lots of good women in this world, and a sight more evil ones and I would like to know how to go about finding the good ones. Maybe they are all sold, by this time. I have tried flappers, and the old-fashioned maid, and one is worse than the other, and I am unable to tell which is the worse. Both are mercenary but the flapper is at least entertaining.

I was engaged to what is called an old-fashioned maid, and I loved her very dearly, too dearly and built a three thousand dollar home for her. She turned me down for another "sheik" and married him, and after that I picked him up and gave him a job and paid him a good salary, so he could give her a home. Ye gods. Why? Because foolishly I still loved her. I promoted him above his ability to help her out. She called me up several days ago (and this is mainly why I am telling you this), and asked me to come over.

Dumbbell, I went over on Sunday evening as he had just stepped out. They had been having a prize fight, and she came out on the short end. She said fights were in style at her home. I pitied her, I could have cried. But she immediately had the audacity to suggest we run away. Right there I got alive. My love took flight. Now I am glad he got her instead of myself, and he is welcome to her, because she and I are through.

Previous to this I had fallen in love with another lass, and she wanted to marry, funny. (Evidently heard about me before, and was looking for a home). I consented like a hero and two days before the big day came off, I went to take her for a ride, but on arriving there I found her absolutely out of her head from moonshine liquor supplied by my rival. The next day I voided my end of the contract. I was lucky there too, to miss by so narrow a margin.

I am going to stay a bachelor for I might get stung next time I took a chance on sweet femininity.

Boys let me give you a few tips on girls.

Any girl that wants a statement of your finances, before she will let you call, you better have a blowout and not get there.

Any girl who is too good to ride in a cheap car, you better let her stay home, because when you get her, she will want to change cars quick.

When a girl tells you you are the only one she loves, look out, boy, some other lad is getting the same dope. Better take that with a little salt.

When a girl pouts, steer clear, because she is wanting to be made up with by receiving a present, and if you want to feel good, send the present, because she doesn't want you, she wants the present.

Now friends, if there are any of you who have any objections, and want to argue the other side, come on, I have had my experiences and I paid dearly for them, and I know. The only way you can argue to my satisfaction, is, by having had the same medicine as I have had. From hence on, I will play safe.

And if you want a good-for-nothing house cheap, you can have the one I built for a woman who found some one to beat her. But he had "style," she says.

Now, Brothers, am I alone in this? Is the trouble with me? Or is a man merely playing the real fool when he pins his faith on the sort of girl available today

BACH.

This letter reminds me of a chap who came into my office once "to get advice and comfort," as he expressed it. He was being sued for breach of promise. Naturally, I let him unburden his soul.

"This is the third time I've got into a tangle with a girl. The first one just led me on till I had spent $2,000 on furs and jewelry and eats and shows. Then she moved, leaving a note saying, "Thanks for the good times," and no address. I was a wreck for six months. The next one married me. That was the worst luck of all. She brought her father, mother and two brothers along for me to keep. I was three years trying to get free. Now this one wants to get every dollar I've got—about $7,000. She's suing me for $10,000. And she has all kinds of letters to prove I asked her to marry me. But I'll go to jail first. She drinks. What can I do? What's wrong with me?

He stopped for breath.

"Where did you meet these girls?" It was the only question I had to ask, for the answer told me everything!

"Meet them? Oh, different places. At dances and parties. The first one flirted with me in a dance hall—she was alone, so I took her home and we started going together. The one I married vamped me at a party to spite her girl friend, who had been going with me. And this one I met in a restaurant. She had lost her purse and I paid her check."

And by now she probably has his $7,000!

Isn't it strange that a man who wouldn't think of calling up a bootlegger if he wanted to purchase a Bible will go into a public dance hall or out on some street corner to find himself a wife? Don't you wonder where "Bach" goes looking for those "good women" he can't find?

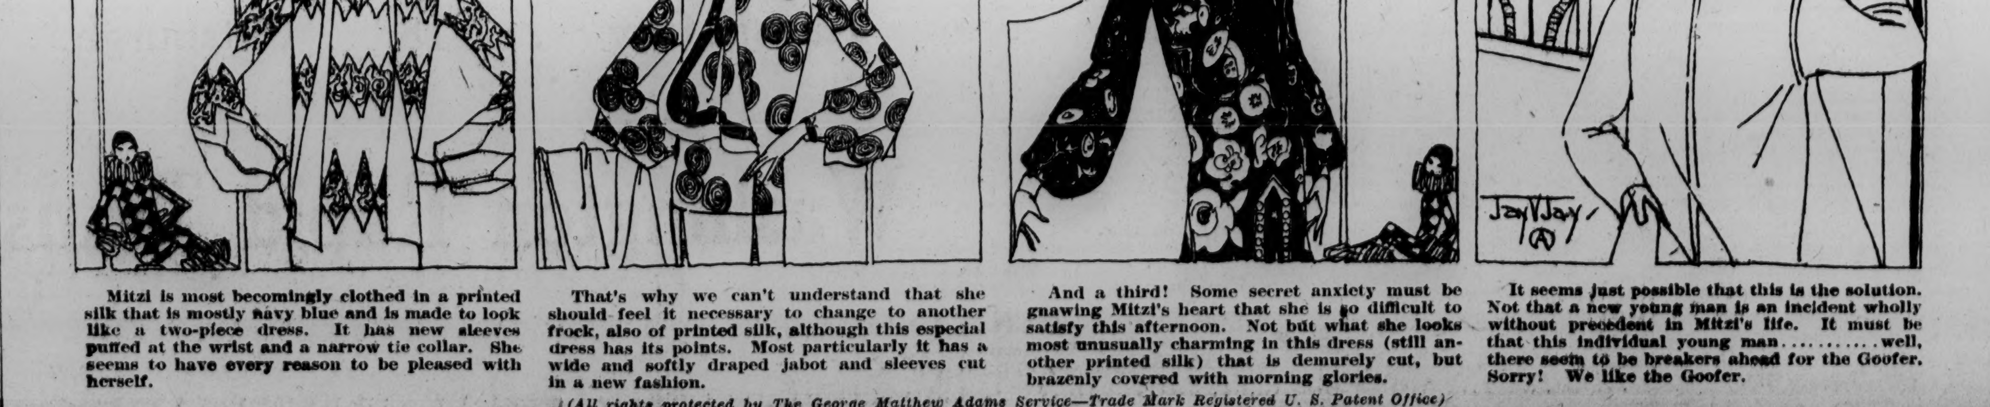
MODISH MITZI

This Looks Serious

By Jay V. Jay



Mitzi is most becomingly clothed in a printed silk that is mostly navy blue and is made to look like a two-piece dress. It has new sleeves puffed at the wrist and a narrow tie collar. She seems to have every reason to be pleased with herself.

That's why we can't understand that she should feel it necessary to change to another frock, also of printed silk, although this especial dress has its points. Most particularly it has a wide and softly draped jabot and sleeves cut in a new fashion.

And a third! Some secret anxiety must be gnawing Mitzi's heart that she is so difficult to satisfy this afternoon. Not but what she looks most unusually charming in this dress (still another printed silk) that is demurely cut, but brazenly covered with morning glories.

It seems just possible that this is the solution. Not that a new young man is an incident wholly without precedent in Mitzi's life. It must be that this individual young man...........well, there seem to be breakers ahead for the Goofer. Sorry! We like the Goofer.

ADDISON SHOWS VALUE OF COMMERCIAL BANKS

95 Per Cent of Nation's Bills Paid by Check, Head of Association Says.

SPEECH IS BROADCAST

By F. W. PATTERSON.

"Ninety-five per cent, more than nine-tenths of all the business and personal bills of the nation, are paid by check," said Francis G. Addison, jr., president of the District Bankers association, last night in broadcasting a talk on "What We Use for Money," from WCAP, as a part of the educational program being conducted throughout the country by the educational committee of the American Institute of Banking. "That gives you some idea of the large part which banks and bank checks play in the business of America," he declared.

"Imagine what would happen if there were no commercial banks, where you could carry a checking account. Suppose you had to stuff your pockets full of bills and go down in person to every individual and store you owed or did business with, and pay them in cash. Fancy a business man in Washington buying merchandise from a firm in Seattle, and having to ship the actual money across the continent by express.

"In the old days, on the frontier, men had to plank down gold dust, coin or silver dollars. That's where the old expression 'down with the dust' originated. A few hundred in the old silver cartwheels was almost as big a load as a mule could carry."

In concluding, the speaker referred to the bank as the world's central exchange office and pointed out that money and credit are the life blood of commerce, industry and finance, and the bank is the heart of our financial system, daily performing a service that is absolutely essential to the life and trade of the nation.

Stock Exchange Active.

Shaking off its recent slump, the Washington Stock Exchange was brightened considerably yesterday. Dealing was on an increased scale and activity covered a broader field than for several weeks.

Interest centered chiefly on the utilities, with Washington Gas Light moving in greatest volume. These shares opened at 72⅜, ⅛ under Thursday's close, with all except two shares which sold at 72½, changing hands at the first figure to close. Capital Traction, still quoted ex-dividend, sold fractionally down to 110. Potomac Electric Power preferred, holding its late level, sold to end of session at 107½. Washington Railway & Electric preferred, with 10 shares selling at 90¾, opened a ¼ point up. This advantage was lost on the next sale, but was recovered on final 10-share transaction.

Lanston Monotype moved further upward with an overnight gain of ¾, followed by a further advance to 84 on other sales. Merchants Transfer and Storage common sold as heretofore at 115, as did the preferred in moving at 100½. National Mortgage and Investment preferred sold to the extent of 100 shares at 8⅛.

Dividend Declared.

The first dividend on Merchants Transfer and Storge Co. 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock was declared by the board yesterday, payable April 1 to shareholders of record at close of business March 22, according to announcement by John L. Newbold, president of the company. The books will be closed from March 23 through the 31st.

The dividend covers the two-month period from February 1, the date the stock was issued, to April 1. The other regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 will be paid in July, October and January.

Admitted to Trading.

The 8 per cent preferred stock of the Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., was yesterday admitted to trading on the Washington Stock Exchange and will appear among the listed stocks today.

Of the authorized issue of $2,000,000 preferred shares, but $1,000,000 are outstanding which constituted the first offering of the company's stock last November. In furtherance of the expansion plans announced by Malcolm G. Gibbs, president, the company has purchased a large drug store in Alexandria, Va., and with the recent addition of another store in Washington has increased its chain of establishments to 20. A quarterly dividend of 2 per cent was paid on this stock on February 15.

Bankers to Be Guests.

Members of Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be the guests of A. W. Hall, director of the bureau of engraving and printing, on the afternoon of April 27, for the purpose of inspecting the largest establishment of its kind in the world, but more particularly to see some of the processes of turning out the currency, according to announcement yesterday by R. Jesse Chaney, president of the chapter.

The suggestion for this visit came from the industrial plant visitation committee of the A. I. B., which has inaugurated a series of inspections of industrial plants in other cities.

Postal Savings Increase.

The balance of postal savings on deposit in the District February 28, totaled $361,833, an increase of $5,029 over the preceding month, according to statement of the postal savings business made by the Post Office Department yesterday.

Total deposits on February 28 for the entire country were $134,996,667, an increase of $905,800 over the amount of deposit January 31.

Reserve Ratio Mounts.

The cash ratio of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank showed a slight increase last week, corresponding with the trend of the system as a whole. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and note liabilities stood at 65.30 per cent, as against 64.59. Total bill holdings declined $756,000, to $54,490,000, while total bills discounted were $1,373,000 lower than the previous week, bills bought in the open market were $620,000 higher than for the week ending March 10.

Aggregate reserves were increased to $96,327,000. Federal reserve notes in circulation increased $904,000, while member bank deposits increased slightly, totaling $68,888,000, against $68,329,000.

Bank Declares Dividend.

Directors of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank have declared the regular quarterly dividend of $3 per share, payable on April 1, to stockholders of record March 24, according to announcement by Harry V. Haynes, president of the institution, yesterday.

Banker Has Birthday.

C. J. Gockeler, vice president District National Bank, was being felicitated yesterday by bank officers and employes as well as by a host of friends on the Washington Stock Exchange and throughout the financial district on the fiftieth anniversary of his birth. Mr. Gockeler entertained a number of his friends informally at the National Press club in the evening.

Europe Behaves in Manner Unbecoming to a Borrower

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, March 19.—Wall street, anxious to search out the causes for the secondary reaction, is seeking them in factors in the foreign situation rather than those germane to the question. It blames Geneva instead of general liquidation. But the fact is that the foreign situation is bullish, temporarily, at least, rather than bearish on the market—or the bond market. If Europe does not intend to behave, our cautious investor does not want her bonds. And as her deportment is anything but that which becomes the borrower, who usually puts on his parlor manners when he comes a-courting credit, there is a strong disposition on the part of our public to get away from foreign financial entanglements and put its savings in the stocking that hangs over the home hearthstone.

All of which is put forth in the bond analyst's description of the faltering tendency of inquiries for overseas securities:

* * * *

"Foreign financing, from present indications at least, for the first quarter of the year is likely to be less than in the same period of 1925. Economic and financial improvements abroad, the flight of capital from countries in which currency is depreciating or radical tendencies are rampant and American investors failure to keep apace with international developments, have lessened foreign loans in this market.

"Some of the central European and Scandanavian countries have shown marked improvement within the last year. Germany still needs money, but not so badly that it is willing to pay interest rates approximating 8 or 9 per cent. Initiated in the foreign investment field when most bonds, even with the strongest security behind them, yields 7 per cent or more, many investors here continue to demand higher yields on all foreign securities despite the borrowers' battered condition.

"Flight of capital from France because of the franc and from Great Britain because of unsound financial policies have poured steady streams of money into countries seeking loans. In most cases such moneys were advanced at considerably larger rates than could be obtained here. Then again, the ease of money in both Switzerland and Holland have made those places favorites for borrowers. Several large loans have been awarded to London recently which should have gone to New York. This market is likely to lose more such business if American investors do not reappraise their ideas of foreign values.

"Political wrangles and scrambled internal finances have largely contributed to further declines in Belgian and French currency. Belgium had informally balanced her budget, had apparently stabilized the franc around four cents and was well on the way to the resumption of a gold basis when the franc toppled. French currency softened in sympathy with Belgian francs.

"The Belgian cabinet has authorized a $150,000,000 external loan. And an international banking group some time ago indicated its willingness to advance such an amount if certain budgetary and financial practices were eliminated. The bankers, rumors to the contrary, have not yet been approached on loan negotiations. Present ease of the franc is due chiefly to the belief that it should find a solid level, perhaps somewhat below four cents, before revalorization.

"French francs continue to suffer from political dissensions over internal finances. Cabinets rise and fall with amazing rapidity. Meanwhile France does nothing to repair its finances. Despite chaotic internal political and financial conditions France has restored her mines, reequipped her factories, remade the devastated regions and maintained her rank as third in the world's trade. French industries continue to import labor and business generally continues brisk."

The dollar was quoted at 28 francs 9 centimes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 19 (By the Associated Press).—With corn sliding down today to a new low price record for the season and with wheat shipments from Nebraska to Chicago threatening to break up any shortage of wheat here for delivery on May contracts the wheat market today underwent a collapse of nearly 7 cents a bushel. Wheat and corn both finished wild, wheat 4½ to 6¾ cents net lower, May (new), 1.59⅝ to 1.59⅞ and July, 1.36⅞ to 1.39⅛; corn, 2¾ to 3⅜ cents down, oats 1 cent to 1¼ cent off, and provisions varying from unchanged to a setback of 22 cents.

Throughout the entire grain list, the closing prices were without exception at the day's lowest level. Wheat suffered its worst break in the final hour of trading after unusual shakiness had been evident for some time in the corn market, a condition largely due to word going around that no legislation to help producers appeared likely of enactment. Coupled with the depression of corn values, however, and with reports of a prospective influx of wheat here from Omaha were glowing advices of crop conditions for wheat in the Southwest. Under such circumstances the relative steadiness of the wheat market disappeared as the day neared an end. Heavy selling of all future deliveries of wheat here set in and prices rapidly gave way until the closing gongs cleared the crowds out of the pits.

Sudden virtual stoppage of export business had considerable effect as a contributory depressing influence in the wheat market. In contrast with European buying of North American wheat yesterday estimated at 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 the only purchase for trans-Atlantic shipment confirmed today was 100,000 bushels of durum. Weakness of Liverpool quotations today tended further to make holders here nervous. Meanwhile, news of beneficial rains in the domestic winter crop belt acted as a further stimulus to selling, some authorities asserting that crop conditions in earliest producing States, Kansas in particular, were now nearly ideal.

Selling of corn assumed broad proportions a good deal earlier than was the case in wheat. Aside from discouragement as to the legislative outlook, the corn market was influenced by the fact that receipts of corn in Chicago today—232 cars—were more than double the volume of a year ago. Besides, Eastern shipping demand here was reported as nearly at a standstill. General commission house selling of future deliveries of corn took on something of a stampede character, and buying appeared to be restricted nearly altogether to previous speculative sellers.

Oats and rye went lower as a result of sympathy with corn and wheat.

Weakening of provision values was likewise traceable to the downward swing both of corn and other grain.

MOTORS ARE TARGETS OF NEW BEAR ATTACK

Recessions, Up to 9 Points, Scored in Heavy Trading: Oils Well Taken.

CAN SHOWS 4 POINTS LOSS

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 19.—Stock market bears turned to the motor shares for a fresh assault on prices on the New York Stock Exchange today, and, although General Motors and United States Steel were heavily bought by banking interests in an effort to stem the drive, losses ranging up to 9 points or more, were scored by those stocks under pressure—among them some of the high-grade specialties, as in recent sessions.

Trading was on a much larger scale than in some days, the turnover exceeding 2,025,000 shares, and the unsettlement was no less pronounced than in the preceding session.

The new attack against the automotive shares was inspired by publication of a quarterly report by the Hudson Motor Car Co. which revealed the fact that net earnings of the company had dropped more than $1,000,000 compared with the corresponding period of last year. The financial community had been looking for possible indications of a reaction in business, and seized upon those figures as evidence that something of the kind was taking place in the automobile industry.

Accordingly, motor shares were subjected to severe pressure and quotations of the more volatile issues in the group broke into new low ground for the year. Hudson suffered the maximum loss, closing near the bottom and 9 points net lower, but Mack Truck lost 3⅝, Jordan, 2; Pierce-Arrow preferred, 3⅛, and mony others, including Chrysler, Dodge, General Motors, Nash, Willys-Overland and Paige lost a point or two on the day, and some associated shares, like Du Pont and Kelsey Wheel lost anywhere from 2½ to more than 4 points.

Selling of the automobile stocks, however, was offset to some extent by buying of the oil stocks, in which demand was created by news that negotiations for consolidation of the General Petroleum Co. with the Standard Oil Co. of New York had reached an advanced stage. General Petroleum rallied strongly, but halved its gain before the close, which left it 1½ net higher, and certain other oils also were bid up, General Asphalt prominent among them, but nearly all of them subsequently reacted, canceling their gains and losing a point or so besides in some instances.

Indeed, aside from Union Tank Car, with a 3-point rise; Foundation Co., American Hide & Leather preferred, Cerro de Pasco Copper, Loew, Inc., Texas Gulf Sulphur, Devoe & Reynolds "A", American Woolen issues and United States Cast Iron Pipe, with gains under 2 points, there were few other strong spots in the entire list.

Flurries of selling occurred in American Can, old stock, which finished 4 points off; Loose-Wiles Biscuit, with a loss of 5 points; United Fruit, which lost 9½; Columbia Gas and Electric, 3¼ points off; Woolworth, 4¾ net lower; American Can & Foundry, Fox Film "A," Case Thresher preferred, Pressed Steel Car, American Type Foundry, American Linseed, Western Union and Crucible and Sloss-Sheffield Steel, and many others.

Support buying was extended to Baldwin Locomotive and certain of the high-grade rails, and some of the Van Sweringen rails were bought on the theory that recent moves made by those interests foreshadowed a new attempt to create a greater Nickel Plate system. But, while C. & O. closed 1¾ net higher, a point under the day's best, and Pere Marquette improved fractionally. New York, Chicago & St. Louis dropped 4 points, Pittsburgh & West Virginia closed 1⅞ higher, but Atlantic Coast Line lost 3⅛, Delaware & Hudson 2 points, Seaboard Air Line issues more than a point, and so on.

Price movements generally reflected the play of opposing speculative forces. Unquestionably further liquidation was done, principally by the pools which were identified with the late bull campaign. Scattered outside liquidation also was in progress, while a large volume of speculative selling for the fall was done. The large number of stocks loaning either "flat" or at a premium, indicated the presence of an unusually heavy short interest in the market.

Call money again renewed and ruled at 4¼ per cent.

The foreign exchange market was easier, with French francs off more than 3 points further at the close, after having touched 3.52, a new low since 1923. Lire and Belgian francs were a shade lower, but Norwegian kroner rallied 14 points and held 10 points of that.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, March 19 (By A. P.). The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe earned $17.19 a share in 1925 on its $232,409,500 common stock, after preferred dividends, compared with $15.46 a share in 1924, it is shown in the preliminary annual report. Net income rose to $46,166,699 after taxes and charges, from $42,151,806 the year before. Surplus after dividends and sinking fund provision was $23,641,355 against $21,372,359 in 1924.

Good demand for steel is reported from the Pittsburgh district, where operations average 80 per cent of capacity. Demand from automobile manufacturing companies, which has been slow the first two months of the year, is becoming stronger. Strip steel producers expect March bookings to equal February, which was a favorable month. Merchant steel bar mills are running at capacity.

International Cement Corporation earned $7.02 a share on the common stock in 1925, after preferred dividends, with net income of $3,970,586. This compares with net income of $3,047,506 or $7.14 a share on the common stock outstanding the year before.

Properties of Gibson Oil Corporation in the Panhandle field of Texas, aggregating more than 5,000 acres, have been appraised at $14,605,160 by the F. W. Freeborn Engineering Corporation, of Tulsa, Okla. This includes 4,500 acres which Phillips Petroleum Co. is developing for Gibson Oil without expense to it, on an equal division basis of the oil. The appraised value is equivalent in the $4 a share on the authorized Gibson stock. The survey does not include Gibson properties elsewhere in Texas.

Net income of Tidewater Oil Co. for 1925 was almost double the amount of the year before—$5,987,253 compared with $3,898,413.

Daily Metal Trade reports that first sales of Lake Superior iron ore for the 1926 season were made this week and in sufficient volume to warrant belief that they settled opening prices at rates prevailing during 1926. Specifications for soft steel bars, plates and shapes in the Chicago territory are at the highest rate since early December. Recent bookings also are the heaviest experienced in a month. Pittsburgh steel makers are enjoying increasing business.

Stockholders of the Southern California Edison Co. have approved a split-up of all of the preferred and common stock on the basis of four new shares $25 par, for one old share $100 par.

Directors of the Wolverine Petroleum Corporation have called for retirement on March 31 its $1,250,000 preferred stock outstanding.

Net profits of Motor Products Corporation for 1925 declined to $975,624 from $1,024,232 the year before. This is equal, after preferred dividends, to $11.91 a share on the no par common stock, against $13.14 a share in 1924.

The success of the proposed consolidation of the Tidewater and Associated Oil companies has been assured by the number of securities of both concerns deposited for exchange into shares of the new Tidewater-Associated Oil Co., the bankers announced today. New financing for the merger will take place next week when public offering will be made of the first block of shares out of an expected total of about $100,000,000.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, March 19 (By the Associated Press).—Reactionary price tendencies again characterized today's curb market. Net declines were relatively small except in a few issues, which apparently were pressed for sale in order to protect commitments in other quarters.

Oil continued to offer excellent resistance to selling pressure. Vacuum closed a point higher at 99, and most of the other active issues showed only small fractional changes.

Motors lost ground in sympathy with the reception in those issues on the "big board." Stutz, Auburn and Federal Motors each lost a point or more. Ford Motors of Canada dropped 5 points on a few odd-lot sales. Weakness again developed in the baking stocks, Continental Baking A dropping nearly 4 points to 103, and Purity Baking B falling 2⅜ to 33½.

The new Bloomingdale issues were admitted to trading, the common selling around its offering prices of 32½ and the preferred selling at a premium of over 1 point above the subscription price. Electrical Refrigeration issues held firm.

Public utilities were again in supply. American Light & Traction broke 7 points to 206, and then recovered nearly half its loss, and American Gas & Electric, American Power & Light, Electric Investors & Southeastern Power & Light sagged 1⅛ to 2 points.

Risko Beats Berlenbach In Bout

Big Clevelander Has Champ on Verge of Knockout.

16,000 Present as Paul Weathers Storm and Fights Back.

NEW YORK, March 19 (By A. P.). — Paul Berlenbach's quest for recognition as a heavyweight contender, was abruptly checked tonight when he was decisively whipped in a slashing ten-round battle with Johnny Risko of Cleveland in the feature match at Madison Square Garden. The referee's decision was almost unnecessary to determine the result.

The world's light-heavyweight king not only was battered from start to finish by his 22-year-old opponent, a comparatively newcomer to fistic ranks, but was close to a knockout in each of the first three rounds of one of the most sensational ring upsets of the season.

Berlenbach was floored for a count of four in the first round by a left to the jaw, saved only by the bell as he careened to the canvas again in the second under the impact of another pile-driving left and groggy under a hail of punches in the third.

Surviving this unexpected and terrific storm, however, seemed to have a stimulating effect on Berlenbach, for he rallied and nearly held his own for the rest of the fight, staving off Risko's rushes and finishing with a spirited rally in the tenth round.

BERLENBACH'S gameness and stamina, however, were unequal to off-setting the superior power in Risko's punches and the tremendous weight advantage enjoyed by the Clevelander, who tipped 190 pounds to the champion's 174 1-2. Both tired under their terrific pace, but Risko was the stronger at the finish.

Risko battered Berlenbach to the verge of a knockout in each of the first three rounds of the match.

Risko brought a crowd of 16,000 to its feet in a frenzy in the first round by flooring Berlenbach with a savage left to the jaw. The champion took a short count and barely weathered a storm of blows that buffeted him until the end of the round. The bell saved Berlenbach in the second round as he was knocked down by a terrific left again. He absorbed additional punishment in the third, although he managed to retaliate occasionally.

Berlenbach rallied in the fourth and traded wallops with Risko in a furious exchange, but again the Clevelander had the better of it. Risko's big advantage in weight told. The fifth found both slowing in the PressBox with Baxter

SOME few days ago this column presented a message from the track enthusiasts of Baltimore addressed to Dan Hassett and others of the faithful few who have kept the interest in running alive in Washington. Baltimore's hope was that some effort would be made here to develop the younger athletes, and thus provide rugged inter-city competition.

The response was almost immediate. Dan Hassett was on the phone the next night; first to explain that the facetious appelation "Free State," which this column had applied to him, was by no means correct, that he was still a Republican and firmly enrolled among those who refuse to believe that Ireland has gained its freedom, also he wished to call a meeting to revive interest in field and track athletics.

The fruit of that call should be apparent tomorrow morning on the Plaza playground track when the first of the series of training meets will be held under the joint auspices of the Aloysius club, Washington Canoe club and George Washington university.

It may in a sense be a small

Defeats Not Worrying Harris

Batting Inconsistency Disappointing to Nats' Pilot.

Veterans to Be Used Against McGraw's Team Today.

BRADENTOWN, March 19.—"I realize that we have not set the world on fire in the exhibitions schedule to date," said Manager Bucky Harris of the American league champions tonight, "but that's the least of my worries. You must remember that we have been using practically all rookie pitchers and that these games mean nothing at all.

"My keenest disappointment is that we appear to be a little slower than the other teams in getting our batting eyes. All of us are getting our hits now and then, but we seem to lack consistency. But the season opening is still nearly a month off and we have plenty of time. Take it from me, we'll all be there when the starting bell rings."

The young pilot of the Nats is most optimistic about his flinging staff. "I think it is the strongest we have had since I have been with the Washington team," he said. "Our old-timers have been allowed to ease themselves along and any one with half an eye can see that they are speedily coming down the homestretch to top form.

"I'M counting on using two of my veteran pitchers against the Giants in Sarasota tomorrow," he continued, "and look for good performances. Bush and Coveleskie wil pitch and either Thomas or Kelley also will get into the game. Ruether is not yet ready and will not start until next week."

"Before the season ends," the Nat leader concluded, "I am confident that the scribes from other cities who get lots of fun talking about our 'old man's home' will have to back water. I admit that Johnson, Covey, Ruether and Bush no longer may be called kids, but what a wealth of experience and headwork they have to call on to make up for any wear and tear on their old 'soup bones' and don't forget that Fred Marberry is right there waiting to give them a little help if they need it."

East and West Meet In Brookline Tennis

Brookline, Mass., March 19 (By A. P.).—East coast and West coast will fight it out for the championship tomorrow when Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., and Miss Elizabeth M. Ryan of Santa Monica, Calif., meet in the final round of the nineteenth women's national indoor tennis singles tournament. In the semifinals today Mrs. Jessup defeated Miss Mary K. Browne of New York, 6—2, 6—3, while Miss Ryan eliminated Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., 6—2, 6—1.

In the indoor mixed doubles today Mrs. Jessup and Karl S. Pfaffman, titleholders last year, lost to Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere and Raymond Bidwell of Boston. The scores were 6—4, 2—6, 6—3. In the other mixed doubles event, Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard, Boston, and Arnold Jone, Providence, defeated Irving Wright, Boston, and Miss Ryan, 4—6, 6—3, 10—8.

Plansky and Masters Called Best Performers

Tony Planksy, who is competing with the Georgetown track for his last year, and George Marsters, a graduate of last year, have been selected as members of the 1925 All-College track team and All-American track team, respectively, according to Spalding's Athletic Almanac.

Plansky was selected as the leading decathlon performer in college circles. Tony earned his right to the place by his victory in the ten-event test in the Penn relays last year.

Marsters is chosen as the country's leading half-miler from his sensational work on the Hilltopper's record-breaking two-mile relay team and his victory in the outdoor intercollegiates. He also was given the same selection on the All-College team.

Hinkle, Chicago Star, Grid Coach at Butler

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19 (By A. P.).—Paul D. Hinkle, former University of Chicago athlete, today was selected athletic director at Butler university. He signed a 3-year contract. He succeeds H. O. "Pat" Page, who recently was made head football coach of Indiana university. Hinkle will coach football, baseball and basketball.

Two Georgetown Stars Show in N. Y. Tonight

New York, March 19 (By A. P.).—Charley Hoff will make his farewell appearance of the indoor track season tomorrow night in an attempt to exceed the world's indoor pole vault record for the tenth time. He will compete at the annual meet of the post office clerks. A height of 13 feet 8 inches, surpassing his present mark by one full inch, has been set as his final indoor achievement.

Hoff has abandoned his intention of competing against Dehart Hubbard, of Cincinnati, in a special broad-jumping contest, at which the Norwegian set a new world's indoor record of 23 feet 7⅝ inches Tuesday night. Hubbard, holder of the world's outdoor record at 25 feet 10⅞ inches, will be opposed, however, by William Dowding, of Georgetown, intercollegiate indoor champion, and Paul Courteis, national pentathlon titleholder.

Emerson Norton, of Georgetown, who finished second to Hoff in Tuesday's septathlon at the K. of C. games will vault against Hoff.

Miami, Fla., March 19 (By A. P.).—Lee Chase, of Buffalo, N. Y., late today won the annual Dixie amateur golf championship here over the Miami Country club course by defeating George Galena, Philadelphia, 9 and 8. The match was devoid of any sensational golf.

Helen Wills Winner In Doubles at Cannes

Cannes, France, March 19 (By A. P.).—Helen Wills, the American champion, and Henri Cochet, the veteran French player, defeated Mrs. Coleman and H. Vickers, of England, in the mixed doubles of the Cannes club tennis tournament today, 6—2, 6—1.

"Baby Shadow" Wins In Regatta at Miami

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19 (By A. P.).—Taking the lead at the start and holding it for 12 hotly contested miles, Carl G. Fisher's "Baby Shadow" today won the gold cup class race for speed boats, feature of the second day of the sixth annual Biscayne Bay regatta. The time was 16 minutes 33.34 seconds, an average of 43.48 miles per hour. Victor Kleisrath was pilot.

Sothern and Butler In Baltimore Hospital

Baltimore, Md., March 19.—Denny Sothern and Johnnie Butler, members of the Brooklyn Dodgers, are being treated at the Johns Hopkins hospital. Sothern, former Washington sandlotter, made a favorable impression at the Brooklyn camp, but tore a ligament in his groin recently.

Butler, for whom the Dodgers turned six players over to St. Paul, of the American association, is suffering from defective vision.

Both players are expected to be in shape again soon and probably will rejoin Brooklyn before the campaign gets under way.

U. S. Rhodes Scholars Star
□□□ CAMBRIDGE SCORES □□□
But Oxford Loses on Track

LONDON, March 19 (By A. P.). American Rhodes scholars, now students at Oxford university, scored heavily for their English alma mater in the fifty-eighth annual track meet with Cambridge today, but Cambridge won first place in eight of the eleven events. Two of Oxford's firsts were accounted for by R. L. Hyatt, a former Harvard athlete—the broad jump and pole vault.

The American contingent, including also S. Harrison Thompson, formerly of Princeton; R. S. Jack, formerly of Pennsylvania, and W. A. Rosebraugh, formerly of Oregon, also took one second place and four thirds. Hyatt, in the shotput, accounted for one of the third places. Only first places counted in this meet.

Lord David Burghley, England's foremost hurdler, and R. S. Starr, Cambridge distance runner, also won two first places. Hyatt set a new varsity record in the pole vault, clearing 12 feet in an ex-

Hurler Brings Telling Run Across

Ogden, Marberry Fail to Hold Quakers in Check.

Buddy Myer Shows Class, Both in Field and at Bat.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 19.—Bill Morrell, New Haven recruit trying for a berth on the Nat hurling staff, will have lots of good news to wire folks tonight as he is credited with Washington's 8-to-7 ten-inning victory over the Philadelphia entry in the National league.

Morrell relieved Marberry in the seventh, allowed but two scratch hits in four frames and then stepped up to the tee in the extra session and delivered a clean single to center which scored what proved to be the winning run.

The Nats started off with a rush, were over taken, then knotted the count themselves and finally broke into the winning column. Ogden and Marberry each hurled three innings for the Harrismen, with Morrell toiling four. Fletcher called on Art Decatur, Ernie Maun and Frank Ulrich to divide the Philly hurling burden.

In the fifth Sam Rice was hit on the knee by one of Maun's shoots and was forced to retire. The injury is not expected to prove serious or to keep him out of tomorrow's Sarasota battle with the Giants.

BOTH teams scored in the second and third frames, the conclusion of the latter finding the Phils in the van, 6 to 4, after the Nats had gotten away to a three-run lead, as a result of Judge's double, successive singles by Bluege, Myer and Tate and Ogden's sacrifice fly in round two.

Consecutive singles by Mokan, Huber and Friberg gave the Phils one in their half and then the Nats got this one back in the next session, a pass to S. Harris being turned into a marker when followed by Goslin's one-baser and Judge's sacrifice fly.

Ogden was going along nicely in the lower half of this third session, and two were dead and Sand on second, when a drive from Leach's bat knocked the "Shiek" down. He got up, quickly recov-

COLLYER PASSES WORD ON BANTER AT NEW ORLEANS

Tender Seth Named in Second

Despard Should Take Opener From Mabel C.

Expert Picks Futuro as Best Bet at Tampa Track.

By BERT E. COLLYER.

GATHER closer. This is getaway day down at Crawfish town, and it does not make any difference if you're a butter and egg man from deah ole Broadway, a cotton king from Texas or a "gold digger" from Denver, I want to tell the whole cockeyed world I have a molasses man from New Orleans.

It's none other than BANTER which, as the story goes, "will have the four bandages off this afternoon." True, they have the Idle Hour entry of BEAU BUTLER and BOB CAHILL and the erratic BIG HEART, as well as WILD ASTOR, named to face the starter—the old fashioned gab from the absinthe palace is, the sky is the limit today. Unless you are solid ivory from the shoulders up, you will have the two meggs right smack on the old beezer. Ye wekkum. WILD ASTOR should be second, with the "big train"—Milt Grays breadwinner—third.

TENDER SETH, which has been knocking at the door, finally finds a spot—in the second spasm—where he can tin can. ARRAGOSA is Adolph's sleeper. This one has been working extra well and may prove troublesome.

DESPARD, which was off in a tangle Thursday, should show smart improvement in the day's opener.

Understand Tommy Sanford has the agents all lined up—from Maine to California. PORTO DE ORO, which is among the also eligibles, will go well—if he gets a chance to start. As also will MABEL C., and MEDDLING MATTIE. The latter is the real dark horse of the race.

Sammy Holman, who has signified his intention of shipping TANGARA to Tia Juana to start in the rich Coffroth, is well heeled in the fifth. Looks like its all over except the shouting. One word of warning—this is getaway day; hence do not try to over bet yourself on horses that "stand out." You know they make excellent embalming fluid.

KING OF FORTUNE and WAR MAN figure mighty close together in the sixth, although SCOOP is really the class. The latter, however, has a habit of bolting at the stretch turn. Then there is the superior mudder KENT L., winner of his last two starts. He needs a big hustling rider.

ST. DONARD is the best of the hash hounds named in the closing spasm, and that's not saying much.

C. U. LACKING IN HITTING POWER

Foley Bolsters Squad; Infield Problems Overcome.

By JUNO KINERK.

"GIVE me some hitters," is the wail of Charley Moran, baseball coach at Catholic university.

"The boys look pretty good defensively, but I've got to have somebody that can bump the ball past the infield to win games," he continued.

Under the favorable weather conditions of the past few days Moran has been giving the lads plenty of work and is well satisfied with his prospects except for weakness with the stick.

His pitching staff was considerably bolstered when Ray Foley, basketball star and all-around athletic luminary, reported for practice Thursday. Foley was the leading hurler and swatter on the Freshman nine last year and will be shunted out to center field this season when not taking his turn on the hill. Byrnes, the lightweight boxer, also is said to be a dependable hurler and will report regularly for practice Monday.

AT present the flinging corps consist of the veterans, Bonomo, Sheffield and Kozak. Lefty Devin, star portsider, turned his ankle in practice some few weeks ago and that member is still pretty weak, but he soon will be able to cut loose.

DuFour, McMann and Kane are the outstanding catching candidates, with the former having the inside track because of his stronger hitting.

The infield is pretty well settled. Keale will be at first, Garvin at second, Ignace at third and Adams at short. Smith will act as Garvin's understudy and Johnny Long will sub for Ignace. Both Smith and Long were regulars on last year's yearling outfit.

Capt. Bailey has the left field job cinched, while O'Donnell, Stack, Peloski, McGonigle, Hartze and McIsaac are battling for the other two berths.

Lafayette Tossers Hold Meet Tonight

Lafayette A. C. team will hold a baseball meeting tonight at the home of their manager, 1002 Thirteenth street southeast, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Members of the squad will be measured for uniforms at this confab. Initial practice will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock on their field.

AMERICANS SCORE AS CAMBRIDGE WINS

hibition leap after having won the event at 11 feet 3 inches. The former record, 11 feet 6 inches, was his own.

The former Harvard athlete missed his chance in the high jump by waiting until the bar had risen to 6 feet before entering competition. Then he failed.

CHILL wintry winds probably slowed Lord Burghley down a fraction of a second, but several thousand of overcoated and blanketed spectators hailed his new varsity record in the high hurdles of 15 1-2 seconds with delight.

What seemed to worry old-time Oxford and Cambridge varsity men more than the failure of present generation to set up new records, was the scarcity of silk hats in the fashionable pavilions of the Queens club.

Before the war, the Oxford-Cambridge meet was a sort of athletic Ascot as a fashion show. Today only one official wore correct formal day attire, with morning coat, buttonhole flower and white spats. Steamer rugs and borrowed overcoats predominated among the women.

Half-mile run—R. S. Starr, Cambridge, first; E. H. Fryer, Cambridge, second; H. W. Kerr, Oxford, third. Time, 1 minute 59 4-5 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by A. E. Porritt, Oxford; C. F. L. Harrison, Cambridge, second; J. W. J. Rinkel, Cambridge, third. Time, 10 seconds.

High jump—A. G. DeWillis, Cambridge, and J. D. S. Pendlebury, Cambridge, tied at 5 feet 9½ inches. Hyatt, Oxford-Harvard, failed to place.

Mile run—Won by R. S. Starr, Cambridge; H. M. O'Connor, Oxford, second; D. G. White, Oxford, third. Time, 4 minutes 27 2-5 seconds.

Broad jump—Won by R. L. Hyatt, Oxford-Harvard, 21 feet 9½ inches; V. B. V. Powell, Cambridge, second, 21 feet 7¼ inches.

120-yard hurdle—Won by Lord Burghley, Cambridge; G. C. Weightman-Smith, Cambridge, second; S. Harris Thompson, Oxford-Princeton, third. Won by a yard in 15½ seconds (a varsity record).

Quarter-mile run—Won by J. W. J. Rinkel, Cambridge; L. M. Johnson, Oxford, second; R. H. Jack, Oxford-Pennsylvania, third. Time, 50 4-5 seconds.

Three-mile run—Won by T. C. Fooks, Cambridge; W. A. M. Edwards, Oxford, second; J. P. Singer, Cambridge, third. Time, 15 minutes 7 2-5 seconds.

Shotput—R. L. Rowland, Cambridge, won; S. Harris Thompson, Oxford-Princeton, second; R. L. Hyatt, Oxford-Harvard, third. Distance, 40 feet 4 inches.

50-yard low hurdles—Won by Lord Burghley, Cambridge; A. E. Porritt, Oxford, second. Time, 25 2-5 seconds.

Pole vault—Won by R. L. Hyatt, Oxford-Harvard; T. R. Scott, Cambridge, second. Height, 11 feet 3 inches.

CALVARY EAGLES WIN.

Calvary Eagles sent the Calvary Yukons in defeat yesterday in the Insect basketball league by the score of 18 to 6.

FRANK GATES

WIN PARLAY yesterday PAID $23.55 for $2.
CLEAR VIEW, WON, $10.70
NORSELAND WON $4.40

Today's parlay will win just as easily as yesterday's, but the prices will be BIG. I have again gone to considerable expense to make today's result an ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY. I KNOW for a positive fact that my horses today will be the medium of a HUGE CLEAN UP throughout the country. A win parlay will PAY THE LIMIT. My two winners come from the best of sources, and I cannot advise you too strongly to get down for YOUR LIMIT. Both wires sold for only $3.00—positively only at

G. U. GRIDMEN IN 3-HOUR DRILL

Track Trials Staged; Whelan May Make Texas Trip.

FOOTBALL, baseball and track athletics all had their innings at Georgetown yesterday. The grid candidates went through a long three-hour drill which included hard scrimmage sessions; the baseball team again was divided into two squads, and played a practice game, while the track men also went through a lengthy practice.

The chief item of interest in the workout of the track team was the time trials, held to select the sprinter who will accompany the team to Texas next week. In yesterday's session Ray Whelan showed his heels to Molton and Meaney, going the 100 in 10 1-5 on the soft cinder varsity track.

Trials will be held again this afternoon and Sunday before a definite decision is reached as to which man will earn the position.

JOHN HASS, a brother of Capt. Ray Hass, and a sprinter of ability, was ill in the infirmary and unable to run yesterday, but is expected to be able to participate in tomorrow's races. While his illness may be too severe a handicap for him to overcome the others he nevertheless will be given a chance to earn the place.

Creth Hines, a freshman, also will accompany the team to Texas. He will give exhibitions in the javelin, but will not compete as a point winner for the Blue and Gray team. Hines' home is in Texas, and he is making the trip on the invitation of the Southern authorities. He is credited with throwing the spear more than 190 feet and may even eclipse that distance in these exhibitions.

Kid Kelley Insects Lose Game, 12 to 5

Michigan Park midget nine administered a solid walloping to the Kid Kelley insects yesterday, 12 to 5. The insects will hold a meeting at the home of Charles Sacchine tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Teams desiring games with the Kelleys should telephone Manager Monohan at North 7787.

Black, White Midgets To Practice Sunday

Having had success on the baseball fields in the past the Black and White midget team will make its debut this season by staging a practice tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock. The following players are urged to be present: Burke, Fuss, Lomedico, Hayes, Keller, Haislip, Hutchins, Cunningham, Genoves and F. Marcellino.

Palace Club Resting For Rochester Game

The Palace basketers return home today and will rest for the game tomorrow night with the Rochester Centrals. The contest will be played at the Arcade auditorium, with play starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Rochester has humbled the local tossers three times during the American league basketball campaign, and Manager Kennedy seeks a victory in the final meeting.

Washington has four more games, and all must be recorded on the win ledger if they hope to figure in the second half title. They can only effect a tie with the Cleveland Rosenblums in the event they annex every remaining game. One loss would remove them from the race.

The All-Star marine team, which is being picked from the best players in the post league at Quantico, Va., will meet the Yankees in the preliminary game at 7:15 o'clock.

REX VS. EDMOND A. C.

The Rex Insects will meet the Edmond A. C. nine at 2:30 this afternoon on the Brookland field. Ray Davidson will hurl for the Rex.

AZTECS TO PRACTICE.

The Aztec Midgets will practice on diamond 4 at the Monument grounds this morning at 11 o'clock. All players are urged to attend.

LOSSES FAIL TO WORRY HARRIS

Tex Jeanes is suffering from an infected tooth and this morning looked as if a mule had kicked him on the right side of his face.

Muddy Ruel showed in yesterday's game that he will not be at his best for another week or more. The Phils hit the ball so hard and frequently that no attempts were made to steal any sacks; otherwise Herold probably would have had his troubles, for his arm is still weak and he can put little or no speed on his pegs.

Walter Johnson is expected to get his first competitive trial at Tampa Monday, when the Cincinnati Reds will be the Nats' guests. It is just possible that Peckinpaugh will start at short in this fracas.

McGEE, Joyce and Jones, the trio of rookies shifted to Birmingham, left for their new address this morning. All vow that they will be back in the big show before long.

Irving Hadley still is suffering from a sore finger, caused by the ball sliding off his hand while he is working. While the general impression here is that he has lots of natural ability, even such an authority as Scout Joe Engel, avers that he is still "a year away." Definite decision will not be made in his case until his digit has healed.

HOLMAN'S WONDERS DOWN STANTON QUINTET, 22-19

School Stars Salt Game Near End

McDonald Is Leader of Attack With Nine Points.

Northeast Five Trails at End of Half by 14 to 12.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

IF Referee Joe Fitzgerald hasn't a stiff neck this morning it's not the fault of the Holman Wonders and Stanton basketball teams. Not that the clubs climbed Joe's neck physically (they did figuratively), but the truth is that the two teams, employing the professional court style, passed and passed until the referee's head whirled in the fashion of a top.

The Wonders, with their high school star line-up, defeated the Stantons, 22 to 19, after another of those point-by-point games, in which the score changed hands or was tied in nearly every minute.

The triumph furthers the aspirations of the Holmanites toward the District championship and leaves the Stantons but a narrow mathematical chance of remaining in the titular going.

IT is doubtful if two local independent quintets have ever figured in a like exhibition of court generalship. Both clubs used the block-play, the short snappy tosses and the man-for-man defense in exact repetition of the professional court teams.

Baskets were few and far between with the Wonders scoring 5 to 4 for the Stantons. In the foul line duel the Wonders also had the edge, making good 12 to 10 for the Stantons.

The Holmanites hopped off to a 5-1 lead in the opening minutes, but the Stantons found themselves and at the end of the first quarter had narrowed the margin to one of 11 to 10. Although they tied the score twice, the Northeast crew could not get ahead during the second period, at the end of which the Wonders were leading, 14 to 12.

The Stantons played their best of the game during the third quarter, but after being in front at one stage, 16 to 14, they fell on the short end of a 18-16 count at the three-quarter's rest.

Neither team scored a field goal in the final period and the Wonders had the best of the foul shooting, which was comparatively sparse.

Tilden-Chapin Beat Richards and Hunter

Jacksonville, Fla., March 19.—(By A. P.).—William T. Tilden, of Philadelphia, national champion, and Alfred H. Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., today defeated Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, both of New York, for the doubles championship in the Southeastern tennis tournament.

The score was 8—6, 6—2, 6—8, 10—8.

Tilden and Chapin started off strong and ran up a lead of 5—1 in the first set. Richards and Hunter stiffened and ran through four straight games, making the set at 5-all. The champion and Chapin, however, put on a burst of speed at 6-all and ran out the set.

Richards and Hunter took a lead of two games in the second set, and then dropped six straight games and the set. In the third Hunter and Richards got away to a good start, Hunter taking his service on the first game.

Royce Cagers Nose Out Cortez Five, 29-26

With Arronson and Wesson scoring goals from every angle of the floor, the Royce five captured a hard fought victory over the Cortez floormen last night, 29 to 26. Trailing at the end of the third quarter by the score of 22 to 16, the winners put forth a goal-scoring rally in the final minutes of play to grab the victory.

beginning, but the fair thing to do is to wait and see what comes of the beginning. Interest in the form of sport which these organizations are fostering is at the ebb here. The situation hardly could grow worse, except through continued neglect.

IT was not so many years ago that a dozen or more organizations in Washington supported track athletics through the efforts of their members. Today, aside from the schools and colleges, there are only two. Apparently there is room for great improvement.

Trained athletes will be on hand at tomorrow's meet, and those that are to follow on successive Sundays, to give the beginners all the aid and encouragement that they can. The meets will form an opportunity for the tyro to determine whether or not he can progress in a sport where individual effort means everything, and participation is not dependent on team organization. If the "old timers" who have started the ball rolling do not become discouraged track athletics in Washington ought to undergo a real revival.

Now that two members of the Pennsylvania boxing commission are at odds, the cash customers may get in on a few fights for nothing.

Physicians may be able to cure the bilious trouble from which Butler, the Dodger's high-priced rookie, is suffering, but they can't do a thing for Robbie's peace of mind until he finds out whether he bought a lemon or not.

Schofield, of Tech, Breaks Nose in Drill

Bill Schofield, Tech's only veteran outfielder, suffered a broken nose yesterday afternoon when he collided with Hemelt going after a fly ball at the Washington barracks. Hemelt was not hurt.

Schofield will not practice for about two weeks.

Brooklyn Quintet Defeats Rochester

Rochester, March 19.—Brooklyn strengthened its grip on a first-division berth in the American Basketball league here tonight by handing the Rochester quintet a 29-to-22 defeat. A Rochester rally in the final half failed to overcome the lead of the Dodgers.

Aloysius Five Faces Yankee Team Tonight

The second clash of the Yankee-Aloysius three-game series will be played tonight in the Gonzaga gymnasium, starting at 8 o'clock. The Aloys defeated the Yanks in the first game played on the latter's home court at the Arcade.

Should the Yankees fail to win tonight, their chances to annex the District title, won last year by the I Streeters, will be mighty slim.

PRO GOLFERS PLAYING IN FINALS

Farrell and Armour Survive; Foreigner Defeats Diegel.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 19 (By A. P.).—Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge club, New York, and Tommy Armour, playing from Sarasota, Fla., this afternoon won their way into the final round of the winter professional golf tournament over the St. Augustine course.

Farrell eliminated Gene Sarazen, former national champion and twice American professional champion, 4 and 3. Armour defeated Leo Diegel, Glen Oaks, N. Y., Canadian champion, 3 and 2.

In the morning round Farrell put out Archie Compston, of Manchester, England, professional champion of Great Britain, 2 and 1.

COMPSTON and Sarazen are rated as two of the greatest match players in the world and Farrels' feat of beating them both in one day is said by golfing authorities to be unequaled in golf history.

Diegel went into the semi-finals, after defeating Bobby Cruickshank, unattached, in the morning round on the home green. Sarazen beat Bob McDonald of Chicago in the morning round in another match which also went to the last hole.

Compston was outdriven most of the time by Farrell. He hooked many of his long shots, but saved himself several times by deadly chip shots.

Jones to Renew Feud With Hagen in Tourney

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19.—Bobby Jones is coming back for more. Still brooding over that 12-and-11 defeat inflicted on him by Walter Hagen in their recent 72-hole match play contest, the national amateur champion has entered the West coast open championship here next week in which Hagen will also be a competitor.

Jones is coming into Hagen's back yard to seek revenge. The West coast open will be played on March 23 and 24 at the Pasadena Golf and Country club course, and this happens to be the club of which Hagen is president. It was on the same links that Hagen completed his decisive trimming of Bobby in their famous match-play battle.

NAT. CIRCLES PRACTICE.

National Circles A. A. nine will hold practice tomorrow on the Union station plaza starting at 11 o'clock. All members of the squad are requested to be present.

SEEK MORE HONORS.

Iowa City, Iowa, March 19.—Iowa's track team, which holds the indoor Western Conference championship, will attempt to annex the outdoor title on its own track, May 28 and 29. Michigan and Illinois are regarded as the Hawkeyes' most dangerous rivals.

Loyalty of High School Stars FAIL TO REPAY COACHES Diminishes With Prominence

By MIKE KELLEY,
Central High School Coach.

FROM time to time, coaches of local high school teams have cause to wonder if their efforts in really creating the opportunity for some of their athletes to obtain prominence in various sports, are in the end, appreciated by these boys.

The question often arises, when coaches gather to discuss athletic topics of interest, as to whether or not the majority of our high school athletes, once they become proficient in sport, have the same regard for their school that they had when first striving to attract the coach's eye and make a regular position on any team.

When first they present themselves to be considered as likely timber for a coach to work with patiently, they usually are hustlers, ready to jump at a moment's notice. For the first year or two of high school competition, most boys aim to excel in their recently won positions and to attract the attention and adulation of their followers.

DURING this space of time training is a pleasure and the coach's task consists mainly in curtailing the youthful enthusiasm of the athlete. Then a change comes over some of our athletes. They become self-satisfied, easily develop a superiority complex and acquire a temperament suitable to their estimated ability.

Athletics then become of primary importance to these boys. Being stars, they wonder just how much their school is going to do for them. Nothing but the best of equipment is now satisfactory and appointments must be perfect for them to do their best work. Teachers should go out of their way to see that they are eligible and coaches should expect the least amount of endeavor from those stars, consistent with their value to the team.

This may sound like gross exaggeration, but is only an everyday happening in the life of any high school coach.

In return for the physical benefits and the pleasure of stirring competition that is offered to our athletes, in surroundings that are of the best, our schools ask for a small parcel of loyalty that in a few cases is denied them.

Fortunately, the majority of our athletes reflect credit on themselves and their schools and when appealed to for a display of the appreciation due their school respond in a fitting manner. With them, any high school coach strives to make athletics serve the school in fostering school spirit, building character and promoting healthful exercise.

IT seems to this writer that if possible to foretell the actions of some athletes, coaches in our high schools would spare themselves and their schools the thought that in some respects we are doing too much for some of our athletes.

When an athlete gets to the point where he has to be pampered to obtain creditable results from him, it's time to drop him from athletics, especially a boy of High school age. He ceases to believe that school spirit means anything and any coach may find far more pleasure in working with a group of youngsters of mediocre ability than with a group of temperamental stars.

In the long run not only the coach benefits, but the school and athletics in general are aided by a coach's policy in striving to put out teams that really are representative of the school, and that contain boys who are ready to return in loyalty the opportunity given to them in organized High school athletics.

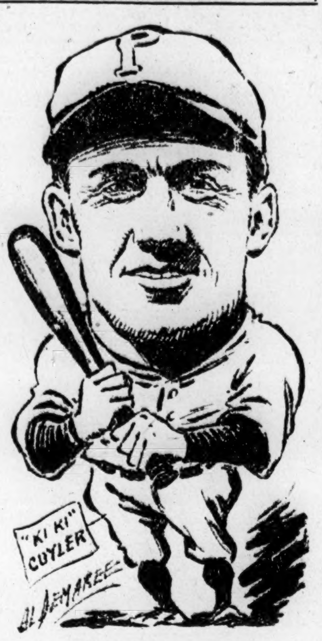
Dreyfuss Ill, Asks About Ball Park



BY AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

"KI KI" CUYLER, the young Pittsburgh outfielder, whose work last year stamped him as such a star that many critics thought him the most valuable player in the National league, told me a good story on Barney Dreyfuss, the Pirate owner.

"A year ago," said Cuyler, "Mr. Dreyfuss was quite ill and not expected to live, so they called all of his immediate family into the room along with Bill McKechnie, the manager, and Togerty, the groundkeeper.

"When they were all assembled about his bedside Mr. Dreyfuss asked, 'Mrs. Dreyfuss, are you here?' 'Yes, father,' she answered. 'Is Alice here?' 'Yes, father,' said his daughter. 'Mr. McKechnie, you here?' 'Yes, Mr. Dreyfuss.' 'Mr. Togerty, you here? 'Yes, Mr. Dreyfuss.'

" 'Vell,' exclaimed Dreyfuss, "if you're all here, who in h—ll is taking care of the ball park?' "

Red Grange Gridders May Tour in Europe

New York, March 19.—(By A. P.).—Plans for an invasion of Europe next winter by two American professional football elevens, one headed by Red Grange and the other by George Wilson, all-American halfback of the University of Washington, were disclosed today by C. C. Pyle, Grange's manager and vice president of the newly launched American league of football clubs.

To pave the way for the European tour, William H. Pickens, Pyle's representative, will sail tomorrow for a four-week visit to France and England.

Mitchell's Iron Play Improved by Accident

London, March 19 (By A. P.).—Abe Mitchell, the country's leading hope for the recovery of the British open championship this year, has so improved his iron play during the last winter that he is enthusiastically talking and writing about his discovery of secrets of style.

Mitchell has been unable to keep his iron shots from drifting to the right of the greens. This, he says, he found, was caused by a square stance. A remedy was found by accident.

He said, "a lie which made me face well round to the hole, instead of using the square stance I had previously employed." Said Mitchell: "I dropped my left foot back slightly and advanced the right.

"The difference between the two stances was very little, but I felt the change and knew it was what I needed. When I made the shot a ball flew straight to the green, with no sign of swerving either way. To test the stance I immediately dropped another ball and tried the stance again. The ball flew away, straight for the pin, and from that day my iron play has been good."

CHURCH LADS WIN TITLE GAME

Epiphany Jrs. Down Independent A. C., 31 to 24.

THE Epiphany Juniors tightened their grip on the District senior championship last night by disposing of the Independent A. C. quintet by a 31-24 score. The game was closer than the score indicates and at some stages of the second half it appeared that the Northeast team might upset the dope.

"Blackie" Banta was inserted in the Epiphany line-up in the third period and the chances of an Independent victory grew dimmer from that point on. The former Central High center accounted for three baskets. Freddie Braddock, however, led his team in scoring with five 2-pointers.

SMALL and Adair were the leading markers for Mrs. Nicholas' team. Each contributed three field goals and a foul toss.

The church lads have won every game played against a local five this season and suffered their only defeat at the hands of the Fort Myer Juniors by a single point on the latter's floor. Later the Epiphanys swamped the Soldier Boys in the Aloysius gymnasium.

TWO BOWLING MATCHES ON TODAY

Southern Club Meets Roanoke; Masons vs. Odd Fellows.

TWO special bowling matches are on Washington's duckpin program for today. The local Southern Railway team will entertain the Southern's star pinmen from Roanoke on the Convention Hall drives at 2 o'clock, while the La Fayette club, leaders of the Masonic league, will meet Perce Ellett's Odd Fellow All-Stars on the King Pin alleys at 7:30 p. m.

The Roanoke maple toppers took the measure of the locals by well over 100 pins in a match rolled in the Virginia city some weeks ago, but the locals have been practicing diligently and are confident of picking up. Streiter, Orme, Surguy, Blaisdell and Spencer will probably roll for Washington.

The King Pin affair is the first half of a 10-game series booked as the result of the Odd Fellows challenge that they flung at Capt. Watson's five.

Megaw, Watson, Armiger, Urban and Wolstenholme will roll for the Masons, while Harville, Logan, Cordell, Ellett and Campbell will carry the Odd Fellows banner.

St. Martin's Listed For Eagles Tomorrow

The Anacostia Eagles will stage their regular Sunday double-header tomorrow in the Congress Heights gym? The Stantons will meet Woodside in the first game at 2 o'clock, which will be followed by a clash of the St. Martin's and Eagle fives.

The Eagles have a clean slate in the championship race and are counting on strong opposition from the Church team, which earlier in the season forced the Birds from start to finish and lost by a 4-point margin.

TAKOMAS PRACTICE.

The Takoma Tigers will start its baseball season with a workout on the Silver Spring field today starting at 1 o'clock. Manager Walter requests all players and newcomers to report.

WANTS GAME HERE.

Arlington Orioles A. C., of Baltimore, last year's baseball title claimants in class C, would like to arrange games with local teams on Sundays during the month of May. Managers interested are requested to write S. J. Tamburo, 901 West Belvedere avenue, Baltimore, Md.

MOOSE TEAMS.

All members of the Moose midget and junior baseball teams are requested to be present at the Fairlawn field tomorrow to engage in a light workout. The junior players will hold their drill starting at 2 o'clock and the midgets one hour later.

REX BOXERS WIN.

The Rex A. C. peewee boxing team defeated the Yankee club, winning three of the four bouts. Buck Miller and Dan McKenna won their fights by decision while Tolley gained a forfeit over Schilts, yesterday in the Rex's club fighting area.

HURLER'S HIT WINS GAME FOR NATS

Morrell, Myer Star as Nats Defeat Phils, 8 to 7.

ered the ball and made a bad peg, which enabled Sand to tally, and then apparently went up in the air. Bentley and Mokan came through with singles, and when Huber met one full in the face for a circuit clout to deep center, the Nats suddenly found themselves trailing.

When Marberry took up the flinging job in the fourth, Maun greeted him with a single off Bluege's glove. Fred then settled down and fanned both Sand and Williams, but Leach uncorked a lusty triple over Rice's head and put his team one more run to the good.

THE Nats managed to get three men on the sacks with two out in the fifth, but were unable to score until two innings later when a three-runs rally knotted the string at 7-all.

Ulrich started this "lucky" frame by walking both S. Harris and McNeeley. When Goslin and Judge were easy outs, it looked as though Ulrich would work himself out of his self-constructed pitfall, but Bluege came through with a lusty single scoring a pair and Myers' one-base liner to right was sufficiently far to enable Ossie to scamper home.

This ended the scoring until the tenth, when Morrell jumped into the hero class with his bat in the Washington's half, and with his arm while the Phils were taking their last raps.

The Sportswoman

BY DOROTHY E. GREENE

THE incomparable coaches team will again "spring into action" when they meet a sextet composed of the city playground directors on Wednesday night at the Wilson Normal school at 9 o'clock. It is hoped—at least, by the coaches—that they will spring more effectively than they did last week when their speedy combination went down to an ignominious defeat at the hands of the All-Stars through some unavoidable mistake.

Miss Margaret Craig, of the coaches, states that the mistake has not been located to date, but it is believed that the guards were a bit ineffective, the centers were a little off form and the forwards were playing in simple hard luck. Each of the players has been provided with a furry rabbit's foot, and the prospective match is an assured coaches' victory, according to Camille O'Hara and her team mate, Grace Keefe.

PLAY TONIGHT.

The postponed Women's league basketball game between the Metropolitan Athletic club and the Comets will be played this evening at 7 o'clock on the St. Martin's parish house floor at North Capitol street and Rhode Island avenue.

TENNIS TOURNEY PLANNED.

Plans for the annual round robin tournament of the District Women's Tennis league will be completed at a meeting to be held next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Burlington hotel.

Team leaders who attend the meeting will be expected to bring with them a complete list of all members, with addresses and telephone numbers. Clubs will be represented by the following representatives or their alternates:

Columbia, Mrs. H. Clay Thompson; Departmental, Florence Poston; Capital, Tillie Raine; Liberty, Frances Walker; Mid-City, Mrs. Goodwin Graham; Mount Pleasant, Jessie Edmondson; Bureau of Standards, Cecyl Taylor; Wardman Park, Betty Pyle, and Racketers, Maycita DeSouza.

MAY START LACROSSE.

Lacrosse has gained a start among our neighbors. The game has been considered more or less seriously by the Washington Field Hockey club for some time, but a group of Baltimore women who are well known locally held their first workout this week and expect to have two or three teams in the field this spring.

Most of the Baltimore players are members of the Country club, Mount Washigton and Independent Field Hockey clubs, which have competed against the Washington Field Hockey club, and all of them are well known to local sportswomen. Among those who are planning for the coming lacrosse season are Mrs. Charles Boehm, Dorothy and Kitty Corning, Rebecca Marshall, Gwyneth Plumbe, Mrs. Tinsley Morgan, Mary Adams, Millicent Carey, Carmen Sabtos, Mrs. Ralph Willis and Alfredda Iglehart.

Although lacrosse has some ardent supporters in Washington, it is doubtful whether the game will make its debut here for some time, as it is the plan of the hockey club to put that game on a firm footing, with at least three clubs, before another sport is added to the organization's repertoire.

WASHINGTON A. C. WINS.

The Washington A. C. sextet journeyed to Alexandria last night and administered a sound trimming to the Teachers team in the National Guard armory gymnasium, 35 to 16. Smith starred for the Washington team, while Broaddus scintillated for the Alexandrians. Smith scored 26 points and Broaddus made 14 for the losers.

U. S. WOMEN'S NET TEAM NAMED

Misses Wills, Browne, Ryan, Mrs. Jessup Are Honored.

NEW YORK, March 19 (By A. P.).—Selection of an American women's team consisting of Helen Wills, Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup and Mary K. Browne to compete in international matches in England and France this summer was announced today by the Davis cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Elenor Goss, of New York, was named as alternate.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, for ten years prominent in international tennis, and number three in the 1925 ranking, declined to place her name on the available list, due to prior plans for a foreign trip this spring. Miss Browne, holder of the women's singles title in 1912, 1913 and 1914, has been appointed captain.

Although the players will have as their main objective the recovery of the Wightman trophy, won by England in 1924, and retained at Forest Hills last summer, their schedule calls for appearances in three other events. An international team match with France, beginning May 28, in Paris, will follow their arrival on May 17. They then will participate in the French national championships from June 2 to 13.

WIGHTMAN cup team matches at Wimbledon on June 17 and 18 will next take the players to England. Their final appearance abroad will be in the English golden jubilee tournament, June 21 to July 24.

The events, three of which hold the possibility of return contests between Miss Wills, America's No. 1 player, and Suzanne Lenglen, of France, take overseas what is considered by the Davis cup committee as the strongest woman's team ever to represent this country abroad.

C. U. Cheering Section To See Bouts at Navy

More than 250 Catholic university students will accompany their boxing team to Annapolis this afternoon for the meet between the local glovemen and the Naval Academy huskies. Fords of every description, trolley cars and any means of conveyance available will be utilized by the students for the journey.

It will be the last meeting of the year for the local boxers and every member of the team is fit and ready for the gong. Navy, of course, is a favorite to win, not having lost a dual meet in seven years.

Jewish League Cage Schedule Is Revised

Jewish community center basketball league will resume operation tomorrow afternoon in the Sixteenth gymnasium with three games carded, forming an attractive program, with the first game of the revised schedule beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

The schedule follows: Rialto vs. Les Amis, Aurora vs. Mardelle, Kanawha vs. Temple Alumni.

Aces SwampHi-Y Five Under 91-to-13 Score

Aces five scored their 44th victory of the season last night when they swamped the Central Hi-y club courtmen, 91 to 13, in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Glascock featured in goal scoring with 23 two-pointers to his credit. Manager Burch seeks games especially with the Boys' Club Flashes and he can be reached by telephoning West 1090.

BERLENBACH BADLY DEFEATED BY RISKO

up under the terrific pace. Risko smiled ni the sixth as he took several blows on the chin. The Clevelander was wild, and Berlenbach landed frequently, though his punches lacked hteir usual steam.

BERLENBACH took the aggressive in the seventh and began finding the range with his left to the jaw and body. Risko lunged with his left, but seldom landed cleanly. Three stiff rights to the jaw jarred Berlenbach in the eighth and the champion's knees were sagging as the bell ended a mauling setto.

Risko punished Paul about the head and body in the ninth and took the latter's counters with a grin.

The tenth round saw both gladiators slugging away at close range, neither yielding ground. Risko seemed wobbly after a succession of lefts to the jaw, but grinned and came back with a smashing right that sent Berlenbach staggering back. They were whaling away with both fists at the bell.

NOTICE, HUTCHINSON.

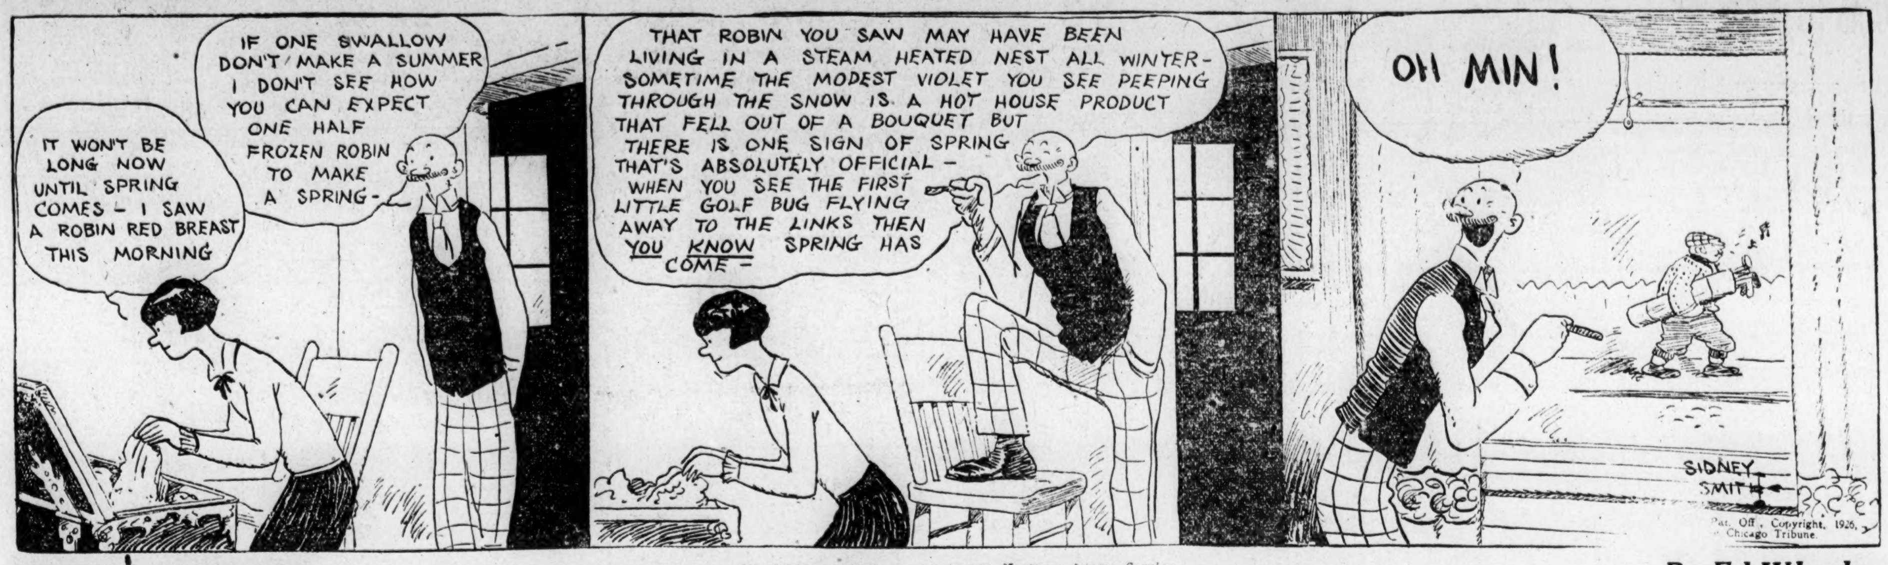
Manager Eddie Hutchinson, of the Dreamland team, is requested to telephone Manager Louis Rose, of the Smithfield team, at Franklin 2482 between 5 and 5:30 o'clock today.

ROYCES CHALLENGE.

Manager DeLand, of the Royce A. C. five, seeks a game for his fast-traveling courtmen to be played next Friday night. Team managers interested telephone him at Lincoln 7500-J.

THE GUMPS

The Sure Sign



IT WON'T BE LONG NOW UNTIL SPRING COMES - I SAW A ROBIN RED BREAST THIS MORNING
IF ONE SWALLOW DON'T MAKE A SUMMER I DON'T SEE HOW YOU CAN EXPECT ONE HALF FROZEN ROBIN TO MAKE A SPRING -
THAT ROBIN YOU SAW MAY HAVE BEEN LIVING IN A STEAM HEATED NEST ALL WINTER - SOMETIME THE MODEST VIOLET YOU SEE PEEPING THROUGH THE SNOW IS A HOT HOUSE PRODUCT THAT FELL OUT OF A BOUQUET BUT THERE IS ONE SIGN OF SPRING THAT'S ABSOLUTELY OFFICIAL - WHEN YOU SEE THE FIRST LITTLE GOLF BUG FLYING AWAY TO THE LINKS THEN YOU KNOW SPRING HAS COME - OH MIN!

ALL CLASSES OF BONDS SAG AS STOCKS SOFTEN

Selling Pressure Against Foreign Loans Eases; C. & O. Convertibles Gain.

HEAVINESS IN OIL ISSUES

New York, March 19 (By the Associated Press).—The bond market today sagged under the weight of liquidation promoted by the reaction in stock prices, confusing trade reports and the generally unsatisfactory European outlook. Supplies of both time and call money were plentiful and available in the outside market at rates below the official quotations at the stock exchange lending post, but this situation failed to arouse buying interest.

Selling pressure against foreign obligations was less marked than in recent sessions, but few of these bonds were able to attract buyers and most of the transactions were made at slightly lower levels. French issues were depressed by a drop in the franc to the lowest prices since 1924.

All classes of domestic corporation bonds were affected by the unsettlement which followed another outbreak of heavy selling in the stock market. The declines, while scattered throughout most of the list, were kept within relatively narrow limits.

Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s, responding to indications of a new Nickel Plate merger attempt, moved against the general trend of railroad bonds and sold more than a point higher. Erie Seaboard, Frisco, Missouri-Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio obligations encountered selling, and traction issues proved especially vulnerable in the public utility group.

Heaviness of the oil liens was reflected by a 3-point drop in Skelly 6½s.

Bankers announced that $7,500,000 Sao Paulo external water works 30-year 7 per cent bonds would be offered in this market next Tuesday at a price of 96½, simultaneously with the sale of £2,500,000 of the loan in London. Speyer Co. will head the American syndicate.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 19 (By A. P.).—Early advances were followed by reactions in the cotton market today, but prices firmed up again in late trading on trade buying and covering by early sellers. July contracts, which had sold off from 18.22 to 18.10, rallied to 18.25 and closed at 18.24, compared with 18.18 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed firm at a net advance of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Some selling, encouraged by prospects for warmer weather in the South, eased prices during midday, offerings increasing somewhat later on the weakness in stocks and grain. May sold off from 18.70, the early high level, to 18.60, and October declined to 17.45, net losses of about 5 to 8 points, but the market recovered in the last half hour, making new high prices for the day. May sold at 18.74 and October at 17.57, or 5 to 9 points net higher, and the close was within a point or two of the best.

Trade buying on a scale down from the high point of the morning helped to absorb the early afternoon offerings, and when early sellers turned for cover late in the afternoon, they evidently found a comparatively small supply of contracts.

Week-end statistics, showing a decrease of 132,523 bales in the world visible supply of American cotton for the week, compared with a loss of 162,594 for the same week last year, came in for some bearish comment, but evidently with little effect on the market.

The advance in Liverpool was attributed by private cables to trade calling and the firmer ruling of the market for Egyptian cotton.

Port receipts today, 12,812; United States port stocks, 1,204,310; exports, 20,104 making 6,363,654 so far this season.

THE THREE MUSKETEERS "Richelieu's Warning"

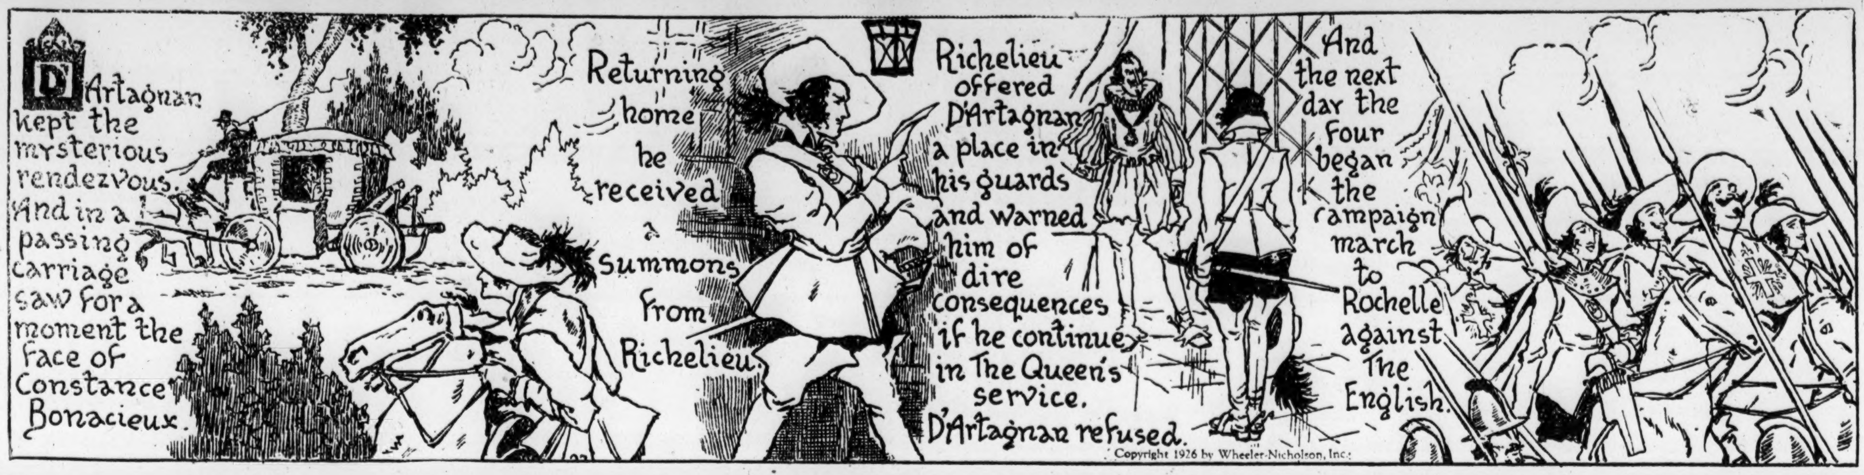
GREAT MYSTERY AND ADVENTURE SERIES
The Complete Novel in Daily Picture Installments

By ALEXANDER DUMAS
Continuity by Ruth J. Williams; Pictured by Nicholas Afonsky

Read this and follow the story:

D'Artagnan, Athos, Porthos and Aramis are supporters of the Queen. D'Artagnan's love, Constance Bonacieux, has been abducted by the Queen's enemies led by Richelieu. D'Artagnan receives a note bidding him watch the carriage on the Chaillot road.



D'Artagnan kept the mysterious rendezvous. And in a passing carriage saw for a moment the face of Constance Bonacieux.
Returning home he received a summons from Richelieu
Richelieu offered D'Artagnan a place in his guards and warned him of dire consequences if he continued in The Queen's service. D'Artagnan refused.
And the next day the four began the campaign march to Rochelle against the English.

D. 1926, that Sidney Sperber, Dina Laster, Molly Eisenberg, Dora Rauchwerger and all others concerned, appear in said court on MONDAY, the 26th day of April, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock a. m., to show cause why such application should not be granted. Let notice hereof be published in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post once in each of three successive weeks before the return day herein mentioned, the first publication to be not less than thirty days before said return day. F. L. SIDDONS, Justice. Attest: (Seal.) THEODORE COGSWELL, Deputy Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court. 20,23,ap3

HEADLIGHT CLAUSE PREVENTS DISTRICT ACQUIRING HIGHWAY

Law Provides Dimming of Lights on Conduit Road; Traffic Code Differs.

CORPORATION COUNSEL ASKED TO SOLVE TANGLE

Maj. R. A. Wheeler Plans Park in Center to Relieve Tunnel of Weight.

The proposal for the turning over of Conduit road by the War Department to the District government and to develop it into an ornamental boulevard has been halted by a conflict between Federal and District regulations concerning the dimming of automobile lights.

Maj. Raymond A. Wheeler, assistant to Engineer Comissioner Bell, has been advocating the project. For several years District residents have been petitioning for improvements along Conduit road, especially for sidewalks, to protect school children from traffic hazards.

Because the old water tunnel lies beneath the center of the road, the government has maintained jurisdiction. The District has not been able to improve it and the government has failed to do so. Maj. Wheeler undertook to have the District acquire the highway, but found that it was deemed unsafe to let more than a two-ton vehicle drive over the top of the tunnel.

Park Plan Devised.

He thereupon devised a plan for a park of 19 feet in the middle of the road, with paving for 31 feet on each side of the parkway and a 30-foot parkway on each side of the pavement. With the tunnel safeguarded against heavy traffic in this manner, the way seemed open to ask Congress for a bill turning the highway over to the District.

When preparation of the bill was begun in the office of Roland Brennan, chief clerk of the District engineering department, it was found that there is an act of Congress specifically applying to Conduit road requiring dimming of automobile lights meeting other vehicles.

This is forbidden by the District traffic code, which requires that headlights be adjusted to throw their bright beams on the road and that they be not dimmed except on well-lighted streets or on topping hillcrests.

Completion of the bill has been delayed pending an opinion by the corporation counsel as to whether it should contain a specific repeal of the act applying to dimmed lights on Conduit road or whether the blanket power of the director of traffic and the commissioners to promulgate traffic rules for District streets is sufficient.

East Washington Post Of Veterans Disbands

East Washington post, Veterans' of Foreign Wars, last night voted to disband at a meeting in the Metropolitan Bank building. Commander George Briggs was instructed to surrender the charter of the post, a Northeast organization, to District Commander Francis C. Huhn.

Members of the post were requested to affiliate with Columbia post. Many of the officers and members of the post have moved out of the city during the last year and it was for that reason that the remaining members decided to disband.

U. S. Pays Storage Co. For Holding Alcohol

The Ballard Storage Co., of Minneapolis, which "tipped off" prohibition authorities when it received 300 gallons of alcohol from bootleggers, was awarded its claim for $65.80, expenses by Comptroller General McCarl yesterday. At the same time McCarl announced that he would ask Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to correct such a "procedure."

A government disbursing officer had refused to pay more than $19. McCarl, in granting the full amount, said that the system was a bad one in that storage companies might call in prohibition agents only when delivery of the alcohol to the owner would be difficult or dangerous.

MRS. WYNNE FRENCH TO SHARE IN ESTATE

Will Receive $26,333 From Mother's Property Under Compromise Agreement.

By a compromise agreement ratified yesterday in equity court by Justice Siddons, Mrs. Mary Ida Wynne French, wife of Capt. Hugh Ronald French, of the English army, and daughter of the late Mrs. Mary Ellen Wynne, will receive $26,333 from the estate of her mother.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Wynne was the wife of Robert J. Wynne, former Postmaster General. The English trustees of the Wynne estate sued to recover under a marriage settlement contract entered into prior to the marriage of the daughter, Mary, to the English army officer.

The mother of Mary failed to provide for the carrying out of the terms of this contract in her will, and the suit by the English trustees against the American trustees and heirs followed. Attorneys Cromelin and Laws appeared for the American trustees, and Attorneys Minor, Gatley & Rowland appeared for the English trustees, and Hayden Johnson appeared for Mrs. French. The Wynne estate is valued at $180,000.

HITZ DISMISSES LIBEL SUIT AGAINST MELLON

Brewer's $500,000 Action Is Lost After Argument on Demurrer; Appeal Noted.

The $50,000 damage suit filed by Charles B. Brewer, former special assistant to the Attorney General, against Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, for alleged libel, was dismissed yesterday by Justice William Hitz in circuit court after a two-hour argument on a demurrer presented by Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Mr. Mellon. The latter was sued as an individual.

The suit was based on a letter written by Mr. Mellon on March 3, 1925, to President Coolidge, in which Mr. Mellon characterized Brewer's charges of bond duplication as absurd, and said other things which Mr. Brewer regarded as libelous.

Mr. Mellon's letter was also made a part of the Congressional Record for March 3, 1925, and hence became a privileged document which any person might use, quote or republished at will, it is said. Richard L. Merrick, counsel for Brewer, noted an appeal.

VAUGHN CLASS URGED TO RALLY FOR FAITH

Thirty-Fifth Banquet Is Addressed by Representative and Ministers.

A call to rally about Christian faith as a defense against doubt and denial was the keynote of several addresses before the thirty-fifth annual banquet of the Vaughn Bible class of Calvary Baptist church, Eighth and H streets northwest, last night in the church.

Representative W. M. Whittington, of Mississippi, said that "despite the greatness of our accomplishments and our learning, it is only through God that we are great as a nation." The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo said that the church should take the aggressive rather than deal in defense of religion. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, in what he termed his farewell address before the class, since he is leaving the presidency of Howard university to accept a church in Brooklyn, spoke on "Secret Sources of Strength."

The Rev. Percy L. Vernon delivered the invocation. Mrs. F. W. Vaughn, wife of the founder of the class, gave a greeting. Prof. Louis D. Bliss, teacher of the class, spoke. The Rev. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of the church, made an address. Mrs. Ethel Holtzclaw Gawler sang. Arthur B. Pierce gave readings. Carlos T. Furminger gave a cornet solo. John B. Abraham was toastmaster.

Proposed Sunday Law Condemned by Simon

Defending the American Sabbath as "the happy medium" between the gloomy Puritanical Sunday and the pleasure-seeking continental Sunday, the Rev. Abram Simon, of the Eighth Street temple, last night condemned additional legislation for the observance of Sunday in the District in a sermon at the Washington Hebrew congregation.

Rabbi Simon said present laws are adequate to cope with any infractions of Sunday observance in the National Capital. Washington "stands on a higher plane than most cities" as concerns its method of conforming with the American ideal of Sunday, he stated.

Golf Course to Open.

The East Potomac Park golf course will open tomorrow morning and buses to the course will start running then, it was announced from the office of public buildings and public parks of the National Capital yesterday. The Rock Creek park course will open March 27.

Heinz Co. Building Warehouse in City

Another large business firm has selected Washington as a distributing center for the South. The H. J. Heinz & Co., of Pittsburgh, is erecting a warehouse at Fifth and V streets northeast. The building will be two stories and a basement and will cover from 40,000 to 50,000 square feet of ground.

The Baltimore warehouse is being abandoned in favor of this one, which is the sixty-sixth branch of the Heinz Co. C. H. Rivers, representing the company, told the Washington Chamber of Commerce that they have recognized the importance and value of Washington as a distribution center over any other city in this section of the country.

SIX BIDS ARE OPENED ON GRADING PROJECTS

Mullin Co. Is Lowest on Four Jobs for Improving District Streets.

Bids for grading in connection with six street paving projects were opened yesterday at the District building. G. B. Mullin Co., Inc., quoted low prices on four of the jobs, the District Foundation Co. bidding lowest on the other two.

Mullin bid 41 cents a cubic yard for grading Cathedral avenue northwest, from Conduit road to Weaver place, and Firth Sterling avenue southeast between Howard and Stevens roads, and 39 cents for work in Garfield street northwest, from Tunlaw road to Forty-fourth street and in Rittenhouse street northwest, between Third and Fourth streets.

The District Foundation Co. offered to grade Randolph street northeast, east of Twenty-second street at 40 cents and Vista street northeast, between Walnut and Chestnut streets at 35 cents a cubic yard.

GIRL'S SLAYER GETS 20 YEARS IN PRISON

Alleged "Fly Crook" Given 15-Year Sentence for Housebreaking.

Edward Lewis, colored, charged with shooting and killing Gertrude Egerton last Christmas day at 818 Twenty-third street northwest, was sentenced to serve 20 years in prison yesterday by Justice Bailey for second degree murder. Lewis had quarreled with the woman at a dance, it is said.

Henry Aull, known to the police as a "fly crook," was sentenced to serve 15 years on a charge of housebreaking and larceny. He broke into the home of Robert M. Hughes, 1343 Fifteenth street northwest, on December 4 last and stole a quantity of personal belongings, police claim.

Clarence Sutton and Russell E. Hunter were sentenced to serve 10 years each on charges of assault with dangerous weapon.

Suspect in Robbery Identified by Clerk

Perry Austin Smith, 26 years old, 1900 S street northwest, was identified yesterday as the black-faced robber who entered the Schulte cigar store at Fifteenth and G streets Thursday night and held up Harry Myers, senior clerk, and obtained $300. Mrs. Florence Smith, wife of the alleged hold-up man, was also arrested and sent to the House of Detention for investigation yesterday.

Smith was identified by Myers at police headquarters. Police also learned that Smith served a year in the District jail for grand larceny resulting from a robbery of Keith's theater, where he is said to have been employed. He was arrested March 21, 1918. Smith denies that he was the man who robbed the cigar store Thursday night.

Woman Is Burned Extinguishing Blaze

Mrs. Lee E. Donohoe, 22 years old, 3303 Georgia avenue northwest, was burned slightly on the hands yesterday afternoon in an effort to remove a blazing curtain in her home. She refused hospital treatment. A spark from the chimney, it is believed, set fire to an awning and spread to the curtain in an upstairs room. Mrs. Donohoe endeavored to remove the curtain when she was burned. Firemen from No. 24 engine company extinguished the blaze.

Fire of undetermined origin in the tailor shop of D. W. Long, at 710 D street northwest, early yesterday caused damage estimated at more than $1,000. The damage was covered by insurance.

Trade Board Objects To Compromise Bill

The Washington Board of Trade strongly objected to the action of Commissioner J. Franklin Bell in submitting a compromise bill to the Senate District committee in regard to the extension of Fourteenth street, in a letter sent yesterday to all the commissioners.

The original bill in regard to the extension of Fourteenth street provided for street car and motor bus transportation to take care of rapidly growing territory in suburban Washington, according to the board's letter. In the "compromise bill," the board objects, there is no provision for street car or even motor bus transportation.

Anacostia Scouts Entertain Parents

An informal entertainment was given by the Girl Scouts of Anacostia to their parents in Emmanuel Episcopal hall, Thirteenth and V streets southeast, last night.

The entertainment was marked by games, while the girls had several surprise features arranged. Miss Vera Lawrence, captain of the scouts, was in charge of the affair.

ACTION ON FENNING INQUIRY IS AWAITING CHAIRMAN'S RETURN

Commissioner Declares No Bar Exists to His Holding Guardianships.

ACTS HERE FOR THREE INSURANCE CONCERNS

Madden Is Against Hasty Decision; Investigation Denied at Veterans' Bureau.

The question of whether the House veterans committee should take cognizance of Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning's practice of acting as guardian for mental patients in St. Elizabeths hospital yesterday awaited the return of Representative Royal C. Johnson, chairman.

Commissioner Fenning broke his silence for the first time last night. He made the following terse statement:

"I have absolute and complete justification for everything I have done or am doing."

Representative Gibson, of Vermont, who developed the matter Thursday, and Representative Rogers, of Massachusetts, who took it up in line with her long activities in behalf of world war veterans, decided not to await Mr. Johnson's return before seeking committee action.

Mr. Fenning talked with Senators Capper and King and Representative Hammer, of North Carolina, during the day. He is understood to have explained that there was no legal bar to his acting as guardian for patients and at the same time serving the District as commissioner. The District has no public guardian, he explained, and that his is therefore purely the pursuance of his professional practice as a lawyer.

Capper Not to Act.

Whether he talked with Chairman Madden of the House appropriations committee could not be ascertained.

Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, said that inasmuch as the charges had developed in the House, his committee would not go into them.

It was also revealed, in connection with the bitterness between rival insurance groups over the bill to establish an insurance code for the District, that Mr. Fenning is a licensed agent for three insurance companies. They are the Great American Insurance Co., the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Co. and the United States Fidelity & Guarantee Co.

So much wrangling has developed over the bill that the commissioners have withdrawn it from the Senate District committee. The National Fire Underwriters association has been conducting a lobby against the measure and recently has been joined by the Insurance Club of Washington.

The same fight was conducted last year and resulted in the resignation of the then insurance commissioner. It has resulted this year in a censorship being placed on T. M. Baldwin, insurance commissioner.

Amusing Incident in Committee.

W. C. Montgomery, president of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., has written Mr. Fenning charging that he surrended to "outside" interests in withdrawing the bill which the commissioners had previously approved.

What might be described as a faux pas was committed in the Senate District committee room incident to the consideration of local bills. Commissioner Fenning and Superintendent and Maj. Edwin B. Hesse were seated at the committee table.

James Tanner, veteran register of wills, walked in. He espied Maj. Hesse, but did not see Mr. Fenning.

"Hello, Ed," he shouted. "I see they've got Fenning on the pan."

Neither Maj. Hesse nor Mr. Fenning said anything.

Madden Awaits Report.

Mr. Madden, asserting that he was not going to be driven into any "hasty action by public clamor," said he had been informed that the veterans' bureau had investigated Mr. Fenning's connection with veterans and had made a report. The report is being held up, said Mr. Madden, because of the illness of Director Frank T. Hines.

This report, Mr. Madden said, will deal with the propriety of Mr. Fenning acting as guardian for mental patients as well as to his treatment of the cases. Asserting that he assumed it would be comprehensive, he planned to withhold action until it was forthcoming.

Officials of the veterans' bureau said yesterday that no investigation was being made of Commissioner Fenning's status as a guardian. An investigation was made some time ago, it was said, but nothing was found unfavorable to Fenning.

Maj. Davis G. Arnold, national guardianship officer of the veterans' bureau, said that he knew nothing of an investigation. Maj. John H. Cutter, assistant to Brig. Gen. Hines, the director, also denied knowledge of any investigation.

Records at the courthouse reveal that Commissioner Fenning is now guardian of 131 insane patients. The records also show that he was appointed guardian for 28 per cent of the persons committed between 1919 and 1926.

Sues Motor Company.

Edith M. Petrie, 3921 Fifth street northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the Wardman-Justice Motors, Inc., and the Wardman Motor Co. to recover $25,000 damages for the alleged illegal seizure of her automobile on October 2, 1925, at Eighteenth and D streets northwest. The automobile was recovered on a writ of replevin. Attorneys Earnest and Springston appeared for the plaintiff.
